Hot Spell Broken But Not Drought

Showers Bring Only Scattered, Meager Relief

CHICAGO (AP)—A cold front from Canada broke a marathon heat spell throughout much of the country Monday but produced only a meager outbreak of drought-easing showers.

Local rains cracked the drought, at least temporarily, in Upper Michigan and northern Missouri. Showers reduced the fire hazard somewhat in part of Illinois, Tennessee, New York and New Jersey.

But scattered showers elsewhere in the drought belt from the Southern plains to New England provided nothing more than a token sample of the moisture needed to replenish dwindling water supplies and halt the serious outbreak of forest and woodland fires.

Ginny May Bring Relief

Substantial rainfall and drought relief was forecast for southern and coastal areas of New England Tuesday, as hurricane Ginny passes by the area, but the weather outlook was for continued clear or partly cloudy skies from the Great Plains eastward to the Atlantic.

The easing of drought conditions in Upper Michigan prompted Gov. George W. Romney to withdraw his ban on fires in the area as of noon Monday. The lifting of the order issued Oct. 15 means hunters may build fires and smoke in the forests, fields and wild lands of Upper Michigan. However, the ban remains in effect in the Lower Peninsula.

Missouri Gets Rain

Fairly heavy rains over northern Missouri during the weekend relieved drought conditions somewhat in that area, although rainfall still is far below normal for the year. Recent rains also relieved drought conditions in central Kansas.

Up to three-quarters of an inch of rain fell in southern Illinois. The State Forest Service said the moisture had given fire

Priest Ends His Fast As War On Smut Promised

NEW YORK (AP)—A Catholic priest Monday night ended a fast of more than three days after assurances that the city will crack down on the sale of smutty literature to children.

The priest, who had the support of a rabbi and a Protestant minister, was fasting to protest widespread sales of what he called "cesspool literature."

Mayor Robert Wagner announced late Monday he had named Deputy Mayor Edward F. Cavanagh Jr. to head a drive against smutty literature and has ordered city officials to confer with the fasting priest, the Rev. Morton A. Hill.

Father Hill began his fast at 6 p.m. Friday, charging the mayor had not followed through on promises made last July to act against pornography. He said he would take only water until something is done.

Later Rabbi Julius G. Neumann anounced he was fasting Monday and would do so again Thursday and next Monday—in support of Father Hill's cause and in protest against Russian treatment of Jews.

Support for Father Hill's protest also came from a Lutheran minister, the Rev. R.E. Wittenberg, but he did not say he would fast.

Wagner's announcement said the city planned to do all it could to get pornography off the stands in newsstands and candy stores without violating "constitutional rights or freedoms."

The mayor said 86 arrests have been made in a police department crackdown that started Sept. 10 and warning notices are being sent to 786 stores.

Supreme Court Rebuffs Mobile

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Monday turned down Mobile's appeal from a school integration order which directed the Alabama community to proceed with desegregation this fall.

The Mobile County school board had asked the high court to hold hearings on its argument that integration would seriously disrupt the educational system that serves 75,000 children.

The Supreme Court rejected the request without comment.

Earlier this year, Justice Hugo L. Black had refused the school board's request that the lower court order by stayed pending appeal. Black, acting as an individual justice with jurisdiction over the federal court involved, bluntly commented that the board had known for nine years that it was conducting its schools in an unconstitutional manner.

74 Gold Miners Rescued After Elevator's Plunge

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Two elevator cages carrying 74 men plunged out of control down a mile-deep shaft of a gold mine Monday when a cable snapped. Officials reported all escaped without injury.

One worker on the surface was killed when the broken elevator cable snapped like a giant bullwhip.

Officials said 50 African and 4 white miners were in one of the elevators which plunged to the 1,000 - foot level before emergency equipment halted its plunge. They were brought to the surface with an emergency hoist after a rescue crew worked its way to them down a damaged shaft.

The second group of 5 white and 15 African miners plunged to the 5,000 - foot level before halting. There were fears that the men inside this cage had been hit by falling debris from shattered timbers but they used flashlights to signal they were all right.

The pit is the western deep levels mine at Carletonville about 50 miles from Johannesburg and is the most modern and biggest gold mine in South Africa. It also is reported to be one of the deepest mines in the world.

Fulbright Says Aid Slash Might Peril Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's foreign aid program came up for Senate debate Monday with an administration spokesman warning that any drastic cuts in the $4.2-billion bill might endanger national security.

This note was sounded by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, who urged a re-examination of the program, but not this year.

Another Democrat, Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, denounced the current authorization bill as shocking waste and "a body blow to the most vital defense weapon the American people possess; namely, their own economy."

The debate is expected to continue most of the week, with other foreign aid critics joining Morse in a drive to cut the program to the $3.5 billion approved by the House.

The House action cut a billion from the $4.5-billion figure submitted by Kennedy for the fiscal year ending next June 30. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee raised the authorization to $4.2 billion, which Fulbright has said is in line with the recommendations of a presidential committee headed by Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

The Clay committee called for a tightening of the aid program, and Fulbright told the Senate in opening debate on the bill that the administration should undertake a full-scale re-examination and "profound reappraisal" of foreign aid before submitting next year's program.

"We cannot tear up the blueprints before us and create a new structure on the floor of the Senate," Fulbright said. "Furthermore, I believe we might seriously jeopardize the national security if we were to slash deeply at the bill without reference to the existing framework obligations and objectives."

Fulbright argued that the Communist bloc "has been fought to better than a standstill" under the foreign aid program, despite its shortcomings.

Moroccans Push Deeper Into Sahara

Hassan Strengthens His Hand For Peace Talks Opening Today

MARRAKECH, Morocco (AP) —The government said Monday that Moroccan troops have moved into the Algerian-held Sahara, pushing close to the ore center of Tindouf. The move was seen as a bid to strengthen the hand of King Hassan II at peace talks Tuesday in Mali.

Fear mounted among Western diplomats that the undeclared frontier war between Algeria and Morocco might turn into a conflict between East and West. Western embassies in North Africa have dispatched alarming reports of sizable arrivals of Soviet weapons in Algerian ports aboard Cuban and Egyptian freighters.

UAR Troops Report Doubted

There were some reports that the United Arab Republic was sending three shiploads of parachute troops recently withdrawn from Yemen.

In Cairo, official papers lent credence to the reports by publishing the dispatches from abroad that Egyptian troops and arms were heading for Algeria. Diplomats in Cairo said President Gamal Abdel Nasser may be sending arms but they doubted he was sending troops.

Both Morocco and Algeria openly seek peace. King Hassan is reported to have assured Western diplomats his immediate concern is to obtain a cease-fire in the Sahara where his troops nevertheless were reported pushing forward.

Hassan Sees U. S. Envoy

U.S. Ambassador John Ferguson was among those received by the king. The American diplomat expressed the U.S. government's hope that a cease-fire will be speedily imposed.

But while Ferguson was with the king, a terse Moroccan communique announced that its troops were eight miles from Tindouf, an area of important iron ore and coal deposits so far little exploited. Tindouf shows on international maps as being about 60 miles inside Algeria.

Morocco has long claimed the area as its territory, saying it was artificially attached to Algeria by France when both Morocco and Algeria were under French domination.

Dahomey Army Seizes Control

COTONOU, Dahomey (AP) — The commander of Dahomey's 800-man army seized control of the government Monday following workers' demands for the ouster of the West African nation's first and only president, Hubert Maga.

The workers, in the fourth day of a general strike, had succeeded in forcing Maga to dissolve the government but the president, his vice president and another minister formed a provisional government Sunday.

Col. Christophe Soglo, the armed forces chief of staff, had proclaimed his loyalty to the provisional government.

But in a reversal Monday, Soglo seized power. First reports said the National Assembly was dissolved.

Before Soglo made his move, 1,000 strikers paraded past Maga's elaborate new palace. Troops diverted 3,000 others into side streets. Most of the demonstrators were peaceful. One group ripped a sign bearing Maga's name from a hospital.

Mysterious Beauty

Tom Connally, Texas Senator 24 Years, Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Old Tom Connally of Texas, one of the most colorful, powerful and razor-tongued senators of them all, died Monday at the age of 86.

The former chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, who had lived quietly in Washington since he quit the Senate in 1953, had been ailing for years. His wife was at his bedside when he died.

Tall, courtly, with his bow tie and rumpled suits, his careless, flowing hair, his wit that could hit the mark as neatly as an icepick or as cruelly as a meat axe — Tom Connally seemed born for the Senate.

It's surprising to recall that he ever had any other life, that he had spent 10 years in the House, that he had served in both the Spanish-American War and World War I, although he never got overseas either time.

"I have been in more wars and done less fighting than any other American," he once said.

Connally saved his fighting for the Senate, where he spent 24 often tempestuous years, usually attacking the Republicans, sometimes pouring it on his own Democratic party and occasionally spanking the "striped britches" State Department.

His oratorical flights are out of style, but even in cold print, they have an effectiveness lacking in the pallid words so often used now.

Here's Connally, arguing that this country must join the United Nations and seeking to shame those opposed:

"They know that the League of Nations was slaughtered here in this chamber." At this point he pulled off his glasses and pointed to the rear of the Senate. "Can't you see the blood? There it is on the wall."

Or, if you would sample his wit, here's Connally squashing a foe in debate:

"The senator should approach these matters with an open mind instead of an open mouth."

Ginny Menaces New England

NEW YORK (UPI) — A hurricane watch was declared for the eastern two thirds of Long Island Monday night as Hurricane Ginny, carrying 95-mile-an-hour winds at its core, churned menacingly up the Atlantic and posed a threat to southeastern New England.

A weather bureau advisory shortly after 10 p.m. EST located Ginny about 310 miles southeast of New York City, moving in a northerly direction. The city was not expected to be hit by the hurricane, but the weather bureau warned eastern Long Island to expect winds of 50 to 60 m.p.h.

General Motors Reports Record Sales, Earnings

NEW YORK (AP)—General Motors Corp. reported Monday profits of $1,086,000,000 and sales of $11,681,000,000 for the nine months ended Sept. 30. They were the highest GM has reported for any comparable period.

The glowing results spurred speculation of a boost in the 50-cents quarterly dividend rate, a year-end extra dividend, or possibly a stock split when GM directors meet next Monday.

The figures reflected a continuing boom in the automobile industry, at home and overseas, that has led to a succession of production and sales records.

The GM earnings and sales levels eclipsed previous high marks of $962 million and $10,451,000,000 posted in the first nine months last year.

Only American Telephone & Telegraph Co., a regulated utility, ever returned a higher net income for the first three quarters of a fiscal year. In the nine months ended Aug. 31, 1963, AT&T earned $1,130,301,000.

On a per share basis, GM earnings were 72 cents for the third quarter and $3.79 for the first three quarters this year.

San Quentin "Sympathy" Strike Ends

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) —Jeering convict pickets triggered a brief, surprise sympathy strike of San Quentin Prison's 4,000 inmates Monday. It was in support of a strike at California's Folsom Prison for more pay and shorter terms.

Monday's strike lasted only a little over an hour. Then a few convicts began showing up at the San Quentin shops. The number grew as the day progressed.

At Folsom Prison about a third of the 2,321 convicts who staged the pay-term strike last week still refused to go back to work Monday. But Folsom officials were confident that the strike there had been broken.

San Quentin officials got the first word of trouble brewing when some 50 convict pickets turned back the first inmates reporting for work. All convicts were told they would lose recreation yard and television privileges if they refused to work.

By midday nearly half of the convicts were back in the shops, and all prison industries were operating on a partial basis.

A week ago some convicts at Folsom Prison called a strike to protest the long terms given violent offenders and to demand higher pay than the 3½ to 4 cents an hour they were getting.

Solar Miracle Rumor Draws Saigon Crowds

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A prediction that the sun would miraculously revolve in the sky draw large crowds Monday into streets near the Saigon central market andU.S. Embassy Combat police quickly dispersed the sun watchers.

According to the prediction, which has been making the rounds of this nervous and superstitious capital since Friday, the abnormal motion of the sun would be sign of a Buddhist miracle.

The watchers—office workers, shoppers and strollers — gathered by the hundreds at street corners and traffic circles in the downtown area.

Police were especially alert for trouble because of Sunday's flaming suicide of a Buddhist monk in front of the Roman Catholic Cathedral, and riot squads sprang into action. The crowds dispersed quickly however and no violence was reported.

Officials said that they felt more serious matters were at stake than sun-watching. One said he believed the superstitious rumor had been spread as a test, to see how fastcrowds could be assembled at key places in the city.

He said he felt Saigon's Buddhist and student underground may be planning major demonstrations.

The view was corroborated in a 21-page document reported sent by the Buddhist underground here to the United Nations mission studying charges of government persecution of Buddhists.

The document, in English, said, "Many monks and nuns will burn themselves to protest against the cruel policy if they cannot escape from the present tragic situation." Seven have done so since June.

Kennedy Acts To Terminate House Revolt

Compromise Wins Over Some Holdouts For Stronger Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration put together Monday a new civil rights package that may end the House Judiciary Committee's long fight over the legislation.

At a White House meeting with Democratic leaders of the House, President Kennedy outlined a program that apparently won over some committee members who have been holding out for a subcommittee bill going well beyond administration proposals.

The House Republican leadership has been in active negotiation with the administration over the new proposals and is reported to be in general agreement with them.

Committee To Vote

The success of Kennedy's attempt to weld a bipartisan base for the bill will be determined Tuesday when the committee votes on the subcommittee bill. The administration regards the subcommittee version as so drastic that it could not be passed in the House.

Details on what the President now is proposing were lacking, but it was learned it will include all the administration's original proposals although in altered form in some cases.

In addition, it will provide for limited powers for the attorney general to intervene in civil rights cases and for a Fair Employment Practices Commission.

Provisions Toned Down

The latter two were among the more controversial items added to the administration bill by the subcommittee, but they reportedly have been much more narrowly drawn in the new proposals.

Another controversial provision — one banning racial discrimination in places of public accommodation — was scaled down also to exempt retail stores, it was understood.

Before Kennedy stepped in to block the subcommittee bill last Thursday a bipartisan majority of the committee was prepared to approve it. But now aclose vote is in prospect, and at least one of the holdouts conceded the battle for the broader bill has been lost.

Freedom Costs German His Leg

LUECHOW, Germany (AP) — Two brothers escaped across the mined and barricaded East German frontier Monday night, but only after one of them lost a leg to a land mine.

West German border patrolmen said the two, 18 and 20 years old, crawled over the mined death strip toward the last barbed wire and concrete barricade separating them from West German territory.

Suddenly a land mine exploded, ripping off a leg of the 18-year-old and severely injuring his other leg.

The older brother used his belt to apply a tourniquet. He then crawled to West Berlin territory to alert border patrolmen. Then he returned to the death strip and pulled his injured brother into West Germany.

Case Of German Beauty Linked To Bobby Baker Probe

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — A demand that the government tell all about a mysterious German beauty, said to have moved in high political circles here before being yanked back to Germany, sounded Monday on the eve of the Robert G. Baker investigation.

Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, demanded that the administration publicize the circumstances surrounding the sudden departure in August 1963 of the statuesque brunette, identified by the West German Defense Ministry as Elly Rometsch, 27.

"Members of Congress and the public are entitled to know whether there was any element of security violation concerned in this speedy and hitherto unpublicized deportation," Gross said in a House speech to which there was no immediate Democratic reaction.

Gross linked the case of the German woman with the Senate investigation, opening Tuesday, of the complex outside business interests of Baker, onetime Senate page boy who rose to power as secretary of Senate Democrats and then suddenly resigned under fire.

However, the doings of Mrs. Rometsch are not expected to figure in the Baker inquiry, at least in the early stages.

One allegation being looked into is that Baker used influence to press big defense contractors to install machines vending coffee, sandwiches and other items and that he was heavily interested in the company owning the machines. Baker has denied pressure tactics.

Unconfirmed stories going the rounds were that some members of "the Bobby Baker set" were on good terms with Mrs. Rometsch. She also was said to have been seen often at the Quorum Club, of which Baker was a charter member and which has been an elegant gathering place for lobbyists and members of Congress. However employes available at the club Monday insisted they had never heard of her.

Mrs. Rometsch came to Washington April 6, 1961. Her husband, a sergeant, had been assigned to a West German military mission here.

In Bonn a spokesman for the West German Defense Ministry said the sergeant had been recalled home in August 1963 on the basis of intelligence reports about his wife's personal behavior. She also went back to Germany.

Officials said her departure followed a quiet investigation by the FBI. They said she was not deported.

The German Defense Ministry spokesman said the woman had not had any contacts with persons from the Soviet bloc and "the whole thing seems harmless."

Since returning home, the spokesman said, the couple have separated, and the husband is suing for divorce.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., who introduced a resolution for an investigation of congressional employes' conduct, will be the first witness Tuesday before the Rules Committee, named to conduct the Baker inquiry.

Rescuers Drive Big Drill Toward Trapped Miners

PEINE, Germany (UPI) — Rescue crews drove the bit of a huge oil well drill deep into rocky soil Monday in an attempt to reach three men trapped since last Thursday in a cold, watery mine pocket.

"You'd better get us out of here by tonight," one of the miners said via a telephone line which was dropped through a narrow supply hole drilled earlier.

But mine officials said the drill, producing a two-foot hole big enough to bring the men to the surface, could not push through to the pocket 262 feet underground until Wednesday at the earliest. The job may take until Thursday.

"It would be too cruel to reveal the truth to the men," said Rudolph Steub, manager of the Mathilde Iron Mine.

There were 129 men on the job Thursday when tons of water cascaded into the mine's honeycomb of tunnels. Seventy-nine scrambled to safety minutes after the disaster — one of Germany's worst — and seven were rescued Friday. Hope for 39 trapped at the lowest level, 300 feet, has been abandoned.

The three trapped men revealed Monday that their foreman, Karl Eull, gave his life in a futile effort to save his miners. When the water poured into the shaft, they said, Eull was on the way to a toll depot at a higher level.

Eull saw the churning mass of muddy water roaring into the main shaft and ran to the tunnel where the men were working to warn them, but was caught in the torrent before he could get there. His body has not been recovered.

The story was verified by other survivors, Stueb said.

The three trapped men reported they could hear the big drill and apparently were certain that rescue was imminent.

Priest Ends His Fast As War On Smut Promised

NEW YORK (AP)—A Catholic priest Monday night ended a fast of more than three days after assurances that the city will crack down on the sale of smutty literature to children.

The priest, who had the support of a rabbi and a Protestant minister, was fasting to protest widespread sales of what he called "cesspool literature."

Mayor Robert Wagner announced late Monday he had named Deputy Mayor Edward F. Cavanagh Jr. to head a drive against smutty literature and has ordered city officials to confer with the fasting priest, the Rev. Morton A. Hill.

Father Hill began his fast at 6 p.m. Friday, charging the mayor had not followed through on promises made last July to act against pornography. He said he would take only water until something is done.

Later Rabbi Julius G. Neumann anounced he was fasting Monday and would do so again Thursday and next Monday—in support of Father Hill's cause and in protest against Russian treatment of Jews.

Support for Father Hill's protest also came from a Lutheran minister, the Rev. R.E. Wittenberg, but he did not say he would fast.

Wagner's announcement said the city planned to do all it could to get pornography off the stands in newsstands and candy stores without violating "constitutional rights or freedoms."

The mayor said 86 arrests have been made in a police department crackdown that started Sept. 10 and warning notices are being sent to 786 stores.

Supreme Court Rebuffs Mobile

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Monday turned down Mobile's appeal from a school integration order which directed the Alabama community to proceed with desegregation this fall.

The Mobile County school board had asked the high court to hold hearings on its argument that integration would seriously disrupt the educational system that serves 75,000 children.

The Supreme Court rejected the request without comment.

Earlier this year, Justice Hugo L. Black had refused the school board's request that the lower court order by stayed pending appeal. Black, acting as an individual justice with jurisdiction over the federal court involved, bluntly commented that the board had known for nine years that it was conducting its schools in an unconstitutional manner.

"We cannot tear up the blueprints before us and create a new structure on the floor of the Senate," Fulbright said. "Furthermore, I believe we might seriously jeopardize the national security if we were to slash deeply at the bill without reference to the existing framework obligations and objectives."

Fulbright argued that the Communist bloc "has been fought to better than a standstill" under the foreign aid program, despite its shortcomings.

Dahomey Army Seizes Control

COTONOU, Dahomey (AP) — The commander of Dahomey's 800-man army seized control of the government Monday following workers' demands for the ouster of the West African nation's first and only president, Hubert Maga.

The workers, in the fourth day of a general strike, had succeeded in forcing Maga to dissolve the government but the president, his vice president and another minister formed a provisional government Sunday.

Col. Christophe Soglo, the armed forces chief of staff, had proclaimed his loyalty to the provisional government.

But in a reversal Monday, Soglo seized power. First reports said the National Assembly was dissolved.

Tom Connally, Texas Senator 24 Years, Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Old Tom Connally of Texas, one of the most colorful, powerful and razor-tongued senators of them all, died Monday at the age of 86.

The former chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, who had lived quietly in Washington since he quit the Senate in 1953, had been ailing for years. His wife was at his bedside when he died.

Tall, courtly, with his bow tie and rumpled suits, his careless, flowing hair, his wit that could hit the mark as neatly as an icepick or as cruelly as a meat axe — Tom Connally seemed born for the Senate.

It's surprising to recall that he ever had any other life, that he had spent 10 years in the House, that he had served in both the Spanish-American War and World War I, although he never got overseas either time.

"I have been in more wars and done less fighting than any other American," he once said.

Connally saved his fighting for the Senate, where he spent 24 often tempestuous years, usually attacking the Republicans, sometimes pouring it on his own Democratic party and occasionally spanking the "striped britches" State Department.

His oratorical flights are out of style, but even in cold print, they have an effectiveness lacking in the pallid words so often used now.

Here's Connally, arguing that this country must join the United Nations and seeking to shame those opposed:

"They know that the League of Nations was slaughtered here in this chamber." At this point he pulled off his glasses and pointed to the rear of the Senate. "Can't you see the blood? There it is on the wall."

Or, if you would sample his wit, here's Connally squashing a foe in debate:

"The senator should approach these matters with an open mind instead of an open mouth."

Ginny Menaces New England

NEW YORK (UPI) — A hurricane watch was declared for the eastern two thirds of Long Island Monday night as Hurricane Ginny, carrying 95-mile-an-hour winds at its core, churned menacingly up the Atlantic and posed a threat to southeastern New England.

A weather bureau advisory shortly after 10 p.m. EST located Ginny about 310 miles southeast of New York City, moving in a northerly direction. The city was not expected to be hit by the hurricane, but the weather bureau warned eastern Long Island to expect winds of 50 to 60 m.p.h.

General Motors Reports Record Sales, Earnings

NEW YORK (AP)—General Motors Corp. reported Monday profits of $1,086,000,000 and sales of $11,681,000,000 for the nine months ended Sept. 30. They were the highest GM has reported for any comparable period.

The glowing results spurred speculation of a boost in the 50-cents quarterly dividend rate, a year-end extra dividend, or possibly a stock split when GM directors meet next Monday.

The figures reflected a continuing boom in the automobile industry, at home and overseas, that has led to a succession of production and sales records.

The GM earnings and sales levels eclipsed previous high marks of $962 million and $10,451,000,000 posted in the first nine months last year.

Only American Telephone & Telegraph Co., a regulated utility, ever returned a higher net income for the first three quarters of a fiscal year. In the nine months ended Aug. 31, 1963, AT&T earned $1,130,301,000.

On a per share basis, GM earnings were 72 cents for the third quarter and $3.79 for the first three quarters this year.

Solar Miracle Rumor Draws Saigon Crowds

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A prediction that the sun would miraculously revolve in the sky draw large crowds Monday into streets near the Saigon central market andU.S. Embassy Combat police quickly dispersed the sun watchers.

According to the prediction, which has been making the rounds of this nervous and superstitious capital since Friday, the abnormal motion of the sun would be sign of a Buddhist miracle.

The watchers—office workers, shoppers and strollers — gathered by the hundreds at street corners and traffic circles in the downtown area.

Police were especially alert for trouble because of Sunday's flaming suicide of a Buddhist monk in front of the Roman Catholic Cathedral, and riot squads sprang into action. The crowds dispersed quickly however and no violence was reported.

Officials said that they felt more serious matters were at stake than sun-watching. One said he believed the superstitious rumor had been spread as a test, to see how fastcrowds could be assembled at key places in the city.

He said he felt Saigon's Buddhist and student underground may be planning major demonstrations.

The view was corroborated in a 21-page document reported sent by the Buddhist underground here to the United Nations mission studying charges of government persecution of Buddhists.

The document, in English, said, "Many monks and nuns will burn themselves to protest against the cruel policy if they cannot escape from the present tragic situation." Seven have done so since June.

Freedom Costs German His Leg

LUECHOW, Germany (AP) — Two brothers escaped across the mined and barricaded East German frontier Monday night, but only after one of them lost a leg to a land mine.

West German border patrolmen said the two, 18 and 20 years old, crawled over the mined death strip toward the last barbed wire and concrete barricade separating them from West German territory.

Suddenly a land mine exploded, ripping off a leg of the 18-year-old and severely injuring his other leg.

The older brother used his belt to apply a tourniquet. He then crawled to West Berlin territory to alert border patrolmen. Then he returned to the death strip and pulled his injured brother into West Germany.

74 Gold Miners Rescued After Elevator's Plunge

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Two elevator cages carrying 74 men plunged out of control down a mile-deep shaft of a gold mine Monday when a cable snapped. Officials reported all escaped without injury.

One worker on the surface was killed when the broken elevator cable snapped like a giant bullwhip.

Officials said 50 African and 4 white miners were in one of the elevators which plunged to the 1,000 - foot level before emergency equipment halted its plunge. They were brought to the surface with an emergency hoist after a rescue crew worked its way to them down a damaged shaft.

The second group of 5 white and 15 African miners plunged to the 5,000 - foot level before halting. There were fears that the men inside this cage had been hit by falling debris from shattered timbers but they used flashlights to signal they were all right.

The pit is the western deep levels mine at Carletonville about 50 miles from Johannesburg and is the most modern and biggest gold mine in South Africa. It also is reported to be one of the deepest mines in the world.

Case Of German Beauty Linked To Bobby Baker Probe

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — A demand that the government tell all about a mysterious German beauty, said to have moved in high political circles here before being yanked back to Germany, sounded Monday on the eve of the Robert G. Baker investigation.

Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, demanded that the administration publicize the circumstances surrounding the sudden departure in August 1963 of the statuesque brunette, identified by the West German Defense Ministry as Elly Rometsch, 27.

"Members of Congress and the public are entitled to know whether there was any element of security violation concerned in this speedy and hitherto unpublicized deportation," Gross said in a House speech to which there was no immediate Democratic reaction.

Gross linked the case of the German woman with the Senate investigation, opening Tuesday, of the complex outside business interests of Baker, onetime Senate page boy who rose to power as secretary of Senate Democrats and then suddenly resigned under fire.

However, the doings of Mrs. Rometsch are not expected to figure in the Baker inquiry, at least in the early stages.

One allegation being looked into is that Baker used influence to press big defense contractors to install machines vending coffee, sandwiches and other items and that he was heavily interested in the company owning the machines. Baker has denied pressure tactics.

Unconfirmed stories going the rounds were that some members of "the Bobby Baker set" were on good terms with Mrs. Rometsch. She also was said to have been seen often at the Quorum Club, of which Baker was a charter member and which has been an elegant gathering place for lobbyists and members of Congress. However employes available at the club Monday insisted they had never heard of her.

Mrs. Rometsch came to Washington April 6, 1961. Her husband, a sergeant, had been assigned to a West German military mission here.

In Bonn a spokesman for the West German Defense Ministry said the sergeant had been recalled home in August 1963 on the basis of intelligence reports about his wife's personal behavior. She also went back to Germany.

Officials said her departure followed a quiet investigation by the FBI. They said she was not deported.

The German Defense Ministry spokesman said the woman had not had any contacts with persons from the Soviet bloc and "the whole thing seems harmless."

Since returning home, the spokesman said, the couple have separated, and the husband is suing for divorce.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., who introduced a resolution for an investigation of congressional employes' conduct, will be the first witness Tuesday before the Rules Committee, named to conduct the Baker inquiry.

Rescuers Drive Big Drill Toward Trapped Miners

PEINE, Germany (UPI) — Rescue crews drove the bit of a huge oil well drill deep into rocky soil Monday in an attempt to reach three men trapped since last Thursday in a cold, watery mine pocket.

"You'd better get us out of here by tonight," one of the miners said via a telephone line which was dropped through a narrow supply hole drilled earlier.

But mine officials said the drill, producing a two-foot hole big enough to bring the men to the surface, could not push through to the pocket 262 feet underground until Wednesday at the earliest. The job may take until Thursday.

"It would be too cruel to reveal the truth to the men," said Rudolph Steub, manager of the Mathilde Iron Mine.

There were 129 men on the job Thursday when tons of water cascaded into the mine's honeycomb of tunnels. Seventy-nine scrambled to safety minutes after the disaster — one of Germany's worst — and seven were rescued Friday. Hope for 39 trapped at the lowest level, 300 feet, has been abandoned.

The three trapped men revealed Monday that their foreman, Karl Eull, gave his life in a futile effort to save his miners. When the water poured into the shaft, they said, Eull was on the way to a toll depot at a higher level.

Eull saw the churning mass of muddy water roaring into the main shaft and ran to the tunnel where the men were working to warn them, but was caught in the torrent before he could get there. His body has not been recovered.

The story was verified by other survivors, Stueb said.

The three trapped men reported they could hear the big drill and apparently were certain that rescue was imminent.

Fraud Case Judge Won't Step Aside

Motions For Separate Trials Refused

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A federal judge refused to disqualify himself or to order separate trials for two of the three defendants as a new chapter in Maryland's savings and loan mail fraud case opened in District Court Monday.

And one defendant, Chicago financier C. Oran Mensik was still shopping for new defense counsel at the end of a session in which a list of 60 potential jurors was examined.

Twenty-three on the list were retained and Judge Roszel C. Thomsen expressed the belief a jury could be sworn Wednesday to try the case transferred here last week from Baltimore. Tuesday a new list of 50 prospective jurors will be examined to get a screened list of 38 from which the final 12 and four alternates will be selected.

Judge Thomsen indicated the Richmond chapter in the marathon litigation would be another long one—at least two months.

Mensik and a co-defendant, Chicago attorney Henry McGurren were on hand as the trial opened. The third defendant, D. Spencer Grow, savings and loan operator from Provo, Utah, was represented only by counsel. The judge said it was understood Grow would be present Wednesday.

The three and A. Gordon Boone, self-suspended speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates, were indicted for mail fraud in the operation of the now defunct Security Financial Insurance Corp. which they set up to insure the deposits in 15 savings and loan associations.

Boone will be tried later in Baltimore without a jury.

Before the slow process of selecting prospective jurors began, Mensik told the court he was ill during the proceedings in Baltimore and wasn't aware of what was going on when it was decided to shift the trial to Richmond.

He asked for a rehearing before Chief Judge Simon E. Sobeloff of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, that Judge Thomsen disqualify himself because of bias, and that he be given 30 days to find a new attorney.

Mensik said he was discharging his attorney, E.J. Callahan of Chicago, because their viewpoints were "at an impasse." Callahan said in view of this he would withdraw from the case.

Judge Thomsen denied the other motions and said he would give Mensik a week to shop for counsel, but Callahan was the attorney of record in the case and would continue on that basis for the present.

Triple Slayer Surrenders At Cleveland

CLEVELAND, (AP) — A 32-year-old Baltimore postal worker walked into central police headquarters here Monday and said he had killed his wife and two sons last Friday night at his home, homicide detectives said.

Ollie J. Wilkins was being held in jail pending arrival of Baltimore officers. Detectives said he told of strangling his wife at their home after an argument and placing her body on a bed upstairs. At first he said nothing about the children, but later admitted he also had killed them, officers said.

He caught a 9:15 p.m. bus from Baltimore and arrived in Cleveland Saturday morning, Wilkins said. Detectives said the Baltimore man, who had been married for nine years, gave no details on the deaths of his two children.

A 13-state alert was issued for Wilkins after his wife, Doris, 32, was found strangled in a closet of the Wilkins' northwest Baltimore home.

Police found the boys—Keith, 8, and Kerwin, 2 — dead in a bathtub full of water. The medical examiner, Dr. Russell Fischer, said Keith had been strangled. The younger boy, he said had drowned.

Man Accused Of Raping Girl He Hypnotized

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A dapper, mustached psychology consultant was arrested Monday on a charge of raping a teen-aged girl under hypnosis.

The chief deputy trial prosecutor said three housewives in their 20's and 30's had also told of being assaulted under hypnosis.

The 45-year-old consultant, Egbert L. Pfeiffer, was arrested at his office on a statuatory rape indictment.

The deputy prosecutor, Leroy K. New, said the girl told him the state of Indiana was paying half of the cost of her treatment by Pfeiffer. A female parole officer referred the girl to Pfeiffer, New said.

New said Pfeiffer allegedly used a mustard seed ball on a chain to hypnotize his patients and control their responses.

Pfeiffer, who identified himself as executive vice president of Management Research, Inc., has lectured extensively before high schools in Indianapolis and has placed pupils under hypnosis in demonstrations, New said.

Authorities did not identify the girl involved, who was 15 when her visits to Pfeiffer's office began in May, according to the deputy prosecutor.

Two Baltimoreans Die In Auto Crash

BALTIMORE (AP)—Two Baltimore men were killed and one was injured Monday when their car plowed into the back of a pickup truck in suburban Halethorpe.

The dead were identified as George A. Hill, 59, and Sidney Satchell.

In fair condition in St. Agnes Hospital was George E. Clarke, 50.

The deaths raised Maryland's highway fatality count to 471, one less than a year ago at this time.

N.Y. Cafe Serves Free Champagne During Drought

NEW YORK (AP) — A mid-Manhattan restaurant began serving free champagne Monday instead of water because of the city's water shortage.

Along with the sparkling brew in the water glasses, the cafe gave customers notes saying:

"With apologies of the management, during the water shortage, champagne will serve as a substitute. Please bear with us."

Manager Ronnie Drinkhouse said he would continue the policy until it rains enough to end the drought.

fighters their first breathing spell from field and timber fires since mid-September.

Occasional light rain moved into New England, and more rain was forecast for Tuesday in Maine's worst drought section, south of Lewiston.

Cool Canadian air streaming across the relatively warm waters of Lake Michigan touched off a freak mixture of waterspouts, funnel clouds and golf-ball-size hail in northwestern Lower Michigan.

But woodland fires still burned in parts of the East and Midwest, and no appreciable rain was in prospect for the next five days in New York state, one of the areas hardest hit by the drought.

Harley Lawhead, chief of the Great Lakes hydraulics branch in the North Central Division office, Corps of Engineers, reported that the level of the Great Lakes has dropped because of the 1963 drought.

He said the surface levels of Lakes Michigan and Huron are a foot lower than a year ago, Erie is down ¾ of a foot, and Lakes Superior and Ontario are down ¼ foot.

Officials of West Virginia said scattered showers that fell in that state Monday were insufficient for a lifting of the ban on hunting in open forests. Ten West Virginia counties have been declared disaster areas, and the State Agriculture Department asked that the entire state be put in that status.

PENALTY FOR PHENOMENAL GROWTH—Several weeks ago, 15-year-old Betsy Packer, daughter of a Hagerstown, Md., physician, grew 2¼ inches in three hours. That was the length of time required for surgery to currect a spinal curvature at Children's Hospital, Baltimore. Now she pays the penalty for that sudden growth by facing six months abed in a body cast, attending school via telephone hookup with her classmates at South Hagerstown High. Betsy, who made the decision to have surgery herself, says her new stature is worth the cost. (AP Photofax)

Argentine Leader Seeks To Calm Oil Policy Storm

EDITOR'S NOTE—AP diplomatic writer John M. Hightower is touring Latin America. In an interview with Argentina's new president, Dr. Arutro P. Illia, he obtained the government's official viewpoint on a sticky problem in relations with the United States—foreign oil contracts.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — President Arturo U. Illia says Argentina will cancel undesirable foreign oil contracts but that it has no intention of throwing out all foreign oil companies — most of them American.

In fact, he said in an interview, his government wants cooperation of the United States and other countries in development of Argentina's oil operations.

Thus, the 63-year-old country doctor tried to calm an international storm that has blown up over his announced oil policy.

Illia emphatically affirmed after two weeks in office what he had said during his election campaign and in his inaugural speech Oct. 12—that various oil contracts "will be annuled" — but he also offered new assurances in an evident personal attempt to stem the quarrel with the United States.

"The action will be taken in accordance with our law and constitution," he said. "There will be indemification. We will not take violent measures against anyone. The government will act in accordance with legal standards."

He said his government's objectives were exactly summed up in these words: "The Argentine government has no intention of throwing out the foreign oil companies but only intends to annul those contracts which it considers are contrary to its policy."

Last week, Foreign Minister Miguel Angel Zavala Ortiz warned in another interview that a retaliatory crackdown by Washington on aid to Argentina could "destroy what little faith there is in the Alliance for Progress."

U.S. oil men here, also showing concern, have formed a council to try to protect their companies' interests. They began conferences with Illia administration officials Friday.

Said one high U.S. official: "We are working to find a solution so the Argentine can save his face and the American can save his skin."

Illia offered publicly for the first time an explanation of his approach to the oil controversy. The dispute has already resulted in a proposal in the U.S. Senate to deny U.S. aid to Argentina, a move which stirred anger in government and business circle in Buenos Aires.

Illia took the position that Argentina's policy for more than half a century has been to treat oil as a national resource to be administered for the welfare of the nation. Thus, he said, the basic policy to which he is committed is not new. During his election campaign, Illia charged that some of the existing oil contracts were made illegally by the earlier government of President Arturo Frondizi. He said some contracts did not serve Argentina's interest.

He did not single out any one oil contract against which his government would act.

The contracts now in existance with half a dozen companies provide for exploration, well drilling, oil production, refining and marketing. They were drawn up by Frondizi's government.

Boy Quint Reaches Cooked Cereal Stage

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP)—One of the Fischer quintuplets has reached another milestone.

James, the largest and the only boy, took a spoonful of cooked cereal.

"He liked it," said a hospital spokesman.

The quints, born to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fischer Sept. 14, were weighed again and tipped the scales at about twice their combined weight on their first check.

Hired Killing Trial Begins

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A dapper young St. Paul lawyer went on trial for murder Monday charged with arranging the brutal slaying of his wife whose life he had insured for more than $1 million.

One juror was selected, and five panel members were excused as the dramatic trial of T. Eugene Thompson opened in the small, crowded courtroom of Dist. Court Judge Rolf Fosseen.

There is no death penalty in Minnesota. The maximum punishment for first-degree murder is life imprisonment.

On the morning of last March 6, Mrs. Thompson, the mother of their four young children, was fatally stabbed and beaten in the Thompson' fashionable St. Paul home, not long after Thompson had gone to work.

The state will try to prove Thompson had hired the killer via an intermediary.

A list of 129 witnesses expected to be called includes two men held in St. Paul for allegedly having a part in the killing. Also prospective witnesses are three of the Thompson children, Jeffrey, 13; Patricia, 11; and Margaret, 9.

Irate Women Restrained As Christine Quits Court

LONDON (AP) —Reinforced police Monday held back a crowd of screaming, booing women who tried to assault red-haired playgirl Christine Keeler as she left the court where she is facing charges of perjury and conspiracy to subvert justice.

Crash barriers were jammed through the howling crowd to make a path for Christine and her two women codefendants so they could flee in their chauffeur-driven car.

The hearing continues Tuesday on police charges that Christine and her codefendants gave false testimony and hid vital facts in the trial of Christine's ex-lover, Jamaican jazz singer Aloysius (Lucky) Gordon.

Gordon was sentenced to prison on Christine's charges that he beat her up in her London flat last April. His conviction was later reversed by an appeals court and Scotland Yard arrested Christine and three others on suspicion that they participated in a frameup.

Slim, sleekly dressed Christine—whose affair with ex-War Minister John D. Profumo nearly brought down the British government—sat calmly in court Monday as witnesses told a tangled story of alleged bribe offers, blackmail attempts and huge sums offered for "the true story" and inside stories.

Earlier witnesses swore that Christine offered bribes for testimony to convict Gordon and "get him off my back" by sending him to prison.

Ten West Virginia counties have been declared disaster areas, and the State Agriculture Department asked that the entire state be put in that status.

PENALTY FOR PHENOMENAL GROWTH—Several weeks ago, 15-year-old Betsy Packer, daughter of a Hagerstown, Md., physician, grew 2¼ inches in three hours. That was the length of time required for surgery to currect a spinal curvature at Children's Hospital, Baltimore. Now she pays the penalty for that sudden growth by facing six months abed in a body cast, attending school via telephone hookup with her classmates at South Hagerstown High. Betsy, who made the decision to have surgery herself, says her new stature is worth the cost. (AP Photofax)

Argentine Leader Seeks To Calm Oil Policy Storm

EDITOR'S NOTE—AP diplomatic writer John M. Hightower is touring Latin America. In an interview with Argentina's new president, Dr. Arutro P. Illia, he obtained the government's official viewpoint on a sticky problem in relations with the United States—foreign oil contracts.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — President Arturo U. Illia says Argentina will cancel undesirable foreign oil contracts but that it has no intention of throwing out all foreign oil companies — most of them American.

In fact, he said in an interview, his government wants cooperation of the United States and other countries in development of Argentina's oil operations.

Thus, the 63-year-old country doctor tried to calm an international storm that has blown up over his announced oil policy.

Illia emphatically affirmed after two weeks in office what he had said during his election campaign and in his inaugural speech Oct. 12—that various oil contracts "will be annuled" — but he also offered new assurances in an evident personal attempt to stem the quarrel with the United States.

"The action will be taken in accordance with our law and constitution," he said. "There will be indemification. We will not take violent measures against anyone. The government will act in accordance with legal standards."

He said his government's objectives were exactly summed up in these words: "The Argentine government has no intention of throwing out the foreign oil companies but only intends to annul those contracts which it considers are contrary to its policy."

Last week, Foreign Minister Miguel Angel Zavala Ortiz warned in another interview that a retaliatory crackdown by Washington on aid to Argentina could "destroy what little faith there is in the Alliance for Progress."

U.S. oil men here, also showing concern, have formed a council to try to protect their companies' interests. They began conferences with Illia administration officials Friday.

Said one high U.S. official: "We are working to find a solution so the Argentine can save his face and the American can save his skin."

Illia offered publicly for the first time an explanation of his approach to the oil controversy. The dispute has already resulted in a proposal in the U.S. Senate to deny U.S. aid to Argentina, a move which stirred anger in government and business circle in Buenos Aires.

Illia took the position that Argentina's policy for more than half a century has been to treat oil as a national resource to be administered for the welfare of the nation. Thus, he said, the basic policy to which he is committed is not new. During his election campaign, Illia charged that some of the existing oil contracts were made illegally by the earlier government of President Arturo Frondizi. He said some contracts did not serve Argentina's interest.

He did not single out any one oil contract against which his government would act.

The contracts now in existance with half a dozen companies provide for exploration, well drilling, oil production, refining and marketing. They were drawn up by Frondizi's government.

Boy Quint Reaches Cooked Cereal Stage

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP)—One of the Fischer quintuplets has reached another milestone.

James, the largest and the only boy, took a spoonful of cooked cereal.

"He liked it," said a hospital spokesman.

The quints, born to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fischer Sept. 14, were weighed again and tipped the scales at about twice their combined weight on their first check.

Hired Killing Trial Begins

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A dapper young St. Paul lawyer went on trial for murder Monday charged with arranging the brutal slaying of his wife whose life he had insured for more than $1 million.

One juror was selected, and five panel members were excused as the dramatic trial of T. Eugene Thompson opened in the small, crowded courtroom of Dist. Court Judge Rolf Fosseen.

There is no death penalty in Minnesota. The maximum punishment for first-degree murder is life imprisonment.

On the morning of last March 6, Mrs. Thompson, the mother of their four young children, was fatally stabbed and beaten in the Thompson' fashionable St. Paul home, not long after Thompson had gone to work.

The state will try to prove Thompson had hired the killer via an intermediary.

A list of 129 witnesses expected to be called includes two men held in St. Paul for allegedly having a part in the killing. Also prospective witnesses are three of the Thompson children, Jeffrey, 13; Patricia, 11; and Margaret, 9.

Irate Women Restrained As Christine Quits Court

LONDON (AP) —Reinforced police Monday held back a crowd of screaming, booing women who tried to assault red-haired playgirl Christine Keeler as she left the court where she is facing charges of perjury and conspiracy to subvert justice.

Crash barriers were jammed through the howling crowd to make a path for Christine and her two women codefendants so they could flee in their chauffeur-driven car.

The hearing continues Tuesday on police charges that Christine and her codefendants gave false testimony and hid vital facts in the trial of Christine's ex-lover, Jamaican jazz singer Aloysius (Lucky) Gordon.

Gordon was sentenced to prison on Christine's charges that he beat her up in her London flat last April. His conviction was later reversed by an appeals court and Scotland Yard arrested Christine and three others on suspicion that they participated in a frameup.

Slim, sleekly dressed Christine—whose affair with ex-War Minister John D. Profumo nearly brought down the British government—sat calmly in court Monday as witnesses told a tangled story of alleged bribe offers, blackmail attempts and huge sums offered for "the true story" and inside stories.

Earlier witnesses swore that Christine offered bribes for testimony to convict Gordon and "get him off my back" by sending him to prison.

Man Held For Placing Bomb In Wife's Car

BALTIMORE (AP) — Eugene C. Comi, 23, was charged Monday with trying to kill his estranged wife with a dynamite bomb wired to the ignition of her car.

Comi was arrested at his home, 18 blocks from where police found two sticks of dynamite under the hood of his wife Barbara's 1952 car.

The arrest came on a warrant sworn out by his wife and charging him with attempted murder.

An Army officer, who dismantled the bomb, said the dynamite would have exploded if the ignition key had been turned on.

Mrs. Comi, 23, was warned by a neighbor who said she saw a man tinkering with the hood of the car about 7:30 a.m. Monday.

Mrs. Comi asked her uncle, Edward Wladowski, 34, to have a look at the car. He lifted the hood and discovered the dynamite, wired neatly to the ignition coil.

Police came, blocked off the street and ordered some 50 nearby residents from their homes. A bomb disposal squad from the Army's nearby Edgewood Arsenal had the bomb apart in about 10 minutes.

Comi is the son of Louis H. Comi, a vending machine operator and night club owner convicted earlier this month on federal gambling charges.

Two years ago the younger Comi was arrested and charged with shooting his estranged wife. Charges were later dismissed.

Mental Hospital Officials Red-Faced

SYKESVILLE, Md. (AP)—Officials at Springfield State Hospital are a little red-faced about interrupting an Illinois visitor's nut gathering trip the other day.

They confirmed this account:

The visitor, an elderly woman, was strolling along a country road near here gathering nuts for a Halloween display.

A car stopped beside her and three white - clad attendants emerged.

"Don't you think you had better come back to the hospital now?" one of them asked her.

The woman, spending a week with a friend at Carroll Highlands, said she was fine thank you. And she refused to identify herself.

The car went away, but returned a few minutes later, this time with a hospital policeman. The woman was whisked into the car and driven to the hospital grounds about four miles away.

There she convinced hospital officials to take her to the home of Mrs. Swartz, where she was a house guest.

Charles L. France, assistant hospital superintendent, said Monday, "The unfortunate thing was the lady would not identify herself. That's what many patients do."

France said he had apologized.

Government Seeks Typists, Stenogs

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the first time, the government plans to pay travel expenses in an effort to lure typists and stenographers to the Washington area.

The Civil Service Commission said Ft. Meade, Md., is included in the area suffering from a shortage of eligible federal workers.

Besides Washington, the shortage of such workers extends to Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties in nearby Maryland, plus Arlington and Fairfax Counties in Virginia and the cities of Alexandria, Falls Church and Fairfax.

The new policy, effective Jan. 1, involves newly appointed clerk-stenographers in grades three and four and clerk-typists in grade three.

A commission spokesman, describing the situation as serious, said travel expenses have been paid in the past for scientists, engineers, physicians and other professional people.

Le Havre de Grace was the original name of the French city of Le Havre.

Senators Urge Funds For D.C. Area Land Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Daniel B. Brewster, D-Md., and J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., testified Monday in favor of open space land grant funds for the National Capital Area.

Both objected before a Senate appropriations subcommittee to language in the House Appropriations Committee report on the independent offices appropriation bill, which said:

"It is noted that the National Capital Area has already received substantial grants under this program. The committee directs that no part of the funds provided be used for additional grants in this locality."

Brewster said the purpose of the open space law is to aid urban areas to curb sprawl and prevent the spread of blight and to assist local bodies in acquiring fast-disappearing undeveloped land for park, conservation and historic purposes.

The population in Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties, Maryland, he said, jumped 95 per cent in 10 years to 698,323 persons in 1960.

As a result of this, he said, many thousands of acres of once open-space land has been lost to homes, streets, shopping centers and such. He said the picture is the same in the Virginia portion of the National Capital Area.

Maryland News In Brief

BALTIMORE (AP) — Police charged a 15-year-old boy Monday with fatally shooting Gary Stalnaker, 18.

Stalnaker was shot to death Sunday night after an argument involving two groups of youths in northwest Baltimore, police said.

Witnesses said the dispute began when a member of one group asked a member of the other for a cigarette and harsh words were exchanged.

BAINBRIDGE, Md. (AP) — The death of a navy man from the Bainbridge Naval Training Center was attributed Monday to spinal meningitis.

Naval officials said the diagnosis was returned in the case of Chief Petty Officer John McGee, about 40, who died Saturday in Philadelphia Naval Hospital. He had been taken after being stricken Friday night at his home in Port Deposit, Md.

Doctors said the case apparently was an isolated one but those who had come into close contact with McGee were under observation.

BEL AIR, Md. (AP) — Four men were injured, one seriously, in an explosion at a cannery about three miles north of Bel Air.

The cause of the explosion was not immediately determined, but witnesses said it apparently originated in a boiler.

Officials at Harford Memorial Hospital in Havre de Grace, where the four men were taken, said Joseph Andrews, 29, of Cockeysville, Md., was in serious condition with first, second and third degree burns.

Three other men injured in the explosion were treated and released.

Jury Being Chosen For Murder Trial

BALTIMORE (AP) — Eleven prospective jurors of a necessary 56 were selected Monday as the murder trial of William H. Warfel, 21, of Hanover, Md., opened in U.S. district court.

Warfel, a shipyard rigger, is charged in the shotgun slaying last June of a Fort Meade soldier, Pfc. Reinaldo Rodriguiez, 19.

Defense and prosecution attorneys questioned 19 persons. Eight were disqualified after being challenged.

The selection of prospective jurors is expected to continue for at least two more days. Judge Harrison L. Winter is hearing the trial.

New Way To Tax Cars Considered

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Maryland legislative committee was reported Monday to be considering a new way to tax car owners.

The new tax, it was understood, could be levied by Baltimore City and the 23 counties on motor vehicle registrations.

For a fee, the motorist would be entitled to attach a small local tag to his state license plate. A similar tax is used by counties in Virginia.

The committee, it was reported, also was considering a one-cent hike in the gasoline tax and a boost in titling tax from 2 to 3 per cent.

Islands In The Kitchen

"Open" type kitchen design has brought a new trend to kitchen planning — the free-standing unit, or "island." Use of the free-standing unit can add not only efficiency, but also new countertop and storage space. Countertops should be surfaced with a stain and waterproof material such as ceramic tile. New epoxy grouts (the material between the individual tiles) developed by the Tile Council of America are likewise impervious to all household staining.

No Cat Rescues For This Fire Department

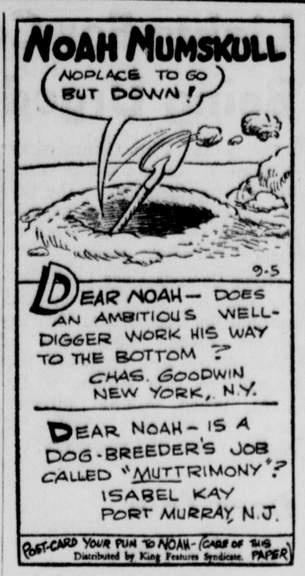

HAMDEN, Conn. (AP) — The Hamden Fire Department will rescue a dog in trouble. But not cats.

"Once the department did go to the rescue of a cat," says Fire Chief Paul Leddy, "but it was at the end of a long swaying branch and we didn't have an aerial truck. The boys decided that a little water would convince the cat it ought to come down."

The cat came down, but the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals received complaints about turning a fire hose on a cat. Since then, no cat rescues.

Dogs rarely get in such perilous situations, the chief says.

Witch Doctors Not Feared, Says Medic

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) —Dr. M. Gelfand, professor of medicine at the University College of Rhodesia and Nyasaland, says the much-berated African witch doctor actually is popular and even beloved by his own people.

Dr. Gelfand says, "The witch doctor practices an art, unlike the Western doctor who practices both an art and a science. The witch doctor is in artist par excellence and uses every trick of dress to bring about the psychological doctor-patient relationship. In the field of psychological medicine he is of great value. Furthermore, the philosophy of witchcraft has promoted contentment. On the other hand, it has caused Africans to oppose change and progress and so is incompatible with modern times."

Joseph Lewis, of 1100 Ella Avenue, informed local authorities that someone broke into his store sometime Sunday morning.

Police said the entry was discovered by two newspaper boys who informed police that they found the front door standing open.

Investigation revealed a rear window had been smashed by the intruder. The intruder stole about 12 cartons of cigarettes, smashed a juke box, taking its contents, and apparently departed by the front door.

Edward Shober, 537 North Centre Street, advised police that someone smeared black paint over his car, and damaged two tires.

Bernard Green, 437 Waverly Terrace informed police that someone stole a 12-volt battery out of his automobile while it was parked in front of his house.

Lights For Canal Street Being Urged By Keegan

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan asked yesterday for consideration on the Canal Street traffic light proposal and said the situation there demands immediate action.

Street Commissioner Lucile Roeder said it was her understanding that the Cumberland Thruway project would "take care" of Canal Street and suggested that council talk with William F. DeMare, urban renewal director, and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum about this possibility.

But Keegan wanted to know what would be done until such time when the Thruway would solve the problem. He said Canal Street "needs lights now and I can't see why it should be held up."

Mayor Earl D. Chaney said no action or decision could be made before next Monday.

On another matter, Finance Commissioner Frederick J. Hill urged that the public and interested persons obtain a copy of the planners' report on the proposed capital improvements program of the city in which financing is explained. He said financing of the urban renewal program is discussed, bond issues and the "cleaning up" of various other problems which have faced the city for years. Of particular interest, he said, is the second chapter, sections 3 and 4. Copies of the report are available from the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission.

Friend

A friend you can always count on . . . that's one of the many roles the telephone plays in your life.

For your telephone is a tried-and-true companion, always ready to give you a hand with anything and everything—in any weather, at any time, to take you any place.

Your telephone friend actually helps save you money, too. In fact, the more you use your telephone, the more you're likely to save. You save time, and save expenses that would otherwise mount up if you had to do everything by yourself.

It's hard to imagine what life would be like without the friendly telephone to help lighten and brighten your days.

And the telephone is still one of the biggest bargains in your family budget. Use it often.

Water Tapping Ordinance Penalties To Be Enforced

Severe penalties will be dealt out to persons turning on the city water supply after it has been turned off by proper authorities under a revised section of an ordinance approved yesterday by the Mayor and Council.

The ordinance is aimed at stopping unauthorized tapping of the water supply.

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light said the ordinance will be strictly enforced and that the Water Department has checkers out 24 hours a day. Any one caught tapping the supply illegally will be arrested, taken to court and the city will press for the maximum fine or sentence in each case, the commissioner said.

The ordinance provides for a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $500 or for confinement in city or county jails for not less than one nor more than 25 days, or both within the discretion of the city police magistrate.

The same penalties also were included for any other violation of the section dealing with the water supply.

Mayor Earl D. Chaney commented that persons outside the city having emergency water problems and need water should make proper application to the city for help. But, he added, permission should be granted by the city before any water is used.

In other water matters at yesterday's meeting of council, Light was authorized to seek bids for a commercial-type fence along the top of Lake Gordon.

Council also ordered payment of estimate No. 2 in the amount of $25,844.99 to the Air Placement Company of Grafton, W. Va., for work completed on the renovation of Lake Gordon and Lake Koon dams.

Judge Admits J. F. Sharer

J. Frederick Sharer Friday was admitted to practice before Allegany County Circuit Court by Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey.

Gorman E. Getty made the motion for admittance of Sharer, who is an associate member of the law firm of Carscaden, Gilchrist and Getty.

Judge Cobey commented that he knows Mr. Sharer and he is a member of an excellent family. The jurst also stated he was pleased to admit him to practice in the court as the bar needs more young attorneys.

Sharer graduated from the University of Maryland Law School last June. He is a son of Mrs. Marion G. Sharer and the late J. Monroe Sharer and graduated from Fort Hill High School in 1956. He received an AB degree from Washington and Jefferson College in 1960.

Sharer is married to the former Carolyn Day, Rochester, N. Y. and they reside at 417 Washington Street.

'Y' Swim Event Is Saturday

The second annual grade school - junior high swimming championships will be held on Saturday, at Central YMCA.

Lynn Patchin, physical director at the Y, reminds boys and girls who plan to enter the competition to get entry forms at their respective schools.

If possible they should come to the Y for swimming practice before the final day. Participants do not have to be members of the Y to take advantage of the free swim lessons which are held daily after school.

During the championship meet there will be separate school divisions with events for girls and boys. In each of the two divisions points will be accumulative for the school teams.

The winning teams will be presented a trophy for their schools and the individual awards will be ribbons. Additional information may be obtained by calling PA 4-5445.

City May Get Additional Sewer Funds

Congress has under consideration a $20,000,000 federal-aid program for the separation of sanitary and storm sewers and the city has been asked if it could submit a "demonstration project" which could be accepted on a matching-fund basis.

However, lack of time and manpower to prepare the necessary specifications might be a roadblock to the city submitting a plan.

Thomas W. Shives, public engineer for the Division of Sanitary Engineering of the Maryland State Department of Health, wrote the Mayor and Council concerning the proposed plan which was requested by the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The city would be eligible for funds on a matching basis up to $1,000,000, it was pointed out.

City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum said his department has 16 projects mostly on the Cumberland Thruway, in various stages of development and that time and manpower is too short to meet the announced deadline.

Mayor Earl D. Chaney said that if there is a chance, the city should try to move along and make every effort to obtain assistance.

Nuzum said later that the city would write a letter expressing its interest and describing briefly a project which would fall under the program. This is an extension of a pressure conduit system which was started by the U. S. Corps of Engineers during construction of the flood control project.

He said the proposed bill has passed the Senate and is up for House hearings soon. The bill is classed as water pollution control legislation.

Finnigan's Hollywood

BY JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Joe Flynn estimates that he has about two more years left in his "McHale's Navy" enlistment.

Flynn portrays the bumbling "Capt. Wallace P. Binghamton," a Navy officer with a "Capt. Bligh" complex. He is also commanding officer of the P-T boat base where "Lt. Cmdr. McHale's" crew of misfits is stationed.

The ABC-TV show has been on the air for one year. Flynn expects it to last at least three.

"Beyond that I don't know," said Flynn over a hamburger steak lunch at Revue Studios. "If we went into a fourth year we could pump life into the show with flashbacks."

As a commanding officer, Flynn has all the effectiveness of an introverted Girl Scout. The whole base walks all over him. He always catches the culprits but rarely can do anything about it.

Being a constant loser can be a little frustrating for a nice guy like Flynn but he manages to live with it.

"I'm not tiring of the character," Joe said. "I thought I would because I thought he would be a one note Charlie. His reaction is based on outrage and I thought that could be limiting. I'm happy that the character has had more dimension."

When "McHale" and his gang first put to sea last year, "Capt. Binghamton" was a stern character who never joined in with the illicit fun. Now he does, even though reluctantly.

"I think the captain has loosened up a little bit," Joe said. "A year and a half of losing is bound to loosen anybody up. He's making more deals now."

Flynn's captain is also the brunt of physical type humor, an element the show never had in its initial season.

"We're getting more physical humor," Joe said. "It's started with pies in the face."

Flynn is the pie's target in one show. He and the whole crew get stranded on a Japanese-held island in another segment and they escape wearing oriental Kabuki dancer costumes, with Flynn dressed as a lady.

Physical comedy is an entertainment staple, but Flynn said it had no place in "McHale's Navy" during the show's first season.

Ladies Home League Attends Convention

Twenty members of the Ladies Home League of the Salvation Army have returned from their annual convention at Hagerstown at which the local league received the "A" award for "standard of achievement."

Only two other leagues were so honored.

Some 300 packages of advertising souvenirs and brochures from Cumberland were distributed at the convention. The gifts were donated by some of the large companies in this area.

Mrs. Ben Jones, wife of the Salvation Army commanding officer here, is director of this group. Other officers are Mrs. Charles Shadwell, secretary; Mrs. Loretta Siebel, treasurer, and Mrs. George Price Sr., chaplain.

Parade Helpers Needed

All members of the South Cumberland Business and Civic Association and others interested in assisting with the Halloween Parade Thursday night are asked to report to the White Oaks Shopping Center parking lot that night at 6:30 p.m.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

What Makes A Dress Becoming?

Do you have a dress you never wear, because after you bought it you decided you just didn't like it? You're not alone!

If you'll get the dress out now and put it on, I'm sure you can quickly find out what's wrong with it. There are just four possibilities. The error lies in the fit, design, fabric or color — because these four elements determine whether or not the dress is becoming.

Finding the error will help you avoid a similar failure in the future. First, consider the fit. If it's too long — or too short-waisted, too tight or too loose, perhaps a good dressmaker can turn your disappointment into an asset.

Next, look at the cut. Is it right or wrong for your figure? If you feel like one of the seven dwarfs in the dress, chances are the lines are not as verticle as they should be. If the opposite is true and the dress makes you look either like the giant or his beanstalk, it's because the dress does not have the short-and-round-making horizontal lines that your figure needs. In either case, all you can do is chalk up one to experience and start learning the principles of line that will aid in selection the next time you shop.

If your line inspection proves the design was right, your next consideration is fabric. Is it soft, lightweight and supple enough to slim your figure? Or is it starchy, heavy and bulky enough to add a pound or two? Only you know which your figure needs and whether the material compliments it.

Color is the fourth factor, and it's one all too few women understand! Color can actually make you look bigger or smaller, just as you wish.

Every color has a wave length that can actually be measured by scientific instruments. Those colors that have long lengths advance toward the eye. Those with short lengths go unnoticed or retreat into the distance.

Color experts will tell you that intense, bright red, orange, yellow and yellow-green are the long-length colors that will make you look larger. Deep, dusty, blue-green and blue-violet, blue-red, are the short-length colors that will make you appear smaller than you are.

Be sure the next dress you choose is right on all four counts!

FIGURE-ANALYSIS for perfect-fitting foundation garments is thoroughly discussed in the booklet, "Figured for You." To get your copy of this purse-sized guide to better figure control send 10c and a stamped, return envelope to John Robert Powers, in care of this newspaper.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a recent graduate of New York University who was elected to the society of Phi Betta Kappa. Last evening I attended a wedding shower for a friend and I wore my Phi Beta Kappa key on a chain around my neck. One of the girls took me off to the side and told me it was ostentatious to wear the key around my neck. She said it belonged on a charm bracelet.

My first reaction to her criticism was resentment. I decided she was jealous and I dismissed it from my mind. Now I'm beginning to wonder if perhaps she is right. May I have your opinion, please?

— YONKERS

DEAR YONK: I'll bet the girl who stuck in the shiv has no Phi Beta Kappa key — and if she had one, she'd probably wear it embedded in her forehead like an Indian jewel.

Congratulations. Around your neck is just fine.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I believe I have read every column you've ever written but I don't recall that you've erer dealt with the problem of married couples who work in the same organization.

Because of two married couples in our office the place is up for grabs. The top mucky-muck in my department married the chief bookkeeper's assistant and now she is out of the office about 40% of the time — on full pay. When she does come in she's out of touch.

The second married couple are know as the happy warriors. They alternately hit each other and mush it up at the water cooler, behind the file cabinet or wherever they happen to be when the mood hits them. Their shenanigans are distracting and annoying.

Will you kindly review this problem in print and give us your views?

—DISTRACTED AND ANNOYED

DEAR D and A: I can't come out flat-footed and say that married people should NEVER work in the same organization since some couples manage this arrangement well.

For the most part, however, it is a poor idea not only for the reasons you mentioned but because too much togetherness can put a dead hand on any relationship.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 22, divorced and the mother of three small children. My ex-husband has no interest in the children. I support them and myself.

The problem is this: My only recreation is dancing. I go to a nice night club once a week from 9 p.m. until 12:30 a.m. My brother drives me over and comes back to take me home. I never date any of the men I meet there. I only dance with them.

My aunt says I have no business going to this place. I see nothing wrong in it. I work all day and this is the only fun I have. What do you think about it?

—SANDRA

DEAR SANDRA: Sorry, but I can't tell a 22-year-old mother of three children it's all right to stag it to a night club.

It may well be that YOU are looking only for a dancing partner, but most of the men who frequent such places are good-time Charlies who are looking for a pickup. If this is "the only fun you have" I can tell you right now nothing good will come of it.

Too many starry-eyed lovers do not know the difference. Do You? Send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper tnclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Color is the fourth factor, and it's one all too few women understand! Color can actually make you look bigger or smaller, just as you wish.

Every color has a wave length that can actually be measured by scientific instruments. Those colors that have long lengths advance toward the eye. Those with short lengths go unnoticed or retreat into the distance.

Color experts will tell you that intense, bright red, orange, yellow and yellow-green are the long-length colors that will make you look larger. Deep, dusty, blue-green and blue-violet, blue-red, are the short-length colors that will make you appear smaller than you are.

Be sure the next dress you choose is right on all four counts!

FIGURE-ANALYSIS for perfect-fitting foundation garments is thoroughly discussed in the booklet, "Figured for You." To get your copy of this purse-sized guide to better figure control send 10c and a stamped, return envelope to John Robert Powers, in care of this newspaper.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a recent graduate of New York University who was elected to the society of Phi Betta Kappa. Last evening I attended a wedding shower for a friend and I wore my Phi Beta Kappa key on a chain around my neck. One of the girls took me off to the side and told me it was ostentatious to wear the key around my neck. She said it belonged on a charm bracelet.

My first reaction to her criticism was resentment. I decided she was jealous and I dismissed it from my mind. Now I'm beginning to wonder if perhaps she is right. May I have your opinion, please?

— YONKERS

DEAR YONK: I'll bet the girl who stuck in the shiv has no Phi Beta Kappa key — and if she had one, she'd probably wear it embedded in her forehead like an Indian jewel.

Congratulations. Around your neck is just fine.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I believe I have read every column you've ever written but I don't recall that you've erer dealt with the problem of married couples who work in the same organization.

Because of two married couples in our office the place is up for grabs. The top mucky-muck in my department married the chief bookkeeper's assistant and now she is out of the office about 40% of the time — on full pay. When she does come in she's out of touch.

The second married couple are know as the happy warriors. They alternately hit each other and mush it up at the water cooler, behind the file cabinet or wherever they happen to be when the mood hits them. Their shenanigans are distracting and annoying.

Will you kindly review this problem in print and give us your views?

—DISTRACTED AND ANNOYED

DEAR D and A: I can't come out flat-footed and say that married people should NEVER work in the same organization since some couples manage this arrangement well.

For the most part, however, it is a poor idea not only for the reasons you mentioned but because too much togetherness can put a dead hand on any relationship.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 22, divorced and the mother of three small children. My ex-husband has no interest in the children. I support them and myself.

The problem is this: My only recreation is dancing. I go to a nice night club once a week from 9 p.m. until 12:30 a.m. My brother drives me over and comes back to take me home. I never date any of the men I meet there. I only dance with them.

My aunt says I have no business going to this place. I see nothing wrong in it. I work all day and this is the only fun I have. What do you think about it?

—SANDRA

DEAR SANDRA: Sorry, but I can't tell a 22-year-old mother of three children it's all right to stag it to a night club.

It may well be that YOU are looking only for a dancing partner, but most of the men who frequent such places are good-time Charlies who are looking for a pickup. If this is "the only fun you have" I can tell you right now nothing good will come of it.

Too many starry-eyed lovers do not know the difference. Do You? Send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper tnclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

County School Children To See New Play About Outer Space This Week

An exciting space play for children, "The Mystery Rocket," will be presented at six county schools, under the sponsorship of the Allegany County Council of Parents and Teachers.

Performed by an adult, professional cast of actors and actresses, "The Mystery Rocket" is the first of two live, theatrical productions to be presented to the children of the county during this school year.

The play will be presented at Beall High School auditorium today at 9:30 a. m. and at Mt. Savage High School auditorium this afternoon at 1:15 o'clock.

Children from the various grade schools in the county will be transported to the site of the productions in school buses, sponsors explain.

This fun-filled and suspenseful fantasy of the future, will be brought to life by the Merry Magic Players of Faye Parker's Pittsburgh Children's Theatre. The play, written by Faye Parker, concerns a boy and his dog, who accidentally blast off into outer space, where they are rescued by a scientist from a Nebula beyond the sun. Six children, chosen from local schools, will participate in this production. Included in the cast of talented performers of the troupe will be Don Porter Beck, Thomas Karl, Joni Kaye, Charles Stumpf, and David Russell. Mr. Russell, who has just completed a successful summer season at the Mountain Playhouse in Jennerstown, returns to act and execute the futuristic settings for this production.

Citizens Asked To Use Water Intelligently

MIDLAND — Benjamin Evans of the Lonaconing Water Company, attended the regular meeting of the Mayor and Town Council here, and urged that citizens help conserve water.

Mr. Evans said the long drought has caused some shortage in all water supplies and while the situation here has not yet reached a critical stage, all citizens should be urged to follow a program of voluntary conservation and not abuse the use of water.

Mr. Evans said the company has been noting that some residents of the area do abuse the water privilege, washing cars, watering gardens and lawns and letting faucets run open. All through the summer months, he said, there has been a great drain on the water supply.

He emphasized that the situation is not critical but that the lack of rainfall is serious and unless there is relief within a few weeks, the water shortage could very easily become acute.

Deadline Near For U.S. Navy ROTC Exams

KEYSER — Chief William M. Lessner, in charge of the Navy Recruiting Station here, has announced that high school seniors and graduates have only until November 22 to apply for the Navy's Reserve Officer Training Corps. Applicants will take the nationwide competitive examination on December 14 as the first step toward an appointment as midshipman.

Designed to supplement the officer output of the Naval Academy, the NROTC program makes it possible for a young man to earn a regular commission while studying at one of the 52 civilian colleges which has an NROTC unit. All tuition, fees, and books are furnished by the Navy, and the student receives a retainer of $50 per month for not more than four years.

During the summers the NROTC Midshipman participates in training cruises to many parts of the world. After completing a four-year college curriculum, he is commissioned in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps and goes on active duty as a career officer in the Naval Service. He receives the same promotional opportunities, duty assignments, and benefits as Navay Academy graduates.

High school seniors and graduates who will be at least 17 but not 21 years of age on June 30, 1964, may apply for the Navy College Aptitude Test. Those who make a qualifying score must pass a thorough physical examination. From the number of qualified young men remaining in competition, approximately 2,000 will be selected to begin their naval careers in college next September.

Citizens Asked To Use Water Intelligently

MIDLAND — Benjamin Evans of the Lonaconing Water Company, attended the regular meeting of the Mayor and Town Council here, and urged that citizens help conserve water.

Mr. Evans said the long drought has caused some shortage in all water supplies and while the situation here has not yet reached a critical stage, all citizens should be urged to follow a program of voluntary conservation and not abuse the use of water.

Mr. Evans said the company has been noting that some residents of the area do abuse the water privilege, washing cars, watering gardens and lawns and letting faucets run open. All through the summer months, he said, there has been a great drain on the water supply.

He emphasized that the situation is not critical but that the lack of rainfall is serious and unless there is relief within a few weeks, the water shortage could very easily become acute.

Lessner, in charge of the Navy Recruiting Station here, has announced that high school seniors and graduates have only until November 22 to apply for the Navy's Reserve Officer Training Corps. Applicants will take the nationwide competitive examination on December 14 as the first step toward an appointment as midshipman.

Designed to supplement the officer output of the Naval Academy, the NROTC program makes it possible for a young man to earn a regular commission while studying at one of the 52 civilian colleges which has an NROTC unit. All tuition, fees, and books are furnished by the Navy, and the student receives a retainer of $50 per month for not more than four years.

After completing a four-year college curriculum, he is commissioned in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps and goes on active duty as a career officer in the Naval Service. He receives the same promotional opportunities, duty assignments, and benefits as Navay Academy graduates.

High school seniors and graduates who will be at least 17 but not 21 years of age on June 30, 1964, may apply for the Navy College Aptitude Test. TUNNEL BYPASS—This huge cut, carved through the Allegheny Mountains, graphically illustrates the major engineering feat performed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, to clear all its main lines for handling of massive freight equipment. The cut is one of several made to bypass low and narrow tunnels between Clarksburg and Parkersburg, West Virginia. Systemwide, the B & O has modernized or eliminated 54 tunnel, bridge and other structural restrictions, to gain a high-speed, unrestricted route linking Eastern market areas with those of the West. The $12 million clearance improvement program also gives B & O the shortest high-car freight route to and from the Southwest.

B&O Completes Major Tunnel Improvements

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (UPI)—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad marks the completion of a $12 million tunnel improvement program with ceremonies here Tuesday.

B&O president Jervis Langdon Jr. said the big engineering program clears all of the main B&O lines for handling of the highest piggyback freight trailers in general use on American railroads, and for automobile-cars and other higher and wider freight movement.

The railroad heightened and widened, or completely by-passed, 54 tunnels, bridges and other structural restrictions which had hampered movement of massive freight loads.

Final phase of the program enlarged or by-passed 18 tunnels on the 80-mile section between here and Clarksburg to the east.

Prior to elimination of the restrictions, it was necessary for the B&O to route high and wide equipment over a longer and more circuitous line. To complete the final project in five months, the railroad closed the 80-mile Clarksburg - Parkersburg section and routed all traffic along the long route. Langdon said that otherwise the work could not have been completed in less than a year. Langdon said the line improvements give B&O the shortest high-car freight route between the East and the Southwest. It will also provide faster service to and from all parts of the West through the cities of St. Louis, Cincinnati, Louisville and Chicago, he said.

The tunnel program provides minimum clearance of 17 feet 2 inches in contrast to a 14-feet, 2 inch level previously prevailing.

The work was accomplished by heightening and widening of tunnel and other obstructions, lowering tunnel floors, "daylighting" or removal of tunnel tops, by-passing with new lines and, in one case, building of a new tunnel at Eaton, W. Va.

Wire Tapping And Civil Liberty

A new push for legislation to permit legal wiretapping of private telephones under certain carefully controlled circumstances began in the last week of the Valachi hearings in Washington. Police officials from Florida and New England appeared before the Senate investigators to plead for such legislation.

The question of wiretapping always raises serious doubts. In principle the practice comprises the civil liberties of the persons against whom it is used. It might, if used unscrupulously—and who is there to contend it wouldn't be?—violate the privacy of many persons innocent of everything except association, voluntary or otherwise, with those suspected of crime.

Of course, safeguards against abuses are always mentioned in the same breath with proposals for wiretapping laws. There can be no such safeguards.

As things stand now, some states permit wiretapping in certain cases, although federal law prohibits it. Thus state courts admit the results of wiretapping as evidence, although the means by which it was acquired are a violation of federal law.

An administration bill last year requested by Attorney General Robert Kennedy would have permitted the attorney general to authorize wiretapping where he believed offenses presented a threat to the security of the United States. In other cases federal authorities would have had to petition federal judges for the authority to tap wires, and state officials would have needed the authority of state judges.

Congress balked at what was widely regarded as an attempt to confer more power on the attorney general. If the Valachi hearings proved anything, it is a need for political housecleaning in the nation's big cities. No one pretends that tapping telephone wires would bring this about.

Tito Has Bad Conscience?

When an American journalist questioned Tito the other day about the Yugoslav author Milovan Djilas, who is languishing in jail in his homeland while his books about Communism continue to make his reputation in America, the visiting Yugoslav dictator actually turned nasty. Quite peremptorily he said that anything concerning the treatment of Djilas was a purely internal affair.

Behind the anger of Tito there is a strange story that makes very little sense unless it is probed to its bottom. The truth is that Tito himself might be inclined to treat his old friend and comrade Djilas with some lenience. The particular book that got Djilas incarcerated in 1962 for his second spell as a political prisoner was his historical record, "Conversations With Stalin." Since Tito himself had broken with Stalin, few people in the West could see why he should object to Djilas's exposure of the methods of the Russian tyrant. The mystery deepened the other day for me when I learned that William Jovanovich, head of the New York firm of Harcourt, Brace and World, which publishes Djilas, had offered to suppress the manuscript of "Conversations With Stalin" if it would help to keep its author out of prison. The Jovanovich offer was ignored. Someone in Yugoslavia wanted to keep Djilas behind bars anyway.

The best evidence is that Djilas is the victim of a power fight in the Yugoslav Communist Party. Tito, once a law unto himself, is getting old and, according to those who know him best, has taken to living "la dolce vita," the easy life. He takes the advice of Alexander Rankovich and Edward Kardelj, who are the leading figures in his politburo.

Rankovich and Kardelj are very much concerned with the problem of the succession when Tito dies. Since they, like Tito, have been anti-Stalin, they couldn't care less about Djilas's exposures of Stalinism in his book. But they do worry over the fact that Milovan Djilas has a great and loyal following among the Yugoslav people, including many of the rank and file of the Communist Party. They are afraid that a free Djilas might be the source of great competition in determining the succession when Tito goes.

So Tito, to satisfy his kitchen cabinet, keeps Djilas in prison. There was a story, emanating from Belgrade, that the Yugoslav boss might free Djilas in order to improve relations with the United States. But apparently Rankovich and Kardelj have prevailed upon him to take his chances on American favor without making such a propitiating gesture.

The violence of Tito's resentment over being questioned about Djilas in a press conference at the UN could have been an index of a troubled conscience. Or it could have been a manifestation of surprise that the demonstrations against him in New York City should have been so spirited and tenacious.

Originally, Tito was dubious about making his trip to the United States. When he was here in 1960 he was roundly booed, and he did not like it. But George Kennan, once the U.S. Ambassador in Yugoslavia, assured Tito that he might count on an orderly welcome to the U.S. in the atmosphere of 1963. The New York police expected some demonstrations, notably by the Hungarian Freedom Fighters who have learned that one placard on a stick is worth a thousand letters to the newspapers. But what surprised everybody was the sudden apparition of a young group of Serb and Croat Freedom Fighters who are mostly in their early twenties.

There are about three thousand young Serbs and Croats in America who have come to this country in the past four or five years. Bitterly disappointed with the fruits of Communism in their home country, they are fanatically anti-Communist. The depth of the anger which they expressed by one means or another disconcerted Tito. When he was told that the young Serbs and Croats were particularly well organized in California, he canceled his trip west. The attack of influenza was merely an excuse.

Tito's memories of the United States this time will not be particularly pleasant for one who likes "la dolce vita." But he will swallow any resentment for the very good reason that he can still use American money. The Yugoslav Communists may not need the arms they have been getting from us, for Red China is too far away from Yugoslavia to menace it militarily. But arms from the United States have been useful for shipment to Algeria, where they might, in turn, go to the Congo to supply the Holden Roberto gangsters for an attack on Portuguese Angola.

Dr. King Feels JFK 'Retreated' On Rights Bill

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Maybe there will have to be another "March on Washington," and this time the demonstration may have to be directed to President Kennedy himself.

For the Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., hero of the last "march" and perhaps the most prominent of the Negro integration leaders, feels that Mr. Kennedy has "retreated" on the proposed "civil rights" legislation. Dr. King has just said in a public speech that "No President can be great or even fit for office if he attempts to accomodate political expediency with human rights."

This criticism came as a result of the efforts of the President and the Attorney General to obtain a "civil rights" bill which would get through both houses of Congress. Dr. King accused the administration of using "bad tactics" and said that, "If you start with a weak bill, and then get it watered down," it could become "a nothing bill."

The President, however, is much more familiar with what goes on behind the scenes in Congress than is Dr. King. Having been a member of the House as well as the Senate, Mr. Kennedy is acquainted with the many difficult barriers that arise through ordinary parliamentary procedures, and these can block the passage of legislation He feels that, if there is an opportunity to obtain later a separate bill that is stronger, he could always give his support to it.

The nation is witnessing at the moment one of the unfortunate political results of the numerous "marches" and demonstrations throughout the country which, instead of helping the Negro cause, have made it even more difficult than before to get results in Congress. This is because the Negro leaders themselves are not united and one set of politicians here is not sure which bill will get them the most Negro votes at the polls, while another set of congressmen see ways of mobilizing votes of resentment. For a good deal of opposition has been created among businesses to be affected by the proposed law.

There are fundamental differences between what is being called a "strong" bill and a "weak" bill. Thus, the President would be content with a bill which provided safeguards for the right to vote, the speed-up of public-school desegregation, and the banning of discrimination in "public accomodations" and in programs which the federal government itself operates.

Extremists, on the other hand, take the postiion that the bill on "public accommodations" should be aimed not merely at hotels and motels, restaurants, lunch counters, retail stores, gasoline stations and places of entertainment, but also at any business operating under state or city "authorization, permission or license."

It was this sweeping provision which members of the House Committee of the Judiciary were ready to champion. It caused dismay in the rnaks of the administration because of a fear that such a clause would arouse nationwide opposition since it could be applied to private schools, social clubs, law firms, insurance companies and apartment houses.

The so-called "strong" bill also included an authorization for the Attorney General to intervene by means of an injunction suit wherever there was any claim of denial of rights, privileges or immunities secured by the Constitution or laws of the United States. It has been felt by critics of this particular provision that such a law would open the way to legal controversies on freedom of the press and freedom of worship and a host of other questions where Congress hitherto has not delegated any such broad power to the Department of Justice.

As soon as it became evident that the bill was of an extreme nature, some of the members of Congress who do not want to see any legislation at all passed seized the opportunity to help get the "strong" bill out of the House committee and on to the floor, where it might readily be defeated and no substitute enacted at this session of Congress.

Being practical politicians, the President and the Attorney General are anxious to get some "civil rights" legislation passed right away. They would like to avoid a lengthy controversy in Congress during 1964 as the presidential campaign approaches. If they could succeed in having enacted the first comprehensive "civil rights" legislation passed by Congress in more than 100 years, they would be satisfied. The administration, of course, is following a normal and natural course in politics. Many of the Negro leaders, on the other hand, have gotten an exaggerated impression of what the "March on Washington" really meant in a political sense and are insisting on an "all or nothing" procedure.

There are, moreover, some Republicans in Congress who are quick to take advantage of this situation and who will not only help to get the bills out of committee but will vote for them on the floor because they wish to put their Democratic opponents in a hole and go before the Negro voters in the populous states as having championed a really strong "civil rights" measure. The whole controversy is characteristic of the game of politics.

LIVELY DIPLOMACY — The staid State Department has embarked on a program to popularize and dramatize foreign affairs. We don't profess to know what is behind the move, but posters have been placed around the department exhorting the paper-pushers to liven up their writing.

"Verbs need vim," the poster says. "Put action in your writing wherever you can. Use active verbs. They improve hard-to-read sentences."

Personally, we don't see why verbs are needed to breathe life and interest into such stories as Viet Nam, or the numerous revolutions in Latin America, or events in Africa.

In fact, it might be better to make the writing a little dull. At least, the department would not be subject to accusations that it is stirring up the international animals.

FAREWELL TO KNICKERS — Like most other organizations, the U. S. Supreme Court has some office boys — four of them to be exact. Of course, they're not called that. They're called pages. And in keeping with the dignity of the court, they're not allowed to dress in the informal attire of modern youths. For as long as anyone can remember, the pages were required to wear black knickers, black stockings and double-breasted jackets.

However, times change for the court and its employes as well as for others. When the court met for its autumn term, the pages appeared in long trousers. They are also now permitted to wear single-breasted jackets, but vests are required.

Vaccine Best Method Of Influenza Prevention

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

Influenza is an old disease; it was so named by ancient Italians because they believed it developed as the result of the influence of natural conditions, such as cold. While it is true that the infection is more prevalent during colder seasons of the year, we now know that viruses are responsible.

Since 1510, 31 pandemics have been described but we never will know their exact nature, including the 1918-19 calamity. The first causative flu organism (A) was not discovered until 1933; since then, several types have been isolated. The latest is the Asian, which is known as A2.

Influenza may produce a slight fever or the prostrating illness so common in epidemics. The majority develop cough, dryness or soreness of the throat, nasal congestion, headache, backache, and fever. The victim, when seen by the physician, usually has a flushed face and reddened eyes; he is lying in bed and coughing occasionally. He moans every time he turns because of aching.

Can influenza be prevented? The vaccine is the best method but the duration of protection seldom extends more than a year. Most of the flu vaccines contain several strains of the causative virus (polyvalent). They are said to be up to 70 per cent effective and are recommended for all persons over 45, pregnant women, victims of chronic heart and lung diseases, and groups in health and community services such as physicians, policemen, firemen, and bus drivers. Immunization programs are common in school, institutions, army camps, and industries where large numbers of people live or work together.

In addition, the usual precautions should be followed to minimize or prevent respiratory infections. The flu viruses are transmitted via the air and on contaminated fingers or other objects. Avoid crowds during epidemics and wash the hands frequently.

Once infection occurs, the only thing to do is go to bed and stay there. Aspirin will reduce aching and fever, cough medicine will ease hacking, and abundant fluids will help the body, especially when the sufferer cannot eat.

SEES SPOTS AND LINES

Mattie writes: Do many people in the world see spots before the eyes? The reason I ask is that I started seeing black and white spots and lines when I was 10 years old. My mother took me to an eye doctor and he recommended glasses. I was better for a while but now, at age 14, they are just as bad. I think I have some kind of eye disease.

REPLY

Yes, this condition is relatively common. Floaters are regarded as spots before the eyes but they may not respond to glasses. You ought to return to your opthalmologist because new lenses may be needed for an eye disease may be present. Meanwhile, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on spots before the eyes.

TOMORROW: A new drug for smallpox.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Messrs. Lapidus and Moskowitz, two wealthy and highly respected merchants from New York, were making their first visit to Israel, and in the course of time, dropped into a Tel-Aviv night club where a new comedian had scored a sensational success. His entire monologue was delivered in Hebrew. Lapidus listened to it in silence without cracking one smile, but Moskowitz roared with laughter at each sally.

When the comedian had quit the stage, Lapidus said, "You certainly enjoyed that fellow's routine. I never knew you understood Hebrew." "I don't understand one word of it," answered Moskowitz. "If that's true," countered Lapidus, frowning, "how come you laughed so much at what he was saying?"

"Aha!" beamed Moskowitz. "I TRUSTED HIM!"

President Battles For Civil Rights, Doesn't Want Fight In Voting Year

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Seldom has any President of the United States fought so hard to shape any piece of legislation as John F. Kennedy did the Civil Rights Bill all last week — even before it passed the House Judiciary Committee.

Through friendly Democratic mayors back in the home districts, and by both nocturnal and daytime secret White House conferences, Kennedy did his best to get civil rights back on a more moderate track. He did this despite the risk of antagonizing Negro leaders, for the following reasons:

1. A tough Civil Rights Bill will either get voted down or be debated into 1964 — an election year.

2. Already the civil rights issue has turned against the President in many parts of the North. Kennedy put it this way to one group of Democrats: Civil rights has lost us four times as many votes as it has won, but we have to pass it for moral reasons. It's much better to do it now than let it get snarled in the 1964 elections.

3. JFK, who once served in the House of Representatives, knows the difficulty of effectively amending a bill after it leaves a House committee. This was why he held night conferences and even stalled a committee vote until this week so he could break up the weird alliance of Northern Liberals and Southern Democrats who want a thorough bill (Southerners want it, of course, because a tough bill would be easier to defeat or sidetrack).

Here is some of the backstage debate which took place between the President and congressmen to persuade them to put civil rights back on the track as originally proposed by Brother Bobby, the Attorney General.

Insists On Some Legislation

Kennedy told congressional leaders at the White House that if the Civil Rights Bill was too strong it would be bottled up by the rules group or recommended to the Judiciary Committee.

"I don't want that to happen," said Kennedy. "I'm against any further wrangling. I want to see both parties get together and pass some legislaiton,—preferably the bill I have requested — But, if not that, something similar that will effectively protect the rights of Negroes.

GOP leader Charles Halleck said that he also wanted a strong bill enacted at this session, and that basically he agreed with Kennedy.

'I'm not asking for commitments from anyone," insisted the President. "All I'm asking is that everyone here keep an open mind on this subject until we can determine if there is sufficient support in the Judiciary Committee for a bill that is acceptable to both parties."

Manny Disagrees

Rep. Emmanuel Celler (D-N. Y.), chairman of the Judiciary Committee and the chief author of the tough Civil Rights Bill that Kennedy now seeks to sidetrack, said he would not stand in the way of a modified bill. But he added:

"I'm still for the subcommittee bill, Mr. President. I'll have to be honest with you in saying that. You tell us now that it is too broad to be passed by Congress. However, I didn't hear these objections during all the time we were considering the bill in subcommittee."

At a subsequent White House meeting with Kennedy and Judiciary Committee Democrats, Rep. Roland Libonati of Illinois told JFK that the Democrats probably would lose his state if an election were held today — all because of the turmoil over civil rights.

"The Italian-Americans, the Polish Americans and other ethnic groups are really stirred up about this," declared Libonati. "I am for a strong Civil Rights Bill, like yourself, but I certainly hope we can enact one this year so the turmoil will subside before the 1964 campaign gets under way."

"Naturally, I feel that way myself," replied Kennedy. That's why I am asking for a somewhat modified bill, with a chance of passage. This will be difficult for some of you. I know that you are under pressure from the AFL-CIO and Negro groups to pass the subcommittee bill."

Rodino Says Bill Goes Too Far

Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., said he thought the broader subcommittee bill improved on Kennedy's original civil rights proposals in that it contained a provision for a fair employment practices commission. (Kennedy originally proposed that the FEPC be considered in separate legislation.)

However, Rodino agreed with the President that Title III of the Subcommittee Bill was too broad and subject to abuses. This is the provision giving the Attorney General sweeping injunctive powers to deal with the deprivation of rights under the 14th Amendment.

"Under Title III any citizen could demand redress by the Attorney General on almost any pretext — even if he claimed that he wasn't receiving Social Security benefits," Rodino pointed out.

Kennedy said he felt the same way. He added that he had always been a strong advocate of an FEPC, saying that he did not request its inclusion in the Civil Rights Bill only because he feared it might kill the whole bill.

Rep. Byron Rogers of Colorado said he hoped the President would get "firm commitments" from House Republicans in any agreement for bi-partisan support of Kennedy-endorsed civil rights legislation.

"We Democrats are accused of being split on civil rights — and we are, of course," declared Rogers. "But so are the Republicans. Let's be sure that the Republicans mean what they say if they agree to bi-partisan support, instead of talking one way and voting another in the showdown."

Kennedy replied with a smile that he couldn't guarantee this in all cases, but that those who put politics above the public interest would themselves have to answer to the voters.

Both Archbishop And Rabbi

Good-natured Speaker John McCormack was ribbing Tom McNamara of my staff about recent references in this column calling John the "Archbishop of Boston."

"Please tell Drew that the real archbishop of Boston, Cardinal Cushing, will not take kindly to this fragmentation of his jurisdiction," grinned McCormack.

"Also, please tell him that his references are creating some confusion among my Jewish friends and constituents in Boston. Many of them call me 'Rabbi John,' though I am a Catholic, because of help they received from my office.

"However, I have no complaints," said the speaker. "When a man is called both an archbishop and a rabbi, I'd say he was doing all right in religious nomenclature."

As Time Goes By

By John Crosby

LONDON.

Several old gaffers were threading their way through history. Piles of bric-a-brac. Period stuff. Props for a movie to be called "The Americanization of Emily."

One of the old gaffers (who looked like me) stopped and pointed at a relic of the past. "That was my first weapon," said the old gaffer.

"About as useful as a cutlass," said the other old gaffer. "What is it?"

"A 37-mm. anti-aircraft gun."

"My God," said the other old gaffer, "they were even ancient history before the end of the war."

"I used to be a gunner on one of those things."

"How old are you," asked the other not-quite-so-old gaffer.

"Never mind."

The two old gaffers went into a studio where a gaggle of very pretty young things dressed as ATS girls and Wrens were stretched out on a bed in a barracks, one of those pipe-shaped barracks they used to have in the old days. One of the girls in the foreground was Julie Andrews, who has almost made a career out of being Liza Higgins in "My Fair Lady." This is her first non-singing role.

"Some of them," said the other old gaffer sadly, "weren't born by the end of World War II. If you asked that girl there what the ATS was, she wouldn't know. I worked on a picture not so long ago. The director said to a whole cast of extras, 'Remember, this is D-Day.' Some young chick pipes up: 'What is D-Day?' "

"She should have heard of it, anyway. Like those young girls polled by the Ladies Home Journal who had never heard of Greta Garbo. You and I never saw Sara Bernhardt, but we know who she was, for heaven's sake," said the first old gaffer, who resembles me very closely.

"Quiet down," said the assistant director. "Roll it."

The barracks scene came to life. One girl dressed as a Wren was doing her lips. Others were talking and joking. One was washing up. (Get me—washing up. You'd think I was a bloody Limey, wouldn't you?) Julie Andrews, in World War II khaki, was stretched out full length on a bed. Next to her, an actress was mucking with her hair, preparing to go to a party and urging Julie to go, too.

The other actress pulled out a box from under the bed, showed a boxful of scanties. (Boy, is that ever a period word!) "Real nylons," whispered the actress. "And this is real silk."

"Remember when all that junk was scarce?" growled the second old gaffer. "Remember back when our sisters used to put all the cashmere sweaters in the icebox? Remember the Big Apple?"

"Shut up!" said the first old gaffer, restraining his tears. Then he asked Miss Andrews, "Julie, how old were you during this conflict?"

"I was 10 when it ended."

"Do you remember any of it?"

"Very well," said the lovely Miss Andrews. "What I don't remember is before the war. I was a real war baby. My earliest memories were of the doodlebugs." She sighed over the lovely childhood memory the way we old gaffers would over remembering Thanksgiving dinner at grandma's. (The doodlebugs, for the benefit of the younger readers, were nasty little unmanned missiles that blew up a large portion of the landscape when they landed.)

Miss Andrews laughed: "My mother didn't know what to do with me so she parked me in the backyard with some opera glasses and a whistle. I was a ballistic missile early warning system. The air raid alarm was no good because it sounded all day long. Never got your housework done if you paid attention to it. The food would burn. The washing would never be finished. So I'd wait until you could see the doodle bugs almost on top of us. Then I'd blow the whistle and we'd all dive into the air raid shelter."

Aaah — childhood: what golden memories. Air raid shelters. Bombs and all those gentle toys they had in the days when knighthood was in flower. I don't know what this generation of kids is going to reminisce about. Ban the bomb demonstrations in Trafalgar Square, Pete's sake. How can you get sentimental about that?

The violence of Tito's resentment over being questioned about Djilas in a press conference at the UN could have been an index of a troubled conscience. Or it could have been a manifestation of surprise that the demonstrations against him in New York City should have been so spirited and tenacious.

Originally, Tito was dubious about making his trip to the United States. When he was here in 1960 he was roundly booed, and he did not like it. But George Kennan, once the U.S. Ambassador in Yugoslavia, assured Tito that he might count on an orderly welcome to the U.S. in the atmosphere of 1963. The New York police expected some demonstrations, notably by the Hungarian Freedom Fighters who have learned that one placard on a stick is worth a thousand letters to the newspapers. But what surprised everybody was the sudden apparition of a young group of Serb and Croat Freedom Fighters who are mostly in their early twenties.

There are about three thousand young Serbs and Croats in America who have come to this country in the past four or five years. Bitterly disappointed with the fruits of Communism in their home country, they are fanatically anti-Communist. The depth of the anger which they expressed by one means or another disconcerted Tito. When he was told that the young Serbs and Croats were particularly well organized in California, he canceled his trip west. The attack of influenza was merely an excuse.

Tito's memories of the United States this time will not be particularly pleasant for one who likes "la dolce vita." But he will swallow any resentment for the very good reason that he can still use American money. The Yugoslav Communists may not need the arms they have been getting from us, for Red China is too far away from Yugoslavia to menace it militarily. But arms from the United States have been useful for shipment to Algeria, where they might, in turn, go to the Congo to supply the Holden Roberto gangsters for an attack on Portuguese Angola.

'Just Keep Taking The Aspirin'

President Battles For Civil Rights, Doesn't Want Fight In Voting Year

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Seldom has any President of the United States fought so hard to shape any piece of legislation as John F. Kennedy did the Civil Rights Bill all last week — even before it passed the House Judiciary Committee.

Through friendly Democratic mayors back in the home districts, and by both nocturnal and daytime secret White House conferences, Kennedy did his best to get civil rights back on a more moderate track. He did this despite the risk of antagonizing Negro leaders, for the following reasons:

1. A tough Civil Rights Bill will either get voted down or be debated into 1964 — an election year.

2. Already the civil rights issue has turned against the President in many parts of the North. Kennedy put it this way to one group of Democrats: Civil rights has lost us four times as many votes as it has won, but we have to pass it for moral reasons. It's much better to do it now than let it get snarled in the 1964 elections.

3. JFK, who once served in the House of Representatives, knows the difficulty of effectively amending a bill after it leaves a House committee. This was why he held night conferences and even stalled a committee vote until this week so he could break up the weird alliance of Northern Liberals and Southern Democrats who want a thorough bill (Southerners want it, of course, because a tough bill would be easier to defeat or sidetrack).

Here is some of the backstage debate which took place between the President and congressmen to persuade them to put civil rights back on the track as originally proposed by Brother Bobby, the Attorney General.

Insists On Some Legislation

Kennedy told congressional leaders at the White House that if the Civil Rights Bill was too strong it would be bottled up by the rules group or recommended to the Judiciary Committee.

"I don't want that to happen," said Kennedy. "I'm against any further wrangling. I want to see both parties get together and pass some legislaiton,—preferably the bill I have requested — But, if not that, something similar that will effectively protect the rights of Negroes.

GOP leader Charles Halleck said that he also wanted a strong bill enacted at this session, and that basically he agreed with Kennedy.

'I'm not asking for commitments from anyone," insisted the President. "All I'm asking is that everyone here keep an open mind on this subject until we can determine if there is sufficient support in the Judiciary Committee for a bill that is acceptable to both parties."

Manny Disagrees

Rep. Emmanuel Celler (D-N.Y.), chairman of the Judiciary Committee and the chief author of the tough Civil Rights Bill that Kennedy now seeks to sidetrack, said he would not stand in the way of a modified bill. But he added:

"I'm still for the subcommittee bill, Mr. President. I'll have to be honest with you in saying that. You tell us now that it is too broad to be passed by Congress. However, I didn't hear these objections during all the time we were considering the bill in subcommittee."

At a subsequent White House meeting with Kennedy and Judiciary Committee Democrats, Rep. Roland Libonati of Illinois told JFK that the Democrats probably would lose his state if an election were held today — all because of the turmoil over civil rights.

"The Italian-Americans, the Polish Americans and other ethnic groups are really stirred up about this," declared Libonati. "I am for a strong Civil Rights Bill, like yourself, but I certainly hope we can enact one this year so the turmoil will subside before the 1964 campaign gets under way."

"Naturally, I feel that way myself," replied Kennedy. That's why I am asking for a somewhat modified bill, with a chance of passage. This will be difficult for some of you. I know that you are under pressure from the AFL-CIO and Negro groups to pass the subcommittee bill."

Rodino Says Bill Goes Too Far

Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., said he thought the broader subcommittee bill improved on Kennedy's original civil rights proposals in that it contained a provision for a fair employment practices commission. (Kennedy originally proposed that the FEPC be considered in separate legislation.)

However, Rodino agreed with the President that Title III of the Subcommittee Bill was too broad and subject to abuses. This is the provision giving the Attorney General sweeping injunctive powers to deal with the deprivation of rights under the 14th Amendment.

"Under Title III any citizen could demand redress by the Attorney General on almost any pretext — even if he claimed that he wasn't receiving Social Security benefits," Rodino pointed out.

Kennedy said he felt the same way. He added that he had always been a strong advocate of an FEPC, saying that he did not request its inclusion in the Civil Rights Bill only because he feared it might kill the whole bill.

Rep. Byron Rogers of Colorado said he hoped the President would get "firm commitments" from House Republicans in any agreement for bi-partisan support of Kennedy-endorsed civil rights legislation.

"We Democrats are accused of being split on civil rights — and we are, of course," declared Rogers. "But so are the Republicans. Let's be sure that the Republicans mean what they say if they agree to bi-partisan support, instead of talking one way and voting another in the showdown."

Kennedy replied with a smile that he couldn't guarantee this in all cases, but that those who put politics above the public interest would themselves have to answer to the voters.

Both Archbishop And Rabbi

Good-natured Speaker John McCormack was ribbing Tom McNamara of my staff about recent references in this column calling John the "Archbishop of Boston."

"Please tell Drew that the real archbishop of Boston, Cardinal Cushing, will not take kindly to this fragmentation of his jurisdiction," grinned McCormack.

"Also, please tell him that his references are creating some confusion among my Jewish friends and constituents in Boston. Many of them call me 'Rabbi John,' though I am a Catholic, because of help they received from my office.

"However, I have no complaints," said the speaker. "When a man is called both an archbishop and a rabbi, I'd say he was doing all right in religious nomenclature."

Dr. King Feels JFK 'Retreated' On Rights Bill

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Maybe there will have to be another "March on Washington," and this time the demonstration may have to be directed to President Kennedy himself.

For the Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., hero of the last "march" and perhaps the most prominent of the Negro integration leaders, feels that Mr. Kennedy has "retreated" on the proposed "civil rights" legislation. Dr. King has just said in a public speech that "No President can be great or even fit for office if he attempts to accomodate political expediency with human rights."

This criticism came as a result of the efforts of the President and the Attorney General to obtain a "civil rights" bill which would get through both houses of Congress. Dr. King accused the administration of using "bad tactics" and said that, "If you start with a weak bill, and then get it watered down," it could become "a nothing bill."

The President, however, is much more familiar with what goes on behind the scenes in Congress than is Dr. King. Having been a member of the House as well as the Senate, Mr. Kennedy is acquainted with the many difficult barriers that arise through ordinary parliamentary procedures, and these can block the passage of legislation He feels that, if there is an opportunity to obtain later a separate bill that is stronger, he could always give his support to it.

The nation is witnessing at the moment one of the unfortunate political results of the numerous "marches" and demonstrations throughout the country which, instead of helping the Negro cause, have made it even more difficult than before to get results in Congress. This is because the Negro leaders themselves are not united and one set of politicians here is not sure which bill will get them the most Negro votes at the polls, while another set of congressmen see ways of mobilizing votes of resentment. For a good deal of opposition has been created among businesses to be affected by the proposed law.

There are fundamental differences between what is being called a "strong" bill and a "weak" bill. Thus, the President would be content with a bill which provided safeguards for the right to vote, the speed-up of public-school desegregation, and the banning of discrimination in "public accomodations" and in programs which the federal government itself operates.

Extremists, on the other hand, take the postiion that the bill on "public accommodations" should be aimed not merely at hotels and motels, restaurants, lunch counters, retail stores, gasoline stations and places of entertainment, but also at any business operating under state or city "authorization, permission or license."

It was this sweeping provision which members of the House Committee of the Judiciary were ready to champion. It caused dismay in the rnaks of the administration because of a fear that such a clause would arouse nationwide opposition since it could be applied to private schools, social clubs, law firms, insurance companies and apartment houses.

The so-called "strong" bill also included an authorization for the Attorney General to intervene by means of an injunction suit wherever there was any claim of denial of rights, privileges or immunities secured by the Constitution or laws of the United States. It has been felt by critics of this particular provision that such a law would open the way to legal controversies on freedom of the press and freedom of worship and a host of other questions where Congress hitherto has not delegated any such broad power to the Department of Justice.

As soon as it became evident that the bill was of an extreme nature, some of the members of Congress who do not want to see any legislation at all passed seized the opportunity to help get the "strong" bill out of the House committee and on to the floor, where it might readily be defeated and no substitute enacted at this session of Congress.

Being practical politicians, the President and the Attorney General are anxious to get some "civil rights" legislation passed right away. They would like to avoid a lengthy controversy in Congress during 1964 as the presidential campaign approaches. If they could succeed in having enacted the first comprehensive "civil rights" legislation passed by Congress in more than 100 years, they would be satisfied. The administration, of course, is following a normal and natural course in politics. Many of the Negro leaders, on the other hand, have gotten an exaggerated impression of what the "March on Washington" really meant in a political sense and are insisting on an "all or nothing" procedure.

There are, moreover, some Republicans in Congress who are quick to take advantage of this situation and who will not only help to get the bills out of committee but will vote for them on the floor because they wish to put their Democratic opponents in a hole and go before the Negro voters in the populous states as having championed a really strong "civil rights" measure. The whole controversy is characteristic of the game of politics.

LIVELY DIPLOMACY — The staid State Department has embarked on a program to popularize and dramatize foreign affairs. We don't profess to know what is behind the move, but posters have been placed around the department exhorting the paper-pushers to liven up their writing.

"Verbs need vim," the poster says. "Put action in your writing wherever you can. Use active verbs. They improve hard-to-read sentences."

Personally, we don't see why verbs are needed to breathe life and interest into such stories as Viet Nam, or the numerous revolutions in Latin America, or events in Africa.

In fact, it might be better to make the writing a little dull. At least, the department would not be subject to accusations that it is stirring up the international animals.

FAREWELL TO KNICKERS — Like most other organizations, the U. S. Supreme Court has some office boys — four of them to be exact. Of course, they're not called that. They're called pages. And in keeping with the dignity of the court, they're not allowed to dress in the informal attire of modern youths. For as long as anyone can remember, the pages were required to wear black knickers, black stockings and double-breasted jackets.

However, times change for the court and its employes as well as for others. When the court met for its autumn term, the pages appeared in long trousers. They are also now permitted to wear single-breasted jackets, but vests are required.

Vaccine Best Method Of Influenza Prevention

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

Influenza is an old disease; it was so named by ancient Italians because they believed it developed as the result of the influence of natural conditions, such as cold. While it is true that the infection is more prevalent during colder seasons of the year, we now know that viruses are responsible.

Since 1510, 31 pandemics have been described but we never will know their exact nature, including the 1918-19 calamity. The first causative flu organism (A) was not discovered until 1933; since then, several types have been isolated. The latest is the Asian, which is known as A2.

Influenza may produce a slight fever or the prostrating illness so common in epidemics. The majority develop cough, dryness or soreness of the throat, nasal congestion, headache, backache, and fever. The victim, when seen by the physician, usually has a flushed face and reddened eyes; he is lying in bed and coughing occasionally. He moans every time he turns because of aching.

Can influenza be prevented? The vaccine is the best method but the duration of protection seldom extends more than a year. Most of the flu vaccines contain several strains of the causative virus (polyvalent). They are said to be up to 70 per cent effective and are recommended for all persons over 45, pregnant women, victims of chronic heart and lung diseases, and groups in health and community services such as physicians, policemen, firemen, and bus drivers. Immunization programs are common in school, institutions, army camps, and industries where large numbers of people live or work together.

In addition, the usual precautions should be followed to minimize or prevent respiratory infections. The flu viruses are transmitted via the air and on contaminated fingers or other objects. Avoid crowds during epidemics and wash the hands frequently.

Once infection occurs, the only thing to do is go to bed and stay there. Aspirin will reduce aching and fever, cough medicine will ease hacking, and abundant fluids will help the body, especially when the sufferer cannot eat.

SEES SPOTS AND LINES

Mattie writes: Do many people in the world see spots before the eyes? The reason I ask is that I started seeing black and white spots and lines when I was 10 years old. My mother took me to an eye doctor and he recommended glasses. I was better for a while but now, at age 14, they are just as bad. I think I have some kind of eye disease.

REPLY

Yes, this condition is relatively common. Floaters are regarded as spots before the eyes but they may not respond to glasses. You ought to return to your opthalmologist because new lenses may be needed for an eye disease may be present. Meanwhile, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on spots before the eyes.

TOMORROW: A new drug for smallpox.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

Messrs. Lapidus and Moskowitz, two wealthy and highly respected merchants from New York, were making their first visit to Israel, and in the course of time, dropped into a Tel-Aviv night club where a new comedian had scored a sensational success. His entire monologue was delivered in Hebrew. Lapidus listened to it in silence without cracking one smile, but Moskowitz roared with laughter at each sally.

When the comedian had quit the stage, Lapidus said, "You certainly enjoyed that fellow's routine. I never knew you understood Hebrew." "I don't understand one word of it," answered Moskowitz. "If that's true," countered Lapidus, frowning, "how come you laughed so much at what he was saying?"

"Aha!" beamed Moskowitz. "I TRUSTED HIM!"

As Time Goes By

By John Crosby

LONDON.

Several old gaffers were threading their way through history. Piles of bric-a-brac. Period stuff. Props for a movie to be called "The Americanization of Emily."

One of the old gaffers (who looked like me) stopped and pointed at a relic of the past. "That was my first weapon," said the old gaffer.

"About as useful as a cutlass," said the other old gaffer. "What is it?"

"A 37-mm. anti-aircraft gun."

"My God," said the other old gaffer, "they were even ancient history before the end of the war."

"I used to be a gunner on one of those things."

"How old are you," asked the other not-quite-so-old gaffer.

"Never mind."

The two old gaffers went into a studio where a gaggle of very pretty young things dressed as ATS girls and Wrens were stretched out on a bed in a barracks, one of those pipe-shaped barracks they used to have in the old days. One of the girls in the foreground was Julie Andrews, who has almost made a career out of being Liza Higgins in "My Fair Lady." This is her first non-singing role.

"Some of them," said the other old gaffer sadly, "weren't born by the end of World War II. If you asked that girl there what the ATS was, she wouldn't know. I worked on a picture not so long ago. The director said to a whole cast of extras, 'Remember, this is D-Day.' Some young chick pipes up: 'What is D-Day?' "

"She should have heard of it, anyway. Like those young girls polled by the Ladies Home Journal who had never heard of Greta Garbo. You and I never saw Sara Bernhardt, but we know who she was, for heaven's sake," said the first old gaffer, who resembles me very closely.

"Quiet down," said the assistant director. "Roll it."

The barracks scene came to life. One girl dressed as a Wren was doing her lips. Others were talking and joking. One was washing up. (Get me—washing up. You'd think I was a bloody Limey, wouldn't you?) Julie Andrews, in World War II khaki, was stretched out full length on a bed. Next to her, an actress was mucking with her hair, preparing to go to a party and urging Julie to go, too.

The other actress pulled out a box from under the bed, showed a boxful of scanties. (Boy, is that ever a period word!) "Real nylons," whispered the actress. "And this is real silk."

"Remember when all that junk was scarce?" growled the second old gaffer. "Remember back when our sisters used to put all the cashmere sweaters in the icebox? Remember the Big Apple?"

"Shut up!" said the first old gaffer, restraining his tears. Then he asked Miss Andrews, "Julie, how old were you during this conflict?"

"I was 10 when it ended."

"Do you remember any of it?"

"Very well," said the lovely Miss Andrews. "What I don't remember is before the war. I was a real war baby. My earliest memories were of the doodlebugs." She sighed over the lovely childhood memory the way we old gaffers would over remembering Thanksgiving dinner at grandma's. (The doodlebugs, for the benefit of the younger readers, were nasty little unmanned missiles that blew up a large portion of the landscape when they landed.)

Miss Andrews laughed: "My mother didn't know what to do with me so she parked me in the backyard with some opera glasses and a whistle. I was a ballistic missile early warning system. The air raid alarm was no good because it sounded all day long. Never got your housework done if you paid attention to it. The food would burn. The washing would never be finished. So I'd wait until you could see the doodle bugs almost on top of us. Then I'd blow the whistle and we'd all dive into the air raid shelter."

Aaah — childhood: what golden memories. Air raid shelters. Bombs and all those gentle toys they had in the days when knighthood was in flower. I don't know what this generation of kids is going to reminisce about. Ban the bomb demonstrations in Trafalgar Square, Pete's sake. How can you get sentimental about that?

Texas Unanimous Choice For Top Ranking In UPI Poll Of Coaches

Longhorns First Team To Land All 35 Votes

Illinois, Ole Miss Replace Badgers, Pitt As Runners-up

By GEORGE C. LANFORD
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Texas, owner of major college football's longest regular season winning streak, Monday became the first team in the history of the United Press International coaches board to be selected unanimously No. 1 in the nation.

All 35 coaches on the UPI board ranked the Longhorns first on the strength of their unbeaten-united record, matched by only one other team in the top 20, Auburn. Texas has won 10 straight regular season games, including six this season and has not lost in 17 games. The Longhorns were beaten in the Cotton Bowl early this year.

Illinois and Mississippi, with identical 4-0-1 records, replaced Wisconsin and Pittsburgh in second and third spots respectively. Both the Badgers and Panthers were knocked from the unbeaten ranks last Saturday.

Bama, Navy Climb

Alabama climbed one position to fourth, Navy returned to the top 10, after a two-week absence in fifth; Wisconsin fell to sixth and idle Auburn was seventh.

Oklahoma dropped one place to eighth, Southern California moved into ninth and Syracuse broke into the 10 elite for the first time this season in 10th.

Texas, one of four major college squads with a perfect record, is the first in the 14 years of the UPI ratings to garner all first place votes. The Longhorns have had close calls in their last two victories, winning by margins of four points, since first gaining the top spot three weeks ago.

Twice - beaten Northwestern, ninth last week, tumbled out of the ratings as did Notre Dame, Mississippi State, Oregon, Iowa and Iowa State, all losers Saturday.

Buckeyes Bounce Back

Ohio State bounced back to 11th, followed by Louisiana St. and Pittsburgh in a tie for 12th and Nebraska, No. 14.

Michigan State, Baylor and North Carolina State rated 19th. Purdue and Duke tied for 20th.

Ratings are based on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2 - 1 basis for votes from first to 10th.

Only Southern California among the 10 best has lost twice. Alabama, Navy and Syracuse have 5-1 marks, Wisconsin and Oklahoma are 4-1. The Trojans are 4-2.

EYES OF TEXAS AND NATION ON THEM—College football's No. 1 team, Texas, continues on with Southern Methodist next on the schedule November 2. The Longhorns, coached by Darrell Royal, won their first six games, being led by Tommy Ford, tailback; Duke Carlisle, quarter, and Harold Philipp, fullback. Texas has whipped Tulane, Texas Tech, Oklahoma State, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Rice.

Shiner Maintains ACC Offense Lead, Rossi Threatening

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Dick Shiner, Maryland quarterback who is bidding for a second successive Atlantic Coast Conference individual offense crown, holds a five-yard edge over Jim Rossi of North Carolina State.

Rossi, who lost the lead to Shiner 10 days ago after leading the first month of the season, bounced back into threatening position with a 154-yard effort against Duke last week.

Shiner accounted for 134 yards against Wake Forest to bring his six-game total to 758 yards against 753 for Rossi. Shiner has compiled his total in 181 plays, a 4.2-yard average. Rossi has used only 151 plays and has a five-yard average.

Shiner is the passing leader with 64 of 128 complete for 693 yards and seven touchdowns. Duke's Scotty Glacken is second with 52 of 113 complete for 675 yards and nine touchdowns.

Jay Wilkinson of Duke continues as the rushing leader with 401 yards on 67 carries for a 5.9-yard average. Runner-up Ken Willard of North Carolina has 320 yards in 87 rushes.

Traynor, Lobert Named To Pennsy Hall Of Fame

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Former baseball stars Harold (Pie) Traynor and John (Hans) Lobert were elected Monday to the newly-established Pennsylvania sports hall of fame.

The two former big league players and managers join Arnold Palmer, Stan Musial, Chuck Bednarik and Glenn Killinger in the proposed hall, with two more living members to be selected.

The hall is designed to honor Pennsylvania natives or those who gained athletic fame in the state.

The late Connie Mack and Jim Thorpe were selections from among departed sports greats.

'Chinese Baptists' Figure Big In Baylor's Success

Defensive Platoon Has Bridgers' Club In SWC Contention

By ED FITE
UPI Sports Writer

DALLAS (UPI)—Amid all the fanfare about Baylor's Donald Dean (DDT) Trull and Lawrence (Latchin' Larry) Elkins, Coach John Bridgers would have you know that the Bears wouldn't be up there contending for the Southwest Conference leadership if it wasn't for his "Chinese Baptists."

That is the nickname the sandy - thatched Bridgers has stuck on his defensive platoon with some apologies to Louisiana State and its long - famed Chinese Bandits.

"They have saved our lives any number of times and we wouldn't be where we are today (a 4-1 season record and 3 - 0 in the Southwest Conference) if it wasn't for their dedicated play," Bridgers said Monday.

"Our big weakness last year was that we couldn't stop anybody, so the latter part of last year we gathered together a bunch of kids and formed a unit whose sole job was to play defense. After losing six of our first seven games, we proceeded to win the last three."

The Chinese Baptists, he said, "saved our necks several times in the (14-10) Arkansas victory and did the same thing again when they forced three field goal efforts by Texas Tech instead of letting the Raiders score in our come-from-behind (22-17) victory there."

The key man in this brigade is Bobby Maples, a 6-foot-4-inch, 224-pounder who "would dearly love to be playing quarterback, but who has taken such pride in playing defense as a linebacker that he's content to bide his time until Trull graduates," Bridgers says.

Maples, a younger brother of Baltimore Colts rookie Butch Maples, got a chance to show his quarterback wares a bit in last Saturday's 34 - 7 defeat of Texas A&M and hit two of three pass attempts, one for a touchdown.

Teaming with defensive captain Maples at linebacker is Ernest Erickson, a rangy 213-pounder who is also coming along as an offensive center when he gets the chance.

The guards are Stacy Mathis, a 214-pound product of six-man football in high school, and Ronnie (Stump) Rogers, the lightweight of the group with 186 pounds on a 5-8 frame.

Bobby Crenshaw, a 234-pound co - captain who has sparkled with his wide-ranging play, and Art Delgado, a 212 - pounder whose slow - healing tendencies made him a doubtful starter, man the tackles. Delgado didn't get his chance until speedy Johnny Jessup got hurt in the Oregon State game, but now Jessup may not ever get his job back.

Three other converted quarterbacks are among the defensive secondary— junior Robert Christian and sophomores Eddie Whiddon and Donnie Lawrence.

"They're all a bunch of would-be offensive hopefuls," Bridgers said, "but they've sure taken to defense with dedication."

Bridgers said lady luck was riding with the Bears this season.

"For example," he pointed out, "this is the first time in eight years we haven't come out of the Texas A&M game with four or five key players hurt and lost for the tough Texas Christian and Texas games coming up next."

Barring practice injuries, Baylor will be at top strength for TCU's invasion of Bear Stadium next Saturday afternoon.

Navy Regains First Place In Lambert Poll

NEW YORK (UPI)—Navy regained the lead in the Lambert Trophy ratings as the top Eastern college football team Monday on the strength of its 24-12 victory over Pitt.

The midshipmen, with a 5-1 record, were the unanimous choice of the Lambert selection committee comprised of coaches, writers and broadcasters. Navy had a perfect 10-point score.

Syracuse, also 5-1, moved up to second place with 8.5 points while Pitt (4 - 1) dropped to third with 8.1 points. Army (5-1) was fourth with 7 points and Penn State (4-2) was fifth with 5.9.

Princeton, Harvard, Dartmouth, Boston College and Massachusetts rounded out this week's top 10.

Rudolph Vaults Into 7th Place In Golf Winnings

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI)—Mason Rudolph's $3,500 first prize in last weekend's Fig Garden Village golf tournament at Fresno, Calif., Monday jumped him from 10th place to seventh among the PGA money-winners.

This week's only newcomer among the top 10 earners was Gene Littler, who won $675 for finishing in a tie for 15th place at Fresno. Littler was 10th in the standings.

Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, 1-2 in the dollar derby, competed in the Canada Cup matches in France last week. The top six money-winners were unchanged from last week.

The PGA standings through last weekend:

		Tournaments
1.	A. Palmer	7	$128,230
2.	J. Nicklaus	5	98,990
3.	J. Boros	3	77,356

5.	G. Player	1	55,455
6.	D. Finsterwald	1	46,916
7.	M. Rudolph	1	35,495

Staubach Hopes To Even Score Against Irish

Hurricane Aided ND Last Season

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — If the weather doesn't intervene, Navy quarterback Roger Staubach hopes to even an old football score Saturday when the Middies play Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind.

The Irish, with the aid of an East Coast hurricane, stopped Staubach with only 65 yards total offense and whipped Navy 20-12 last year in Philadelphia. It was the only time the Cincinnati, Ohio, youngster has been stymied since breaking into the starting line-up as a sophomore last season.

Playing in gale force winds and a driving rain, Staubach was able to complete only five of 10 passes for 57 yards. He slogged for eight additional yards on nine running plays and it didn't help matters much that he scored one of Navy's two touchdowns.

"It was the worst game I can recall," he said later.

Staubach and Navy have much more riding on Saturday's contest. The nationally-ranked Middies have a 5-1 record and are tops in the East after having defeated Pitt 24-12 last Saturday. And Staubach is within 42 yards of smashing the Naval Academy season record for total offense of 1,348 yards set by George Welsh in 1955.

Although a blitzing Pitt defense was able to dump him for losses totaling 93 yards, he completed 14 of 19 passes for 168 yards and picked up 60 more rushing for a net gain of 135 for the day. He also guided Navy on its drives for three touchdawns and a field goal, which were cashed in after interception of four Pitt passes. Eleven of Navy's 13 first downs came on passes or runs by Staubach.

Pitt was held to 76 yards rushing. The Panthers gained 173 passing, but 74 of these were on a touchdown pass to Paul Martha in the last 22 seconds which had no effect on the game.

Little Campers Gain 400 Yards Rushing

Allegany's Jayvees scored on the third play of the game yesterday afternoon and went on to rout the Beall junior varsity, 46-0, at Frostburg.

The initial score came on a pass maneuver from quarterback Don Wagner to end Ed Harris covering 50 yards. Wagner tallied on a run later in the contest.

Paul Haberlein and Jerry Phillips made two touchdowns apiece, getting off runs of 75 and 66 yards, respectively. Phillips also booted four extra points.

Rick Zegles blocked a Beall punt to set up one touchdown and Wagner's interception of a Mountaineer pass led to another. Other defensive standouts were Dave Grove, John Burns, Earl Raupach and Jim Carson.

Penn Station Goes To Make Way For New Garden

NEW YORK (AP) — With not a pause for sentiment, wreckers Monday began domolishing lofty, drafty Pennsylvania Station to make way for a giant new Madison Square Garden.

But the trains ran as usual, and they will continue to run during the wrecking, the construction and afterward. All the tracks are below ground.

For 53 years, nine-acre Penn Station has stood, a monument of neoclassic architecture in which untold millions of travelers have moved.

Leading New York artchitects fought to save the stately structure, designed after the Roman baths of Caracalla by Sanford White's noted architectural firm and built with tons of imported Italian marble.

The new Madison Square Garden, expected to be completed in 1966, will be the fourth of the name, each at a different Manhattan location. Actually, it will be a complex, featuring a 22,000-seat arena, a 4,000-seat amphitheater and a twin-towered office building to be constructed later.

Nicklaus Leads U.S. To Double Victory In Canada Cup Tourney

Posts 15-Under-Par 237; Jack, Palmer Top Field With 482

BY WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

PARIS (AP)—Jack Nicklaus sank putts of 20 and 35 feet and holed out a 70-foot shot from a sand trap for a phenomenal burst of birdies on consecutive holes Monday which brought the United States a double victory in the fog-curtailed Canada Cup International Golf Tournament.

The powerful, 23-year-old U.S. Masters and PGA champion from Columbus, Ohio, captured the individual title by three strokes with a nine-hole final round of 32, four under par, and with teammate Arnold Palmer, who kicked in with a 34, gave America its sixth team championship in 11 years and fourth in a row.

Cut To 63 Holes

Normally scheduled for 72 holes, the event was cut to 63 when a dense, soupy fog crept over the beautiful Saint-nom-la-Breteche course, 12 miles from the outskirts of Paris, and blanketed it with an eerie, gray gloom that limited visibility at times to 150 yards.

The same fog forced postponement of the final round Sunday and created a period of wild confusion Monday morning before directors finally decided to let the contestants go nine holes, come what may. At one stage, it appeared the entire last round might be canceled.

Winners Score 482

The U.S. teams of Nicklaus and Palmer finished with a 63-hole combined score of 482, three strokes ahead of the surprising Spanish team which was tied with America for the lead after three rounds, and 10 ahead of third-place South Africa, at 492. Canada was next at 495, then Australia 497 and nobody else close.

In the individual contest, Nicklaus' 15-under-par 237 gave him a bulging, five-stroke edge over Spain's Sebastian Miguel and South Africa's Gary Player, tied at 242. Spain's Ramon Sota was next at 243.

Palmer, his blade putter a slab of ice, was tied with Al Balding of Canada and Bruce Crampton of Australia for fifth at 245.

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—Nyrcos, the 3-year-old handicap star from France, was added Monday to the field for the $150,000 Washington, D.C. International at Laurel.

Texas Unanimous Choice For Top Ranking In UPI Poll Of Coaches

Longhorns First Team To Land All 35 Votes

Illinois, Ole Miss Replace Badgers, Pitt As Runners-up

By GEORGE C. LANFORD
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Texas, owner of major college football's longest regular season winning streak, Monday became the first team in the history of the United Press International coaches board to be selected unanimously No. 1 in the nation.

All 35 coaches on the UPI board ranked the Longhorns first on the strength of their unbeaten-united record, matched by only one other team in the top 20, Auburn. Texas has won 10 straight regular season games, including six this season and has not lost in 17 games. The Longhorns were beaten in the Cotton Bowl early this year.

Illinois and Mississippi, with identical 4-0-1 records, replaced Wisconsin and Pittsburgh in second and third spots respectively. Both the Badgers and Panthers were knocked from the unbeaten ranks last Saturday.

Bama, Navy Climb

Alabama climbed one position to fourth, Navy returned to the top 10, after a two-week absence in fifth; Wisconsin fell to sixth and idle Auburn was seventh.

Oklahoma dropped one place to eighth, Southern California moved into ninth and Syracuse broke into the 10 elite for the first time this season in 10th.

Texas, one of four major college squads with a perfect record, is the first in the 14 years of the UPI ratings to garner all first place votes. The Longhorns have had close calls in their last two victories, winning by margins of four points, since first gaining the top spot three weeks ago.

Twice - beaten Northwestern, ninth last week, tumbled out of the ratings as did Notre Dame, Mississippi State, Oregon, Iowa and Iowa State, all losers Saturday.

Buckeyes Bounce Back

Ohio State bounced back to 11th, followed by Louisiana St. and Pittsburgh in a tie for 12th and Nebraska, No. 14.

Michigan State, Baylor and North Carolina State rated 19th. Purdue and Duke tied for 20th.

Ratings are based on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2 - 1 basis for votes from first to 10th.

Only Southern California among the 10 best has lost twice. Alabama, Navy and Syracuse have 5-1 marks, Wisconsin and Oklahoma are 4-1. The Trojans are 4-2.

EYES OF TEXAS AND NATION ON THEM—College football's No. 1 team, Texas, continues on with Southern Methodist next on the schedule November 2. The Longhorns, coached by Darrell Royal, won their first six games, being led by Tommy Ford, tailback; Duke Carlisle, quarter, and Harold Philipp, fullback. Texas has whipped Tulane, Texas Tech, Oklahoma State, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Rice.

Shiner Maintains ACC Offense Lead, Rossi Threatening

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Dick Shiner, Maryland quarterback who is bidding for a second successive Atlantic Coast Conference individual offense crown, holds a five-yard edge over Jim Rossi of North Carolina State.

Rossi, who lost the lead to Shiner 10 days ago after leading the first month of the season, bounced back into threatening position with a 154-yard effort against Duke last week.

Shiner accounted for 134 yards against Wake Forest to bring his six-game total to 758 yards against 753 for Rossi. Shiner has compiled his total in 181 plays, a 4.2-yard average. Rossi has used only 151 plays and has a five-yard average.

Shiner is the passing leader with 64 of 128 complete for 693 yards and seven touchdowns. Duke's Scotty Glacken is second with 52 of 113 complete for 675 yards and nine touchdowns.

Jay Wilkinson of Duke continues as the rushing leader with 401 yards on 67 carries for a 5.9-yard average. Runner-up Ken Willard of North Carolina has 320 yards in 87 rushes.

The two former big league players and managers join Arnold Palmer, Stan Musial, Chuck Bednarik and Glenn Killinger in the proposed hall, with two more living members to be selected.

The hall is designed to honor Pennsylvania natives or those who gained athletic fame in the state.

The late Connie Mack and Jim Thorpe were selections from among departed sports greats.

'Chinese Baptists' Figure Big In Baylor's Success

Defensive Platoon Has Bridgers' Club In SWC Contention

By ED FITE
UPI Sports Writer

DALLAS (UPI)—Amid all the fanfare about Baylor's Donald Dean (DDT) Trull and Lawrence (Latchin' Larry) Elkins, Coach John Bridgers would have you know that the Bears wouldn't be up there contending for the Southwest Conference leadership if it wasn't for his "Chinese Baptists."

That is the nickname the sandy - thatched Bridgers has stuck on his defensive platoon with some apologies to Louisiana State and its long - famed Chinese Bandits.

"They have saved our lives any number of times and we wouldn't be where we are today (a 4-1 season record and 3 - 0 in the Southwest Conference) if it wasn't for their dedicated play," Bridgers said Monday.

"Our big weakness last year was that we couldn't stop anybody, so the latter part of last year we gathered together a bunch of kids and formed a unit whose sole job was to play defense. After losing six of our first seven games, we proceeded to win the last three."

The Chinese Baptists, he said, "saved our necks several times in the (14-10) Arkansas victory and did the same thing again when they forced three field goal efforts by Texas Tech instead of letting the Raiders score in our come-from-behind (22-17) victory there."

The key man in this brigade is Bobby Maples, a 6-foot-4-inch, 224-pounder who "would dearly love to be playing quarterback, but who has taken such pride in playing defense as a linebacker that he's content to bide his time until Trull graduates," Bridgers says.

Maples, a younger brother of Baltimore Colts rookie Butch Maples, got a chance to show his quarterback wares a bit in last Saturday's 34 - 7 defeat of Texas A&M and hit two of three pass attempts, one for a touchdown.

Teaming with defensive captain Maples at linebacker is Ernest Erickson, a rangy 213-pounder who is also coming along as an offensive center when he gets the chance.

The guards are Stacy Mathis, a 214-pound product of six-man football in high school, and Ronnie (Stump) Rogers, the lightweight of the group with 186 pounds on a 5-8 frame.

Bobby Crenshaw, a 234-pound co - captain who has sparkled with his wide-ranging play, and Art Delgado, a 212 - pounder whose slow - healing tendencies made him a doubtful starter, man the tackles. Delgado didn't get his chance until speedy Johnny Jessup got hurt in the Oregon State game, but now Jessup may not ever get his job back.

Three other converted quarterbacks are among the defensive secondary— junior Robert Christian and sophomores Eddie Whiddon and Donnie Lawrence.

"They're all a bunch of would-be offensive hopefuls," Bridgers said, "but they've sure taken to defense with dedication."

Bridgers said lady luck was riding with the Bears this season.

"For example," he pointed out, "this is the first time in eight years we haven't come out of the Texas A&M game with four or five key players hurt and lost for the tough Texas Christian and Texas games coming up next."

Barring practice injuries, Baylor will be at top strength for TCU's invasion of Bear Stadium next Saturday afternoon.

Navy Regains First Place In Lambert Poll

NEW YORK (UPI)—Navy regained the lead in the Lambert Trophy ratings as the top Eastern college football team Monday on the strength of its 24-12 victory over Pitt.

The midshipmen, with a 5-1 record, were the unanimous choice of the Lambert selection committee comprised of coaches, writers and broadcasters. Navy had a perfect 10-point score.

Syracuse, also 5-1, moved up to second place with 8.5 points while Pitt (4 - 1) dropped to third with 8.1 points. Army (5-1) was fourth with 7 points and Penn State (4-2) was fifth with 5.9.

Princeton, Harvard, Dartmouth, Boston College and Massachusetts rounded out this week's top 10.

Rudolph Vaults Into 7th Place In Golf Winnings

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI)—Mason Rudolph's $3,500 first prize in last weekend's Fig Garden Village golf tournament at Fresno, Calif., Monday jumped him from 10th place to seventh among the PGA money-winners.

This week's only newcomer among the top 10 earners was Gene Littler, who won $675 for finishing in a tie for 15th place at Fresno. Littler was 10th in the standings.

Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, 1-2 in the dollar derby, competed in the Canada Cup matches in France last week. The top six money-winners were unchanged from last week.

The PGA standings through last weekend:

CHICAGO (AP) — Jockey James Ruybali suffered a broken leg and one horse was killed and another had to be destroyed Monday in a three-horse spill at Sportsman's Park.

Ruybali, 25, of Chama, N.M., was aboard Loveable John when the mishap took place at the top of the stretch in the eighth race.

Loveable John suffered only bruises but Bud Nose, ridden by Calvin Stone, suffered a broken leg and had to be destroyed. Sun by Sun, riden by Joseph Glorioso, was dead apparently of a broken neck when veterinarians reached the scene.

Stone and Glorioso escaped injury. Ruybali was taken to St. Anthony's Hospital.

It was the second bad spill at Sportsman's in two racing days. Jockey Jack Feselman suffered a broken collarbone in a similar spill Saturday.

Staubach Hopes To Even Score Against Irish

Hurricane Aided ND Last Season

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — If the weather doesn't intervene, Navy quarterback Roger Staubach hopes to even an old football score Saturday when the Middies play Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind.

The Irish, with the aid of an East Coast hurricane, stopped Staubach with only 65 yards total offense and whipped Navy 20-12 last year in Philadelphia. It was the only time the Cincinnati, Ohio, youngster has been stymied since breaking into the starting line-up as a sophomore last season.

Playing in gale force winds and a driving rain, Staubach was able to complete only five of 10 passes for 57 yards. He slogged for eight additional yards on nine running plays and it didn't help matters much that he scored one of Navy's two touchdowns.

"It was the worst game I can recall," he said later.

Staubach and Navy have much more riding on Saturday's contest. The nationally-ranked Middies have a 5-1 record and are tops in the East after having defeated Pitt 24-12 last Saturday. And Staubach is within 42 yards of smashing the Naval Academy season record for total offense of 1,348 yards set by George Welsh in 1955.

Although a blitzing Pitt defense was able to dump him for losses totaling 93 yards, he completed 14 of 19 passes for 168 yards and picked up 60 more rushing for a net gain of 135 for the day. He also guided Navy on its drives for three touchdawns and a field goal, which were cashed in after interception of four Pitt passes. Eleven of Navy's 13 first downs came on passes or runs by Staubach.

Pitt was held to 76 yards rushing. The Panthers gained 173 passing, but 74 of these were on a touchdown pass to Paul Martha in the last 22 seconds which had no effect on the game.

Allegany JV Team Routs Beall, 46-0

Little Campers Gain 400 Yards Rushing

Allegany's Jayvees scored on the third play of the game yesterday afternoon and went on to rout the Beall junior varsity, 46-0, at Frostburg.

Six of the seven touchdowns were scored on rushing plays as the Little Campers picked up a whopping total of 400 yards on the ground.

The initial score came on a pass maneuver from quarterback Don Wagner to end Ed Harris covering 50 yards. Wagner tallied on a run later in the contest.

Paul Haberlein and Jerry Phillips made two touchdowns apiece, getting off runs of 75 and 66 yards, respectively. Phillips also booted four extra points.

Rick Zegles blocked a Beall punt to set up one touchdown and Wagner's interception of a Mountaineer pass led to another. Other defensive standouts were Dave Grove, John Burns, Earl Raupach and Jim Carson.

The victory was the second in six starts for the Camper Jayvees, who meet Fort Hill's junior varsity in a 1:30 p. m. battle at the Stadium on Monday, November 11.

The summary:

Penn Station Goes To Make Way For New Garden

NEW YORK (AP) — With not a pause for sentiment, wreckers Monday began domolishing lofty, drafty Pennsylvania Station to make way for a giant new Madison Square Garden.

But the trains ran as usual, and they will continue to run during the wrecking, the construction and afterward. All the tracks are below ground.

For 53 years, nine-acre Penn Station has stood, a monument of neoclassic architecture in which untold millions of travelers have moved.

Leading New York artchitects fought to save the stately structure, designed after the Roman baths of Caracalla by Sanford White's noted architectural firm and built with tons of imported Italian marble.

The new Madison Square Garden, expected to be completed in 1966, will be the fourth of the name, each at a different Manhattan location. Actually, it will be a complex, featuring a 22,000-seat arena, a 4,000-seat amphitheater and a twin-towered office building to be constructed later.

Nicklaus Leads U.S. To Double Victory In Canada Cup Tourney

Posts 15-Under-Par 237; Jack, Palmer Top Field With 482

BY WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

PARIS (AP)—Jack Nicklaus sank putts of 20 and 35 feet and holed out a 70-foot shot from a sand trap for a phenomenal burst of birdies on consecutive holes Monday which brought the United States a double victory in the fog-curtailed Canada Cup International Golf Tournament.

The powerful, 23-year-old U.S. Masters and PGA champion from Columbus, Ohio, captured the individual title by three strokes with a nine-hole final round of 32, four under par, and with teammate Arnold Palmer, who kicked in with a 34, gave America its sixth team championship in 11 years and fourth in a row.

Cut To 63 Holes

Normally scheduled for 72 holes, the event was cut to 63 when a dense, soupy fog crept over the beautiful Saint-nom-la-Breteche course, 12 miles from the outskirts of Paris, and blanketed it with an eerie, gray gloom that limited visibility at times to 150 yards.

The same fog forced postponement of the final round Sunday and created a period of wild confusion Monday morning before directors finally decided to let the contestants go nine holes, come what may. At one stage, it appeared the entire last round might be canceled.

Winners Score 482

The U.S. teams of Nicklaus and Palmer finished with a 63-hole combined score of 482, three strokes ahead of the surprising Spanish team which was tied with America for the lead after three rounds, and 10 ahead of third-place South Africa, at 492. Canada was next at 495, then Australia 497 and nobody else close.

In the individual contest, Nicklaus' 15-under-par 237 gave him a bulging, five-stroke edge over Spain's Sebastian Miguel and South Africa's Gary Player, tied at 242. Spain's Ramon Sota was next at 243.

Palmer, his blade putter a slab of ice, was tied with Al Balding of Canada and Bruce Crampton of Australia for fifth at 245.

Warrior Mountain Hunting Land Added

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission has opened 550 additional acres of land to public hunting in the Warrior Mountain Wildlife Management Area in Allegany County.

Chester Kerns, chief of the Game Management Division, said removing the land from the protected game refuse is in line with good management and policy of the state commission.

The area in question is near Twiggtown, off U.S. 40. It brings to 2,776 acres the amount of public hunting lands in the Warrior Mountain area which is popular for its deer, wild turkey, grouse, squirrels and rabbits.

Handicap Star From France In International

Nyrcos Is Ninth In Nov. 11 Field

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—Nyrcos, the 3-year-old handicap star from France, was added Monday to the field for the $150,000 Washington, D.C. International at Laurel.

John D. Schapiro, president of Laurel race course, said Henri Aubert, owner of the grey colt was invited to start him in the Nov. 11 international on the basis of Nyrcos' Oct. 20 victory in Prix du Conseil Municipal at Longchamp.

Nyrcos won the 1½-mile race by three lengths after being a top threat in several other major French events.

A son of La Verende out of First One, Nyrcos was named to replace Relko, the French star whose owner had accepted an invitation to the International then withdrew.

In the 12th running of the 1½-mile International, Nyrcos will koin Misit, a 5-year-old European racing standout, in trying to gain France's fourth victory in the 12-year history of the race.

The addition of Nyrcos brought the international field back to nine. Named earlier were Kelso and Mongo of the United States, Hungary's Imperial, Ireland's Christmas Island, Russia's Gudron and Bryansk and England's Espresso.

Keyser JVs Beat Fort Hill Second Time

Unbeaten Team Scores 13-0 Win

Keyser's undefeated Jayvees defeated Fort Hill, 13-0, yesterday at Clark Field in Keyser for their eighth win of the season and second over the Little Sentinels.

All the scoring was done in the first half. Dave Smith hauled in a 27-yard pass from John Fox and carried it the remaining eight yards to paydirt for the first TD, and Chuck Hart returned a punt 70 yards for the other tally in the second period.

Fort Hill never penetrated inside the home team's 20-yard line and absorbed its second loss in eight games, both to coach Jim Thompson's Keyser lads.

The winners gained a net total of 186 yards on the ground and registered seven first downs. Fort Hill also had seven first downs, with 112 yards gained rushing and 77 through the air. The Fox-to-Smith touchdown pass was the only one of seven completed by the West Virginians.

The junior Golden Tornado winds up its season next Monday, hosting the Beall Jayvees at Clark Field at 4 p. m.

The summary:

Keyser	6	7	0	0	—13

Touchdowns: Dave Smith (35-yard pass-run from John Fox); Chuck Hart (70-yard punt return.).

Attendance Is Reported Up In AFL

At Least Four Clubs Will Show Profit

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Commissioner Joe Foss reported increased attendance and dollar volume in the American Football League Monday and estimated that four, and possibly six, of the eight teams, will show a profit in 1963.

Foss, speaking atthe weekly meeting of the New York Football Writers, said attendance had passed the 600,000 mark at the halfway point in the season, an increase of 80,000 over a similar period last year.

"Dollar volume is up 29 per cent," said Foss. "We really are moving along. All the clubs are up."

Although Foss did not list the clubs who were making money he madeit clear that the New York Jets and Oakland Raiders still were in the losing category.

"New York was way down but it is moving up every week," he said. "Oakland is locked in as a financial loser until it is able to move into the new stadium that they expect to be ready by 1965."

Foss said the league had become so well balanced that "the word upset has become obsolete." He pointed to Oakland's defeat of San Diego Sunday, their first over the Raiders since the league started, as an example of the balance.

"The two games I saw over the weekend were close," he said. "The Buffalo-Boston game was decided late when Jack Kemp hit a receiver. Houston and Kansas City were close until Kansas City came apart in the last quarter. Earlier Kansas City had won by the same 28-7 score."

CHURCH LEAGUE CHAMPS RECEIVE TROPHY—Emmanuel Methodist won regular season title and also the playoff championship in the 16-club Church Softball League this year. Defeating Pinto Mennonite for both titles, Emmanuel Methodist wound up the season with a record of 31 wins and 4 losses. Richard Staples, bat boy, is pictured in front. Others in the picture, left to right: FRONT ROW—Bill Whiteman, Babe Crabtree, Ed Reynolds, Richard "Dick" Staples and William "Bee" Orndorff, president of athletic committee. SECOND ROW—Jim Malone, Don Lewis, John Saville and Junior Saville. THIRD ROW—Harry Beningner, Mike Kreiger, Bob Marker, player-coach Harold Malone and the Rev. Harold McClay, pastor. Crabtree and Reynolds are holding the championship trophy.

Squirrel, Turkey Ends Thursday, Archers Open Deer Hunt Friday

Rabbit Season Opens Nov. 15; Spotlighters Pay Fines Of $2,000

The squirrel and turkey hunting season runs out Thursday and there will be a two weeks' lapse before the rabbit, ruffed grouse, pheasant and quail season gets under way in Maryland, November 15, according to Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden.

The open season on rabbit, ruffed grouse, pheasant and quail will continue until December 5, when the deer season for firearms gets under way. After the close of the deer season December 14, the season for rabbit, grouse, pheasant and quail will continue until January 5.

Minke pointed out that it will not be necessary to purchase a new hunting license after January 5 because licenses run from July 1 until June 30 of the following year.

Bow Season Opens Friday

The bow season for deer opens Friday (Nov. 1) and continues until Nov. 14.

Minke stated that hunters in Western Maryland have shown excellent cooperation in forest fire prevention. During the past few weeks, game wardens have checked several hundred hunters in the forest and not a single one was found smoking.

Game wardens also encountered different types of hunters that were not so cooperative. During the month 17 persons were apprehended for spotlighting deer and the fines for these violations amounted to nearly $2,000. Firearms that were confiscated will be auctioned off in front of the sheriff's office, Prospect Square, Saturday at 10 a. m. Thirteen guns are up for sale. Lights used illegally are confiscated but they are not sold at public auction. Receipts of the gun sale along with all game and fish law fines are credited to the State Game Protection Fund.

20 Per Cent Apprehended

The fact that a considerable number of night hunters are apprehended does not mean the wardens have this problem under control for they believe that less than twenty per cent of the violators are apprehended. Nevertheless, many farmers and sportsmen have endeavored to give the wardens information that is helpful.

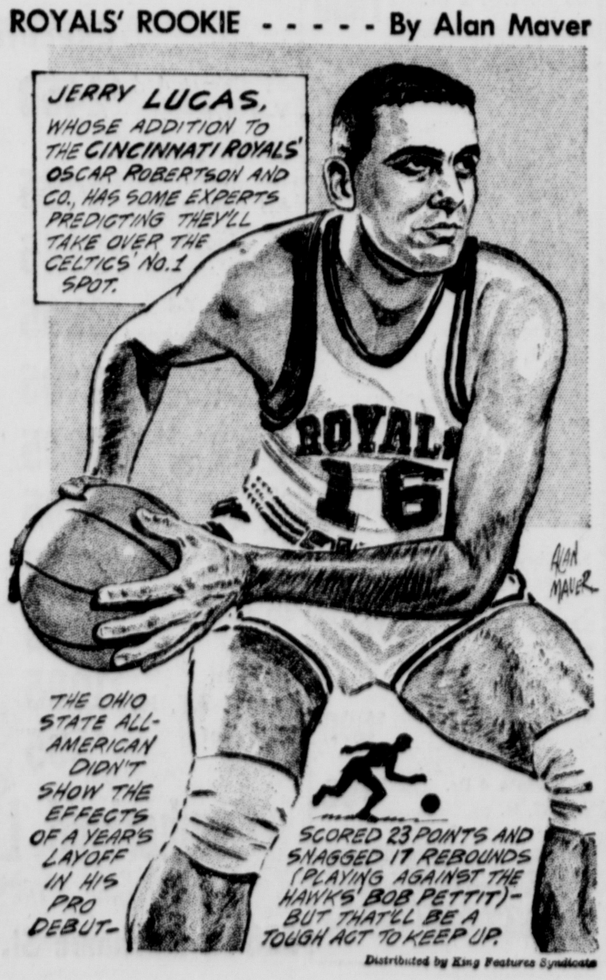

In addition to law enforcement, game wardens are requested to furnish information. During the past three months Minke received more than 200 letters from sportsmen throughout the state. He estimates that approximately 50 per cent of the hunters in Maryland do some of their hunting in this region, comprising Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties. Two-thirds of the state's public hunting land is in this region.

There are eight district game wardens and one regional warden and they are subject to call 24 hours a day. There are 603,100 acres of forest in this region, according to the tentative listing of commercial forest in Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties.

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By Walter L. Johns, Central Press Sports Editor

WE WERE WATCHING the sports news on television, my wife and I, and they flashed a picture of Y. A. Tittle on the screen, talking to two of his youngsters.

"Who's that?" my wife asked.

"That's Y. A. Tittle, the big quarterbacking star of the New York Giants," I said.

"Why, he's an old man," came back my wife. "You mean to tell me he's still playing and he's that old?"

Yes, we said, still playing, but NOT that old, as pros go. Yat is 36, the oldest member of the Giants, and looks older because of that bald pate. This is his 12th season in pro ball and he appears to have lost none of his great passing ability. In fact, he's leading the NFL right now.

Tittle is just one of the "old" men in the pro game, a sport you'd think would be taboo for the rocking chair set, considering the pounding they take.

• • •

THERE AREN'T any more Charlie Conerlys around—Charlie played until he was 42—but there are a flock of

veterans who have been around more than a dozen years and still are apparently going strong.

Oldest of the pros starting this season were Leo Nomellini of the 49ers, Jim Martin of the Colts, and Lou Groza of the Browns, each 39. Groza has lost a bit of his effectiveness but he still has contributed 43 points to the Brownies' cause on six field goals and 25 extra points. Martin, who spent so many years with the Lions, also has done a remarkable job for the Colts, only last week kicking four field goals against the Lions. Ernie Stautner was 38 as this season began.

Joe Perry, former all-time rushing leader, is 36 and so is Gino Marchetti.

Other oldsters include Bob Gain, who is 34 and in his 11th season; Billy Howton, in his 11th year; Dick (Night Train) Lane 35, and in his 12th season, and Hugh McElhenny, in his 12th campaign.

• • •

SOME OF THE OLDTIMERS played for many years. Such outstanding stars as Mel Hein, now an assistant at USC, played 15 years; Sammy Baugh, the old passing man of Washington, put in 16 years, and Johnny (Blood) McNally, 15 years with the Packers and other teams.

Jim Thorpe, the old Carlisle Indian star, played until he was 40—and he may have been older than that.

SAN BRUNO, Calif. (UPI)—Ruffin Red took a commanding lead near the stretch turn and won the featured Golden Gate purse at Tanforan Monday.

The subs were Bill Humenuk, a Harvard senior who played his first big game and guided the Cantabs to a 17-13 victory over previously unbeaten Dartmouth, and Tom Holman, Syracuse sophomore who plays only on defense.

Bill Louden Award — Match Record Pace — Blough's 72 High — Need One For 100

By C. V. BURNS

WILLIAM "Bill" Louden, whose widow will be presented a posthumous award at the Tri-Towns Sports Hall of Fame dinner, Sunday, November 3, at Westernport, played 593 games in the National, American and Federal Leagues and turned in a batting average of .261.

BILL LOUDEN

Bill was born at Piedmont, August 27, 1885 and died December 8, 1935.

He was the first player in this area to make good in the big leagues. In 1907, Louden was with the New York Highlanders (now the Yankees) and played for the Detroit Tigers in 1912 and 1913.

A baseball war in 1913 resulted in the formation of a third major league, known as the Federal League, and Louden played in that circuit with Buffalo in 1914 and 1915.

The Federal League teams were Indianapolis, Chicago, Newark, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Kansas City, St. Louis, Brooklyn and Baltimore.

Harry Sinclair, the oil king, and Robert B. Ward, of the Ward Baking Company, of Brooklyn, N. Y., were the principal backers of the Federal League, but the circuit lasted only two years and quit after losing a lot of money.

In 1916, Bill wound up his major league career with the Cincinnati Reds. The great Christy Mathewson was with the Reds that year, his last in the big leagues.

Heinie Groh, Ed Roush, Ivy Wingo, Earl "Greasy" Neale, also a native West Virginian, Hal Chase and Larry Kopf were also with the 1916 Reds, managed by Pat Moran.

Louden, who played several infield positions but was better known as a second baseman, was the manager of the Martinsburg Club of the Blue Ridge League in 1920 when Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove graduated from the Midland Indians to start his career in organized ball.

Tommy McGuire, of Westernport, who was honored posthumously at the first Tri-Towns Hall of Fame dinner last year, also made his debut in organized ball under Louden at Martinsburg in 1920 after having played with the Midland Indians in 1919.

FORT HILL High School's 239 points in seven games matches the total credited to the Sentinels of 1949 who rolled up a total of 361 points for an all-time city high for 10 games. Fort Hill was 9-1 that year and scored 122 points in the last three games.

The Sentinels have three more games on their schedule all at home—with Windber, Loyola of Baltimore and Allegany.

BYRON BLOUGH, who has set up a new scoring record in the Catholic Youth Football League, is the son of Bernard "Bud" Blough, of Park Heights, who played in Allegany's backfield in the 1930s when Bert Harbert coached the Campers. "Bud" is a brother of John Blough, who was the regular center in the early days of football at LaSalle and coached the Explorers in 1936, 1937 and 1938.

Byron has scored 72 points in five games for St. Patrick's champions, bettering the previous high of 64 set by Jim Hudson of St. Mary's in 1960. One more game remains on St. Patrick's schedule.

Last year Byron made his debut as a 115-pound end. He now tips the beam around 135, according to Coach "Buck" Shober.

POTOMAC STATE College's football team appears to be going all out in marking West Virginia's Centennial.

The Catamounts recently gave Coach "Horse" Lough his 100th victory. All they need now is one more defeat to give their coach his 100th loss.

Lough's record at Potomac State is now 100-99-10.

Potomac plays Frostburg State here Saturday night and closes its season with Baltimore Junior College in Baltimore November 9.

CURLY BYRD, who coached football at the University of Maryland for 21 years, contends there's really not much that's new in football.

He says he saw North Carolina State score against Maryland this year on a fake dive play he had first seen in 1908.

Byrd claims the "T" formation was used in 1899 at the University of Nebraska and that Western Maryland, under Coach Mickey Whitehurst, had the "I" formation in 1906.

And did you know that Curly was a baseball pitcher? He once pitched for the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast League.

FROSTBURG STATE Teachers College goes into its final soccer game of the season with a 4-4 record against Akron (Ohio) University Nov. 9 at Frostburg and must face Pete Milich, the nation's leading scorer in 1962.

WHEN Johnstown High School, once a power in Western Pennsylvania football, suffered a 50-0 pasting recently at the hands of McKeesport High's powerhouse, the Trojans threw "bombs" but it was discoverd they had no fuses.

Johnstown's aerial attack hit a new low in that game when not a single one of the 21 tries was completed. Seven of the passes were intercepted.

Measure To Aid Military Athletes Makes Headway

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon won a big round Monday in its drive to get $2 million to send military athletes to the Olympics and other international sports contests in the next four years.

A House armed services subcommittee approved this amount, $1.2 million more than the Defense Department had to spend on international sports in the last four years.

"Let's understand what we are doing," said the subcommittee chairman, Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La. "Our objectives are to make the United States the most powerful nation in the world athletically. The Russians are subsidizing their civilian athletes directly. It is our aim to regain the supremacy we had over the years and this is one way to do it."

Hebert made his remarks in open session before the subcommittee met in secret and approved the bill authorizing the money. The bill now goes to the full armed Services Committee.

Pimlico To Install Twin Double Betting

BALTIMORE (AP) — Twin double wagering will be inaugurated at Pimlico Race Course when the track's 28-day autumn meeting opens Nov. 13, track officials announced Monday.

Robert Sloan, Pimlico mutuels manager, said 52 twin double windows will be provided to accommodate the multiple combination wagering on the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh races.

Bowie, which closed Monday, was the first major Maryland track to install the twin double. It has not been used at Laurel, the state's third major track, which opens a 12-day meeting Wednesday.

Keyser JVs Beat Fort Hill Second Time

Unbeaten Team Scores 13-0 Win

Keyser's undefeated Jayvees defeated Fort Hill, 13-0, yesterday at Clark Field in Keyser for their eighth win of the season and second over the Little Sentinels.

All the scoring was done in the first half. Dave Smith hauled in a 27-yard pass from John Fox and carried it the remaining eight yards to paydirt for the first TD, and Chuck Hart returned a punt 70 yards for the other tally in the second period.

Fort Hill never penetrated inside the home team's 20-yard line and absorbed its second loss in eight games, both to coach Jim Thompson's Keyser lads.

The winners gained a net total of 186 yards on the ground and registered seven first downs. Fort Hill also had seven first downs, with 112 yards gained rushing and 77 through the air. The Fox-to-Smith touchdown pass was the only one of seven completed by the West Virginians.

The junior Golden Tornado winds up its season next Monday, hosting the Beall Jayvees at Clark Field at 4 p. m.

The summary:

Touchdowns: Dave Smith (35-yard pass-run from John Fox); Chuck Hart (70-yard punt return.).

Point after Touchdown: Fox (placement).

Attendance Is Reported Up In AFL

At Least Four Clubs Will Show Profit

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Commissioner Joe Foss reported increased attendance and dollar volume in the American Football League Monday and estimated that four, and possibly six, of the eight teams, will show a profit in 1963.

Foss, speaking atthe weekly meeting of the New York Football Writers, said attendance had passed the 600,000 mark at the halfway point in the season, an increase of 80,000 over a similar period last year.

"Dollar volume is up 29 per cent," said Foss. "We really are moving along. All the clubs are up."

Although Foss did not list the clubs who were making money he madeit clear that the New York Jets and Oakland Raiders still were in the losing category.

"New York was way down but it is moving up every week," he said. "Oakland is locked in as a financial loser until it is able to move into the new stadium that they expect to be ready by 1965."

Foss said the league had become so well balanced that "the word upset has become obsolete." He pointed to Oakland's defeat of San Diego Sunday, their first over the Raiders since the league started, as an example of the balance.

"The two games I saw over the weekend were close," he said. "The Buffalo-Boston game was decided late when Jack Kemp hit a receiver. Houston and Kansas City were close until Kansas City came apart in the last quarter. Earlier Kansas City had won by the same 28-7 score."

Hunting Seasons:

Squirrel, Turkey Ends Thursday, Archers Open Deer Hunt Friday

Rabbit Season Opens Nov. 15; Spotlighters Pay Fines Of $2,000

The squirrel and turkey hunting season runs out Thursday and there will be a two weeks' lapse before the rabbit, ruffed grouse, pheasant and quail season gets under way in Maryland, November 15, according to Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden.

The open season on rabbit, ruffed grouse, pheasant and quail will continue until December 5, when the deer season for firearms gets under way. After the close of the deer season December 14, the season for rabbit, grouse, pheasant and quail will continue until January 5.

Minke pointed out that it will not be necessary to purchase a new hunting license after January 5 because licenses run from July 1 until June 30 of the following year.

Bow Season Opens Friday

The bow season for deer opens Friday (Nov. 1) and continues until Nov. 14.

Minke stated that hunters in Western Maryland have shown excellent cooperation in forest fire prevention. During the past few weeks, game wardens have checked several hundred hunters in the forest and not a single one was found smoking.

Game wardens also encountered different types of hunters that were not so cooperative. During the month 17 persons were apprehended for spotlighting deer and the fines for these violations amounted to nearly $2,000. Firearms that were confiscated will be auctioned off in front of the sheriff's office, Prospect Square, Saturday at 10 a. m. Thirteen guns are up for sale. Lights used illegally are confiscated but they are not sold at public auction. Receipts of the gun sale along with all game and fish law fines are credited to the State Game Protection Fund.

20 Per Cent Apprehended

The fact that a considerable number of night hunters are apprehended does not mean the wardens have this problem under control for they believe that less than twenty per cent of the violators are apprehended. Nevertheless, many farmers and sportsmen have endeavored to give the wardens information that is helpful.

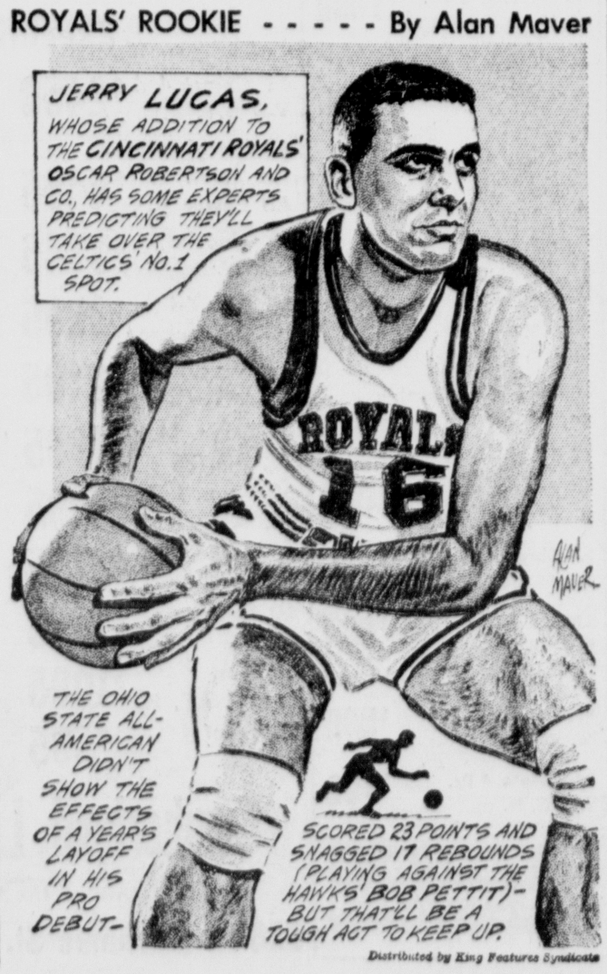

In addition to law enforcement, game wardens are requested to furnish information. During the past three months Minke received more than 200 letters from sportsmen throughout the state. He estimates that approximately 50 per cent of the hunters in Maryland do some of their hunting in this region, comprising Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties. Two-thirds of the state's public hunting land is in this region.

There are eight district game wardens and one regional warden and they are subject to call 24 hours a day. There are 603,100 acres of forest in this region, according to the tentative listing of commercial forest in Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties.

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By Walter L. Johns, Central Press Sports Editor

WE WERE WATCHING the sports news on television, my wife and I, and they flashed a picture of Y. A. Tittle on the screen, talking to two of his youngsters.

"Who's that?" my wife asked.

"That's Y. A. Tittle, the big quarterbacking star of the New York Giants," I said.

"Why, he's an old man," came back my wife. "You mean to tell me he's still playing and he's that old?"

Yes, we said, still playing, but NOT that old, as pros go. Yat is 36, the oldest member of the Giants, and looks older because of that bald pate. This is his 12th season in pro ball and he appears to have lost none of his great passing ability. In fact, he's leading the NFL right now.

Tittle is just one of the "old" men in the pro game, a sport you'd think would be taboo for the rocking chair set, considering the pounding they take.

• • •

THERE AREN'T any more Charlie Conerlys around—Charlie played until he was 42—but there are a flock of

veterans who have been around more than a dozen years and still are apparently going strong.

Oldest of the pros starting this season were Leo Nomellini of the 49ers, Jim Martin of the Colts, and Lou Groza of the Browns, each 39. Groza has lost a bit of his effectiveness but he still has contributed 43 points to the Brownies' cause on six field goals and 25 extra points. Martin, who spent so many years with the Lions, also has done a remarkable job for the Colts, only last week kicking four field goals against the Lions. Ernie Stautner was 38 as this season began.

Joe Perry, former all-time rushing leader, is 36 and so is Gino Marchetti.

Other oldsters include Bob Gain, who is 34 and in his 11th season; Billy Howton, in his 11th year; Dick (Night Train) Lane 35, and in his 12th season, and Hugh McElhenny, in his 12th campaign.

• • •

SOME OF THE OLDTIMERS played for many years. Such outstanding stars as Mel Hein, now an assistant at USC, played 15 years; Sammy Baugh, the old passing man of Washington, put in 16 years, and Johnny (Blood) McNally, 15 years with the Packers and other teams.

Jim Thorpe, the old Carlisle Indian star, played until he was 40—and he may have been older than that.

Ruffin Red Scores

SAN BRUNO, Calif. (UPI)—Ruffin Red took a commanding lead near the stretch turn and won the featured Golden Gate purse at Tanforan Monday.

Ridden by apprentice Clay Brinson, Ruffin Red won by three and one-half lengths from Rich Mel and Mr. Tails. The time for the mile and 70 yards was 1:41 2-5. Ruffin Red paid $5.40.

Middie End, Subs Head All-East Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Navy's star pass-catcher and a couple and a couple of substitute quarterbacks head the weekly All-East football team named by the Eastern College Athletic Conference Monday.

Jim Campbell, Navy senior end from Homestead, Pa., caught seven passes, intercepted one and played a stellar defensive game against Pittsburgh to earn his place on the team.

The subs were Bill Humenuk, a Harvard senior who played his first big game and guided the Cantabs to a 17-13 victory over previously unbeaten Dartmouth, and Tom Holman, Syracuse sophomore who plays only on defense.

Bill Louden Award — Match Record Pace — Blough's 72 High — Need One For 100

By C. V. BURNS

WILLIAM "Bill" Louden, whose widow will be presented a posthumous award at the Tri-Towns Sports Hall of Fame dinner, Sunday, November 3, at Westernport, played 593 games in the National, American and Federal Leagues and turned in a batting average of .261.

BILL LOUDEN

Bill was born at Piedmont, August 27, 1885 and died December 8, 1935.

He was the first player in this area to make good in the big leagues. In 1907, Louden was with the New York Highlanders (now the Yankees) and played for the Detroit Tigers in 1912 and 1913.

A baseball war in 1913 resulted in the formation of a third major league, known as the Federal League, and Louden played in that circuit with Buffalo in 1914 and 1915.

The Federal League teams were Indianapolis, Chicago, Newark, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Kansas City, St. Louis, Brooklyn and Baltimore.

Harry Sinclair, the oil king, and Robert B. Ward, of the Ward Baking Company, of Brooklyn, N. Y., were the principal backers of the Federal League, but the circuit lasted only two years and quit after losing a lot of money.

In 1916, Bill wound up his major league career with the Cincinnati Reds. The great Christy Mathewson was with the Reds that year, his last in the big leagues.

Heinie Groh, Ed Roush, Ivy Wingo, Earl "Greasy" Neale, also a native West Virginian, Hal Chase and Larry Kopf were also with the 1916 Reds, managed by Pat Moran.

Louden, who played several infield positions but was better known as a second baseman, was the manager of the Martinsburg Club of the Blue Ridge League in 1920 when Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove graduated from the Midland Indians to start his career in organized ball.

Tommy McGuire, of Westernport, who was honored posthumously at the first Tri-Towns Hall of Fame dinner last year, also made his debut in organized ball under Louden at Martinsburg in 1920 after having played with the Midland Indians in 1919.

FORT HILL High School's 239 points in seven games matches the total credited to the Sentinels of 1949 who rolled up a total of 361 points for an all-time city high for 10 games. Fort Hill was 9-1 that year and scored 122 points in the last three games.

The Sentinels have three more games on their schedule all at home—with Windber, Loyola of Baltimore and Allegany.

BYRON BLOUGH, who has set up a new scoring record in the Catholic Youth Football League, is the son of Bernard "Bud" Blough, of Park Heights, who played in Allegany's backfield in the 1930s when Bert Harbert coached the Campers. "Bud" is a brother of John Blough, who was the regular center in the early days of football at LaSalle and coached the Explorers in 1936, 1937 and 1938.

Byron has scored 72 points in five games for St. Patrick's champions, bettering the previous high of 64 set by Jim Hudson of St. Mary's in 1960. One more game remains on St. Patrick's schedule.

Last year Byron made his debut as a 115-pound end. He now tips the beam around 135, according to Coach "Buck" Shober.

POTOMAC STATE College's football team appears to be going all out in marking West Virginia's Centennial.

The Catamounts recently gave Coach "Horse" Lough his 100th victory. All they need now is one more defeat to give their coach his 100th loss.

Lough's record at Potomac State is now 100-99-10.

Potomac plays Frostburg State here Saturday night and closes its season with Baltimore Junior College in Baltimore November 9.

CURLY BYRD, who coached football at the University of Maryland for 21 years, contends there's really not much that's new in football.

He says he saw North Carolina State score against Maryland this year on a fake dive play he had first seen in 1908.

Byrd claims the "T" formation was used in 1899 at the University of Nebraska and that Western Maryland, under Coach Mickey Whitehurst, had the "I" formation in 1906.

And did you know that Curly was a baseball pitcher? He once pitched for the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast League.

FROSTBURG STATE Teachers College goes into its final soccer game of the season with a 4-4 record against Akron (Ohio) University Nov. 9 at Frostburg and must face Pete Milich, the nation's leading scorer in 1962.

WHEN Johnstown High School, once a power in Western Pennsylvania football, suffered a 50-0 pasting recently at the hands of McKeesport High's powerhouse, the Trojans threw "bombs" but it was discoverd they had no fuses.

Johnstown's aerial attack hit a new low in that game when not a single one of the 21 tries was completed. Seven of the passes were intercepted.

Measure To Aid Military Athletes Makes Headway

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon won a big round Monday in its drive to get $2 million to send military athletes to the Olympics and other international sports contests in the next four years.

A House armed services subcommittee approved this amount, $1.2 million more than the Defense Department had to spend on international sports in the last four years.

"Let's understand what we are doing," said the subcommittee chairman, Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La. "Our objectives are to make the United States the most powerful nation in the world athletically. The Russians are subsidizing their civilian athletes directly. It is our aim to regain the supremacy we had over the years and this is one way to do it."

Hebert made his remarks in open session before the subcommittee met in secret and approved the bill authorizing the money. The bill now goes to the full armed Services Committee.

Pimlico To Install Twin Double Betting

BALTIMORE (AP) — Twin double wagering will be inaugurated at Pimlico Race Course when the track's 28-day autumn meeting opens Nov. 13, track officials announced Monday.

Robert Sloan, Pimlico mutuels manager, said 52 twin double windows will be provided to accommodate the multiple combination wagering on the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh races.

Bowie, which closed Monday, was the first major Maryland track to install the twin double. It has not been used at Laurel, the state's third major track, which opens a 12-day meeting Wednesday.

Jockey Mercier Rings Up Triple

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (UPI) — Jockey Norman Mercier posted a triple Monday at Narragansett and Royal Dining won the feature race at the New England track.

Mercier's three winners included Manitou ($6.40) in the first race, Miss Evasion ($40.40) in the fifth and Star Sailor ($15.20) in the seventh.

Royal Dining won his seventh race in 24 starts this year when he outclassed Safety Zone and Skilligolee in the $2,800 South County Purse.

Grand Jury To Question Wayne Bethea

New Yorker Kayoed Fighter Who Died

BALTIMORE (AP) — The grand jury probing the death of boxer Ernie Knox is scheduled to question Wayne Bethea, the man who knocked him out, at its Tuesday session.

William J. O'Donnell, Baltimore state's attorney, said James H. (Jack) Pollack, prominent city Democrat and former member of the State Athletic Commission, had requested permission to appear before the jury also.

No reason was attached to the disclosure of Pollack's scheduled appearance and Pollack himself declined to comment.

Knox died Oct. 16, 32 hours after being knocked out by Bethea in the ninth round of their bout at the Coliseum. Doctors said Baltimore fighter had suffered a cerebral hemorrhage.

Bethea, a 31-year-old New York tomato packer and veteran boxer, was listed by officials at 205 pounds for the match, compared with the 178 announced for Knox.

Medical examiners said Knox' body weighed 153 at an autopsy conducted after his death in Provident hospital.

Chiaverini Rejoins Terps, Will Play Against Penn State

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Len Chiaverini, the University of Maryland's leading ground gainer last season, rejoined his teammates as they started preparations Monday for a homecoming game with Penn State Saturday.

Chiaverini, who led the Atlantic Coast Conference in 1962 with a 3.9 yards per carry average, had been sidelined for more than a week with a bruised knee.

His replacement, Jerry Fishman, has supplanted Chiaverini as the Terps' current top rusher. Fishman has gained 239 yards to Chiaverini's 217.

Maryland came out of its 32-0 rout of Wake Forest in good physical condition and should be at full strength for Penn State. The Terps have beaten Penn State only once in nine previous games.

Podres' Attorney Enters Innocent Plea

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—An attorney for Los Angeles Dodger pitching star Johnny Podres appeared in Municipal Court for his client Monday and entered a plea of innocent to a charge of misdemeanor drunken driving.

Judge Leonard Erickson set jury trial for Nov. 13 in Municipal Court Division 31.

Podres, 31, was arrested early Friday when officers said they noticed him driving erratically. He was released in about an hour on $262 bond posted by a man identified as an equipment manager for the Dodgers.

Attorney Tom Higgins represented Podres in court Monday.

Bullets, Pistons Swap Substitutes

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Bullets and the Detroit Pistons swapped substitute National Basketball Association players Monday, with forward Larry Staverman going to Detroit and guard Kevin Loughery to Baltimore.

The Bullets also placed forward Larry Comley on waivers, reducing their roster to 11, one below the league limit.

Loughery, a second-year professional, is expected to take up some of the slack in the Bullets' backcourt work. He averaged 6.4 points a game in his rookie year but ranks highly as a ball-handler and playmaker.

Frosh Tilt Canceled Because Of Injuries

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The football game scheduled between the Navy plebes and Penn State freshmen here next Saturday has been canceled.

The Naval Academy said Monday the cancellation was requested by Penn State because of "an unusually large number of injuries" to its team.

Measuring Mistake Costly To Michigan

CHICAGO (AP) — A measuring mistake cost Michigan's defense a vital two yards in Minnesota's touchdown drive for a 6-0 victory Saturday, assistant Wolverine Coach Jocko Nelson said Monday.

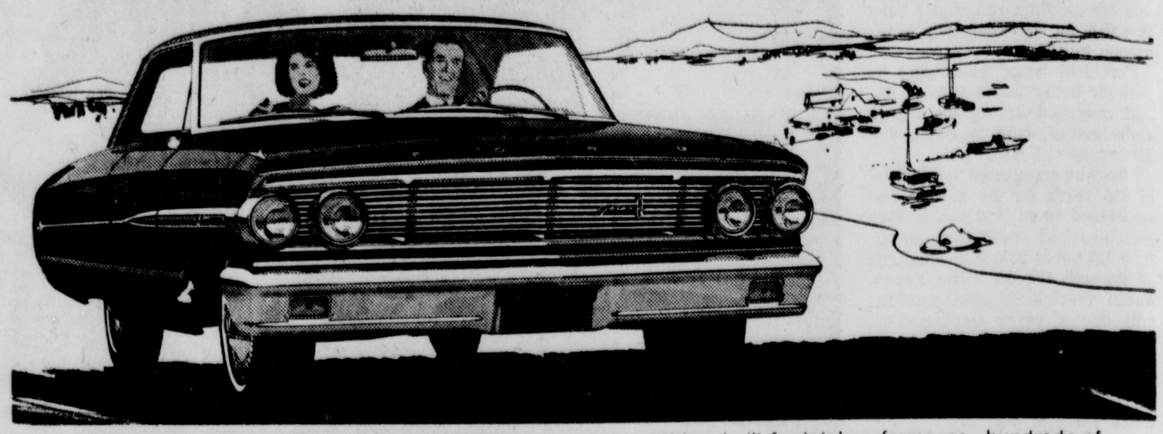

Minnesota drove 41 yards in 10 plays for the touchdown at the start of the second period.

"When the Gophers got the ball, they had no gain on first down," Nelson told the Chicago's American Quarterback Club. "That point the whistle blew ending the first quarter. When the chains were switched, I looked up and saw that Minnesota had second down with eight yards to go. We lost two yards somewhere.

"Minnesota eventually made a first down, but just by inches."

Jockey Mercier Rings Up Triple

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (UPI) — Jockey Norman Mercier posted a triple Monday at Narragansett and Royal Dining won the feature race at the New England track.

Mercier's three winners included Manitou ($6.40) in the first race, Miss Evasion ($40.40) in the fifth and Star Sailor ($15.20) in the seventh.

Royal Dining won his seventh race in 24 starts this year when he outclassed Safety Zone and Skilligolee in the $2,800 South County Purse.

Grand Jury To Question Wayne Bethea

New Yorker Kayoed Fighter Who Died

BALTIMORE (AP) — The grand jury probing the death of boxer Ernie Knox is scheduled to question Wayne Bethea, the man who knocked him out, at its Tuesday session.

William J. O'Donnell, Baltimore state's attorney, said James H. (Jack) Pollack, prominent city Democrat and former member of the State Athletic Commission, had requested permission to appear before the jury also.

No reason was attached to the disclosure of Pollack's scheduled appearance and Pollack himself declined to comment.

Knox died Oct. 16, 32 hours after being knocked out by Bethea in the ninth round of their bout at the Coliseum. Doctors said Baltimore fighter had suffered a cerebral hemorrhage.

Bethea, a 31-year-old New York tomato packer and veteran boxer, was listed by officials at 205 pounds for the match, compared with the 178 announced for Knox.

Medical examiners said Knox' body weighed 153 at an autopsy conducted after his death in Provident hospital.

Chiaverini Rejoins Terps, Will Play Against Penn State

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Len Chiaverini, the University of Maryland's leading ground gainer last season, rejoined his teammates as they started preparations Monday for a homecoming game with Penn State Saturday.

Chiaverini, who led the Atlantic Coast Conference in 1962 with a 3.9 yards per carry average, had been sidelined for more than a week with a bruised knee.

His replacement, Jerry Fishman, has supplanted Chiaverini as the Terps' current top rusher. Fishman has gained 239 yards to Chiaverini's 217.

Maryland came out of its 32-0 rout of Wake Forest in good physical condition and should be at full strength for Penn State. The Terps have beaten Penn State only once in nine previous games.

Podres' Attorney Enters Innocent Plea

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—An attorney for Los Angeles Dodger pitching star Johnny Podres appeared in Municipal Court for his client Monday and entered a plea of innocent to a charge of misdemeanor drunken driving.

Judge Leonard Erickson set jury trial for Nov. 13 in Municipal Court Division 31.

Podres, 31, was arrested early Friday when officers said they noticed him driving erratically. He was released in about an hour on $262 bond posted by a man identified as an equipment manager for the Dodgers.

Attorney Tom Higgins represented Podres in court Monday.

Bullets, Pistons Swap Substitutes

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Bullets and the Detroit Pistons swapped subsiitute National Basketball Association players Monday, with forward Larry Staverman going to Detroit and guard Kevin Loughery to Baltimore.

The Bullets also placed forward Larry Comley on waivers, reducing their roster to 11, one below the league limit.

Loughery, a second-year professional, is expected to take up some of the slack in the Bullets' backcourt work. He averaged 6.4 points a game in his rookie year but ranks highly as a ballhandler and playmaker.

Frosh Tilt Canceled Because Of Injuries

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The football game scheduled between the Navy plebes and Penn State freshmen here next Saturday has been canceled.

The Naval Academy said Monday the cancellation was requested by Penn State because of "an unusually large number of injuries" to its team.

The game will not be rescheduled.

Measuring Mistake Costly To Michigan

CHICAGO (AP) — A measuring mistake cost Michigan's defense a vital two yards in Minnesota's touchdown drive for a 6-0 victory Saturday, assistant Wolverine Coach Jocko Nelson said Monday.

Minnesota drove 41 yards in 10 plays for the touchdown at the start of the second period.

"When the Gophers got the ball, they had no gain on first down," Nelson told the Chicago's American Quarterback Club. "That point the whistle blew ending the first quarter. When the chains were switched, I looked up and saw that Minnesota had second down with eight yards to go. We lost two yards somewhere.

"Minnesota eventually made a first down, but just by inches."

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to all our friends and neighbors for their kindness shown on the sudden death of our husband and father, Wilbur M. Hudson. For the use of cars and all expressions of sympathy shown.
The Hudson Family

We take this means of expressing our sincere thanks to our relatives, friends and neighbors who were so kind to us in our bereavement, the death of our beloved father, Peter Smith. We also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes, the pallbearers and those who donated cars for the funeral.
The Children, Mrs. Rosella Hyde, Galen and Ernest Smith

In Memoriam

In memory of Dennis W. Hughes, who died 5 years ago today, October 29, 1958.
No stain was on his little heart,
Sin had not entered there,
An innocence slept sweetly on,
That pale white brow so fair.
He was too pure for this cold world,
Too beautiful to stay,
And so God's holy angels bore
Our darling "Denny" away.
Sadly missed by
Mommy, Daddy,
Brothers and Grandmother

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Paul W. Bond, who passed away 2 years ago, October 29, 1961.
Do not ask us if we miss him,
There is such a vacant place;
Oft we think we hear his footsteps
And see his smiling face.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Tears in sorrow often flow;
Memory keeps him ever near us,
Tho he left two years ago.
Loving Wife Louise & daughters

In memory of our beloved husband and father, Edgar Welborn Bustin who died 1 year ago today, October 29, 1962.
To daddy dear, who bore the burdens, brave
Your children gather at your hallowed grave,
Not weeping, tho the parting was in pain,
But happy, knowing we shall meet again.
To you who have passed on, whose soul can see
The beauties of a mystery hid from me.
These lines in faith, that over there you wait,
And I shall greet you when I pass the Gate.
Sadly missed by wife

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to all our friends and neighbors for their kindness shown on the sudden death of our husband and father, Wilbur M. Hudson. For the use of cars and all expressions of sympathy shown.
The Hudson Family

We take this means of expressing our sincere thanks to our relatives, friends and neighbors who were so kind to us in our bereavement, the death of our beloved father, Peter Smith. We also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes, the pallbearers and those who donated cars for the funeral.
The Children, Mrs. Rosella Hyde, Galen and Ernest Smith

In Memoriam

In memory of Dennis W. Hughes, who died 5 years ago today, October 29, 1958.
No stain was on his little heart,
Sin had not entered there,
An innocence slept sweetly on,
That pale white brow so fair.
He was too pure for this cold world,
Too beautiful to stay,
And so God's holy angels bore
Our darling "Denny" away.
Sadly missed by
Mommy, Daddy,
Brothers and Grandmother

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Paul W. Bond, who passed away 2 years ago, October 29, 1961.
Do not ask us if we miss him,
There is such a vacant place;
Oft we think we hear his footsteps
And see his smiling face.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Tears in sorrow often flow;
Memory keeps him ever near us,
Tho he left two years ago.
Loving Wife Louise & daughters

In memory of our beloved husband and father, Edgar Welborn Bustin who died 1 year ago today, October 29, 1962.
To daddy dear, who bore the burdens, brave
Your children gather at your hallowed grave,
Not weeping, tho the parting was in pain,
But happy, knowing we shall meet again.
To you who have passed on, whose soul can see
The beauties of a mystery hid from me.
These lines in faith, that over there you wait,
And I shall greet you when I pass the Gate.
Sadly missed by wife

W.Va. Highway Toll Is Now 334

By United Press International

West Virginia's 1963 highway fatality toll rose to 334 with the report of four weekend deaths, including twoon Sunday.

A Logan County teen-ager, Roger Clevenger 17, Verdonville, was killed Sunday while trailing a car carrying a young girl to a hospital.

The girl, Georgia May Workman, 10, had darted into the path of Clevenger's car a short time earlier. Authorities said Clevenger's car went out of control on a curve and over an embankment into a creek and then struck a rock cliff. A passenger, Herman Starr, 18, was not hurt seriously.

James E. Mullins, 53, Ingram Branch, Fayette County, died Sunday of injuries suffered the previous day when a train struck his car.

The other two victims died on Friday and Saturday nights.

Sen. Paul Douglas Commends W. Va.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) —Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois commended West Virginia Sunday night for progress made in the field of inter-racial relations.

Douglas said the state "has made more progress than any of the Southern or border states," calling it "a great tribute" to the stte's officials.

'Ie addressed a banquet of the Anti-Defan ation League of B'Nai B'rith.

Douglas also said more progress was being made under the Kennedy administration than under any of' · and that Justice Department is doing more now to enforce the law, particularly in voting cases, than ever before.

W.Va. Highway Toll Is Now 334

By United Press International

West Virginia's 1963 highway fatality toll rose to 334 with the report of four weekend deaths, including twoon Sunday.

A Logan County teen-ager, Roger Clevenger 17, Verdonville, was killed Sunday while trailing a car carrying a young girl to a hospital.

The girl, Georgia May Workman, 10, had darted into the path of Clevenger's car a short time earlier. Authorities said Clevenger's car went out of control on a curve and over an embankment into a creek and then struck a rock cliff. A passenger, Herman Starr, 18, was not hurt seriously.

James E. Mullins, 53, Ingram Branch, Fayette County, died Sunday of injuries suffered the previous day when a train struck his car.

The other two victims died on Friday and Saturday nights.

College Faculty Airs Tension

AAUP Chapter, Student Group Hold Closed-Door Meetings

About half the faculty members of Frostburg State College last night attended a closed-door session to discuss mounting tension over the college administration's handling of student and faculty relations, but no one would say whether any action was taken.

Edwin V. Holland, president of the Frostburg State College chapter of the American Association of University Professors, apologetically told waiting reporters at the end of the 90-minute meeting that the chapter had agreed to make no statement immediately.

Before the meeting Mr. Holland said the paid-up membership of the chapter as of Sunday was 42. A total of 49 faculty members attended the meeting, however, representing about half the college faculty.

The executive council of the student government also met last night to discuss the resignation of the president of the student government, who charged that pressure had been brought to bear on him by the college president, R. Bowen Hardesty.

The student executive council said it would make no report of last night's meeting until an assembly tomorrow.

In recent weeks, some faculty members have accused the administration of exercising an authoritarian control over the content of courses.

Unrest On Campus

Reporters who have visited the college campus recently have found unrest among students and faculty members alike.

Students and faculty members who have talked with newsmen think the present difficulties at the college are related in some manner with the discharge several months ago of four teachers who wanted to use controversial novels in their classes.

On Saturday, Jerry Howie of Washington resigned as president of the student government, charging that Mr. Hardesty had brought pressure on him.

Dissidents among faculty and students charge that few dare to criticize the administration openly. They claim that campus police have hauled students before the president for criticizing the administration.

The campus is full of anonymously mimeographed broadsides against the administration, and critical notices have been posted, unsigned, on bulletin boards.

Several sources reported that about 20 students are on probation for alleged "attitudinal" shortcomings, and are required to report to Mr. Hardesty each month.

It also has been charged that faculty "stooges" have been planted in dormitories. At an administrative assembly last week Mr. Hardesty denied this.

A long-time faculty member who asked not to be identified for fear of reprisal voiced the opinion that the administration is so preoccupied with the objectives of its much-publicized 10-year plan leading toward a university that it has lost touch with students and their needs.

In general, however, students are enthusiastic about the present growth of the college and hope it will continue. The school is in the midst of transition from its former designation as a state teachers college to its new role as a liberal arts college.

Faculty's Charges

Faculty criticism centers mostly on these accusations against the administration:

—A freshman course guide was altered without consultation of faculty members.

—The president has appointed department heads without allowing the faculty to have a voice in their selection as recommended by the American Association of University Professors.

—The new "Great Books" program was adopted without faculty-wide consultation, and the so-called "policy development council" which approved the program is a rubber-stamp committee for the administration.

Members of the faculty discussing the tension with a reporter repeatedly asked not to be identified because of possible consequences.

About 80 per cent of the students interviewed at random used the word "fear" to describe the atmosphere on campus. One said he was still on disciplinary probation as a result of demonstrations last spring over release of the four controversial faculty members.

Professor Asks Board To Intervene

Dr. Howard Charges Lack Of Freedom

The senior member of the teaching faculty at Frostburg State College yesterday accused the college president of restriction of freedom of speech and press.

Dr. Dorothy G. Howard, professor of English, asked the State College Board of Trustees to step in and resolve the "rapidly deteriorating" relationship between the students and the president, R. Bowen Hardesty.

Dr. Howard, who has taught at Frostburg State for 20 years, served as English department chairman from 1944 to 1956 when she resigned the chairmanship. She remains as professor of English.

Her statement for publication follows:

"The past is gone. My interest is in the present and future of Frostburg State College. I am deeply concerned about the personal and academic welfare of our students; about current administrative censorship of textbooks (by banning and by prescription).

"I am deeply distressed about administrative attempts to throttle freedom of speech, freedom of press and even freedom of thought among both students and faculty. And further, my doubts increase that we can become a fully accredited college.

"It is my opinion that a drastic and rapid change in the campus atmosphere must take place before we can reasonably hope for full accreditation — a change in the direction of accepted standard administrational policies as set forth by the national accrediting associations and by the American Association of University Professors.

"Over a period of 20 years more than 2,000 sons and daughters of Maryland citizens have sat in my college classes in Frostburg. They have always been mature, responsible young adults, courteous and respectful to their teachers, to each other and to visitors on campus. Visitors from all over the world have praised them for those virtues.

"The relationship between the college president and the student body is rapidly deteriorating to a state of desperation and chaos beyond the president's control. It is to be hoped that the State Board of Trustees will investigate and act. Time is running out. And it is to be hoped that parents of our students will find out, first hand, the conditions under which their sons and daughters live and attempt to get an education. This college belongs to the people of Maryland and the administration is an agent of the people."

Four Injured In Car Crash

Two persons are improving at Memorial Hospital where they were admitted late Saturday night suffering from injuries sustained in a one-car accident at Kennell's Mill, south of Hyndman, Pa.

Attaches said Ronald Emerick, 18, of 720 Maryland Avenue, driver of the car, is "fairly well" at the hospital.

Reported in "fine" condition at the hospital is Judith Ann Leydig, 15-year-old Hyndman girl.

Treated and released from the hospital were Gary Shroyer and Thomas Verna, both of RD 1, Hyndman.

Pennsylvania State Police said the car was headed east at Kennell's Mill when it ran off the road and crashed.

Emerick and Miss Leydig were admitted to the hospital at 11:30 p. m. Saturday.

$360 In Fines Levied By Judge For Assaults

Gives Warning About Violence

Fines totaling $360 plus court costs were levied yesterday afternoon by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County upon six defendants convicted of assault in disturbances in the vicinity of Sell and Company, food distributors at 820 Lafayette Avenue.

A labor dispute between the company and Local 453, Teamsters Union, has been in process since July 8.

After imposing the fines upon five members of Local 453 and Ralph F. Sell Jr., manager of the local wholesale food firm, Judge Harris concluded with an explicit warning.

More Than Fines

"If there is a repetition of assults or any violence occurs, the defendants will not be able to reach in their pockets to settle the penalty," Judge Harris warned.

"As long as picketing is done in a law-abiding manner, the court will take no action," Judge Harris added.

"If they are not conducted according to the law, more severe penalty will have to be meted out to preclude any more violation of the law," he concluded.

After three days of trials in which he heard 12 charges of assault and another of disturbing the peace, Judge Harris returned guilty verdicts in eight cases and not guilty in the others.

James House of Elizabeth Street was fined $100—$50 each on charges of assulting Ralph F. Sell Jr. and Richard Shaw, a Sell employe, on August 21. Harry Stewart, 701 Baltimore Avenue, was fined $50 on a charge of assulting Ralph W. Collins, another Sell employe, on August 30, and an additional $10 on a charge of disturbing the peace on the same day.

Four Others Fined

Four others were fined $50 each for assault. They include Gene Krampf, 715 Greenway Avenue, and Donald Crites, RD 4, Oldtown Road, both convicted of assaulting Ralph F. Sell Jr. on July 24, and Ernest Crites, 4 East Roberts Street, convicted of assaulting Harry Folk Jr., another Sell employe, September 13.

Ralph F. Sell Jr. also was fined $50 on a charge of assaulting C. E. Stutzman, business agent for Local 453, on October 15. He was acquitted on a second charge of assaulting Robert Wright, Pine Ridge Road, also on October 15.

Four teamsters also were acquitted of assault by Judge Harris in the trial heard last Thursday and Friday and yesterday.

Freed of assault were Bernard A. Harris, 483 Eastern Avenue, whose case was heard yesterday; Arthur Harris, Eckhart; Robert Crites, Cresap Park, and Robert Wright, Pine Ridge Road, whose trial ended last Friday.

State's Attorney James S. Getty prosecuted the cases with the assistance of Deputy State's Attorney Donald W. Mason, when the latter was not occupied with other appeals. George R. Hughes Jr. was attorney for all of the Local 453 members and William H. Geppert represented Sell.

Mr. Geppert was not present yesterday afternoon when the fine was imposed upon Sell because he was serving as an honorary pallbearer at the funeral of W. Wallace McKaig.

Of the teamsters fined yesterday only Donald Crites and Ernest Crites had been employed by Sell.

Fire Burns Woods Near Mt. Savage

Frame Dwelling Is Threatened

A two-story frame dwelling occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Rice was threatened by a forest fire which burned about 12 acres of wooded area yesterday afternoon near Mt. Savage.

Volunteer firemen of Mt. Savage, Corriganville, and LaVale joined personnel of the Department of Forests and Parks to bring the fire under control.

Fire Chief Clarence O'Neal of the volunteer fire company at Mt. Savage said the fire of unknown origin burned from 12 to 15 acres of land in the vicinity of the Mountain Road toward Bald Knob.

The flames came within about 40 feet of the rear of the Rice home. The volunteer fire companies were back at their stations last night, although forestry camp boys were scheduled to patrol the area last night in the event of a flare-up of the fire.

Indian tanks were carried by the firemen and water was hauled to the scene in trucks of the Mt. Savage, Corriganville and LaVale fire companies as well as in equipment of the forestry department.

About 30 men responded to the fire which was reported early yesterday afternoon.

Cafeterias Will Feature Midwest Lunch

Children in the public schools of Allegany County are in for another "trip" again today when they will be served a Midwest luncheon in the school cafeterias.

Mrs. Gladys M. Eaton, supervisor of cafeterias, has arranged a series of "trips" for the youngsters by serving food on special occasions that is typical of different sections of this country and of foreign countries.

The suggested menu for today calls for cubed beef in gravy on Dutch noodles, Mound View salad with Holland dressing, tea rolls and butter, banana-pineapple mold, and Kickapoo kookies, made with rolled wheat, and milk.

Jaycees Plan Clothing Drive November 3-9

The Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce will hold a clothing drive November 3-9 to supplement its Christmas shopping tour.

Roy J. Hartell is serving as chairman of the committee which includes about two dozen members of the association.

For some time, Jaycees have been outfitting about 30 needy children each year in a Christmas shopping tour of area stores.

The clothing drive is being planned this year so the unit can have more clothes for more children.

Mr. Hartell said Jaycees will collect clothes suitable for children in Grades 1 to 6. Clothes for infants will be picked up as a secondary project.

The clothing will be supplied to needy children recommended by elementary school principals.

Arrangements for picking up the clothing may be made by contacting any Jaycee or Jayncee or by dialing 729-3264, 724-7249 or 724-3853.

Man Charged With Assault

W. Jose Lopez, 22, city, is being held in the County Jail in default of $1,000 bond to await a hearing Friday morning in Trial Magistrate Court on an assault charge.

Lopez is charged with assaulting his wife, Rosalie Lopez, who is a patient in Sacred Heart Hospital with head injuries.

The alleged assault occurred Saturday and bond was set by Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt.

CUF Works For Youth

Brownie Scout Hilja Hager, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl A. Hager, 15 Long Drive, and Robert D. Swarner, a Kelly-Springfield Tire Company employe and payroll giver to CUF, recently "toured" agencies and services supported by County United Fund. Here they are shown visiting one of the youth services, Central YMCA. Taking time out from a swim in the "Y" pool to meet the CUF visitors are Robert Houser, Barry Zembower, Donald Browne, Kenneth Berry and William Eddy. Other CUF agencies primarily concerned with youth character-building and physical development programs are Potomac Council Boy Scouts and Shawnee Council Girl Scouts. The three youth services have CUF campaign budgets totaling $108,353.

Unusual Case Of Shoplifting Brings Fine

Finzel Woman Got Refund For Goods

A woman who resides in the Finzel area yesterday was found guilty of three counts of shoplifting in an unusual variation of the charge.

The woman, Mrs. Anna M. Brode, 38, of RD 2, Frostburg, was found guilty by Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt. She was fined $100 and given a three-month suspended jail term on condition she make restitution to the Town and Country Store where the incidents occurred.

Mrs. Brode pleaded guilty to getting merchandise in the store and then taking it to the store's courtesy desk where she obtained a refund in cash for the articles. The three offenses took place over a period of time since last December and the total amount involved was $99.

Dominick V. Calemine, manager of the Town and Country Store, preferred the charges.

Magistrate Weatherholt asked Mr. Calemine if it wasn't unusual to give a cash refund to a person for returned merchandise if the person did not have a sales ticket. Mr. Calemine said no, since it was the policy of the company to give refunds without question as long as the merchandise did come from the Town and Country Store. Mr. Calemine said the store's policy was based on the idea that most people are honest.

Detective Capt. James E. Van of the City Police Department investigated the case and presented evidence at the hearing. He was assisted by Detective Harry Iser.

Knights Of Columbus To Entertain Wives

Members of Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus, will entertain their wives and lady friends this evening at the council home.

Movies of interest to the women, including one on decorations, will be shown beginning at 9 p.m. A buffet luncheon will be served.

CUF Campaign Helps Many Youth Services

The fields of health and social services for the needy are two big facets of work done by agencies participating in County United Fund. No less important, however, is the field of youth work as several CUF agencies go about combatting juvenile delinquency through juvenile decency programs.

It is the youth service aspect of County United Fund that reaches practically into every home in Allegany and Mineral counties where children are to be found.

Among the largest agencies of County United Fund, now in the midst of its seventh campaign, are three groups primarily directed at developing responsible citizens of tomorrow.

These are Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, Shawnee Council Girls Scouts of America, and the YMCA. With ever-increasing youth memberships in each organization, there are relatively few families whose children do not benefit from County United Fund in some way or other.

Giving leadership to character building and physical training programs, these agencies touch thousands of area youngsters seeking guidance in their growing up process. Supervised programs with trained and experienced leaders provide these thousands of children with the guidance they seek.

The summer camp of Boy Scouts at Camp Potomac, individual troop, Explorer Scout and Cub pack activities, Camp Tioga, day camps and the many programs of Girl Scouts, church league basketball, swimming, Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y, day camps and all the recreational opportunities offered by YMCA are but a few of the youth services rendered.

American Red Cross, of which there are three chapters affiliated with County United Fund, comes into the field of youth service with its learn-to-swim, water safety and first aid courses, in addition to programs for servicemen and their families.

Handicapped children of the area, other than receiving educational and training assistance through County United Fund, also receive recreational and camping opportunities with their summer sessions at Camp Potomac.

Salvation Army, likewise, sponsors varied and extensive youth programs with the youngsters benefitted numbering in the thousands.

All 28 participating health, social service and youth agencies are dependent upon the CUF campaign now in progress, for which a $394,533 goal has been established.

Two Teenagers Face Charges In West Va.

Two Cumberland teenagers yesterday afternoon appeared before Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey in Allegany County Circuit Court and agreed to waive extradition to West Virginia to face a charge of breaking into a Mineral County business establishment late Sunday night.

At first Shirley Jean Dawson, 17, of Paca Street, and Arnold McManus, 16, of Lee Street, hesitated about signing the necessary waiver, but eventually did after conferring with Attorney Louis A. Fatkin.

West Virginia State Trooper D. L. Elmore said the two teenagers, along with Mrs. Anna McManus Myers, about 35, of Lee Street, and Paul William Warnick, 20, of Mt. Savage, are accused of breaking into Crites Trading Post No. 2 through a rear window and stealing goods worth more than $50 including several guns, cigarettes and soft drinks. This place is on Route 46 about four miles east of Keyser.

The Myers woman and Warnick were arrested early Monday by Keyser police. State Police picked up to the teenagers in Cumberland later in the day.

Present for the extradition hearing were Tfc. Bernard Chabot, State Police criminal investigator; Trooper P. Roger Reynolds, Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis and Trooper Elmore of West Virginia.

Next term of court in Mineral County is in January.

Dr. Donoghue, who is on leave from University College in Dublin, Ireland, will speak on "Human Image In Modern Drama."

The program is being sponsored by the Speech and Drama Department of the Frostburg college.

During the past summer, Dr. Donoghue lectured at Harvard University. Miss Dorothy Stone White of the Frostburg college faculty was one of Dr. Donoghue's students for eight weeks this summer.

The program is open to the public.

Sweitzer Draws Two-Year Sentence

Charles William Sweitzer Jr., 20, of 11 Frederick Street, yesterday was sentenced by Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey in Allegany County Circuit Court to two years in the Maryland House of Correction.

Sweitzer pleaded guilty October 11 to larceny of $1,770 between May 1 and July 1 from Mrs. Susan Clayton, his great grandmother, 930 Center Street, LaVale. Sweitzer had been remanded to jail after his guilty plea pending an investigation by James E. Lewis, probation and parole officer.

Fines Doubled For Drivers By Judge Cobey

Appeals Heard In Circuit Court

Two defendants whose criminal appeals were heard yesterday by Associate Judge W. Earl Cobey in Allegany County Circuit Court found their fines double what they had been assessed in Trial Magistrates Court, and other defendants found themselves required to pay higher Circuit Court costs.

Deputy State's Attorney Donald W. Mason prosecuted these cases, which were heard in the auxiliary court room.

Delbert Walter Martin, 32, of Mt. Savage, was fined $200 and costs by Judge Cobey on a charge of exceeding 70 miles per hour. Martin had been arrested by Trooper R. E. Alderton on State Route 36 between Corriganville and Mt. Savage on July 12. He had been fined $100 and costs July 22 by Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt and appealed. Trooper Alderton testified he paced Martin at speeds greater than 90 miles per hour. Martin was represented by Ronald C. Brubaker, attorney.

Other Motor Cases

Albert Allen Klink, 19, of Frostburg, had a similar experience. He was fined $50 by Judge Cobey on a charge of "speed greater than reasonable and proper" following an accident on June 16 at the intersection of Stoyer and Center streets in Frostburg. He had been fined only $25 on June 22 by Magistrate Frank P. Kelly following his arrest by Frostburg Officer Edward Bevans. Klink also was required to pay $25 Circuit Court costs compared with only $4 in Trial Magistrates Court. He too was represented by Mr. Brubaker.

A $10 fine again was imposed yesterday upon Robert Paul Murray, 28, of Salisbury, Pa., when his appeal on a reckless driving charge was heard by Judge Cobey. He had been arrested July 18 by Frostburg Officer Joseph Dormio following an accident there. He had been fined $10 later the same day by Magistrate Edward P. Flanigan. His court costs were upped from $4 to $20. Murray was represented by Edward J. Ryan.

Another appellant who fared better yesterday was Irvin Allen Buskirk of Frostburg. He was acquitted by Judge Cobey of reckless driving. He had been fined $5 by Magistrate Flanigan April 25 following a minor accident in Frostburg. He was represented by Mr. Brubaker.

Case Continued

One appeal which was continued by Judge Cobey involved Ronald Leo Anderson of Cumberland who had been charged with non-support of his wife and minor son. On July 10 he was found guilty by Juvenile Court Magistrate Louis A. Fatkin, who suspended the sentence on condition that Anderson support his wife and son. He appealed. Judge Cobey continued the case pending further investigation into the facts of the case. Anderson also was represented by Mr. Brubaker.

Three other defendants dismissed their appeals but were faced with the problem of paying additional court costs.

One who dropped his appeal was Roy J. Jeffreys of Cumberland who had been fined $6 June 12 by Magistrate Flanigan on a charge of failing to drive to right center of highway. Another was Raymond Charles Fuller of Corriganville, who had been found guilty August 9 by Magistrate Weatherholt on a charge of operating a motorcycle without a license and was fined $50 and costs.

The other dismissal by the demendant involved Sara M. Borgman of Lonaconing, who had been found guilty June 24 by Magistrate Ray Miller in Lonaconing on a charge of reckless driving and was fined $5.

A charge against Ronald Green, who appealed from an order by Magistrate Fatkin to support his wife and children, was dismissed by the state at the request of Mrs. Green, wife.

College Faculty Airs Tension

AAUP Chapter, Student Group Hold Closed-Door Meetings

About half the faculty members of Frostburg State College last night attended a closed-door session to discuss mounting tension over the college administration's handling of student and faculty relations, but no one would say whether any action was taken.

Edwin V. Holland, president of the Frostburg State College chapter of the American Association of University Professors, apologetically told waiting reporters at the end of the 90-minute meeting that the chapter had agreed to make no statement immediately.

Before the meeting Mr. Holland said the paid-up membership of the chapter as of Sunday was 42. A total of 49 faculty members attended the meeting, however, representing about half the college faculty.

The executive council of the student government also met last night to discuss the resignation of the president of the student government, who charged that pressure had been brought to bear on him by the college president, R. Bowen Hardesty.

The student executive council said it would make no report of last night's meeting until an assembly tomorrow.

In recent weeks, some faculty members have accused the administration of exercising an authoritarian control over the content of courses.

Unrest On Campus

Reporters who have visited the college campus recently have found unrest among students and faculty members alike.

Students and faculty members who have talked with newsmen think the present difficulties at the college are related in some manner with the discharge several months ago of four teachers who wanted to use controversial novels in their classes.

On Saturday, Jerry Howie of Washington resigned as president of the student government, charging that Mr. Hardesty had brought pressure on him.

Dissidents among faculty and students charge that few dare to criticize the administration openly. They claim that campus police have hauled students before the president for criticizing the administration.

The campus is full of anonymously mimeographed broadsides against the administration, and critical notices have been posted, unsigned, on bulletin boards.

Several sources reported that about 20 students are on probation for alleged "attitudinal" shortcomings, and are required to report to Mr. Hardesty each month.

It also has been charged that faculty "stooges" have been planted in dormitories. At an administrative assembly last week Mr. Hardesty denied this.

A long-time faculty member who asked not to be identified for fear of reprisal voiced the opinion that the administration is so preoccupied with the objectives of its much-publicized 10-year plan leading toward a university that it has lost touch with students and their needs.

In general, however, students are enthusiastic about the present growth of the college and hope it will continue. The school is in the midst of transition from its former designation as a state teachers college to its new role as a liberal arts college.

Faculty's Charges

Faculty criticism centers mostly on these accusations against the administration:

—A freshman course guide was altered without consultation of faculty members.

—The president has appointed department heads without allowing the faculty to have a voice in their selection as recommended by the American Association of University Professors.

—The new "Great Books" program was adopted without faculty-wide consultation, and the so-called "policy development council" which approved the program is a rubber-stamp committee for the administration.

Members of the faculty discussing the tension with a reporter repeatedly asked not to be identified because of possible consequences.

About 80 per cent of the students interviewed at random used the word "fear" to describe the atmosphere on campus. One said he was still on disciplinary probation as a result of demonstrations last spring over release of the four controversial faculty members.

Professor Asks Board To Intervene

Dr. Howard Charges Lack Of Freedom

The senior member of the teaching faculty at Frostburg State College yesterday accused the college president of restriction of freedom of speech and press.

Dr. Dorothy G. Howard, professor of English, asked the State College Board of Trustees to step in and resolve the "rapidly deteriorating" relationship between the students and the president, R. Bowen Hardesty.

Dr. Howard, who has taught at Frostburg State for 20 years, served as English department chairman from 1944 to 1956 when she resigned the chairmanship. She remains as professor of English.

Her statement for publication follows:

"The past is gone. My interest is in the present and future of Frostburg State College. I am deeply concerned about the personal and academic welfare of our students; about current administrative censorship of textbooks (by banning and by prescription).

"I am deeply distressed about administrative attempts to throttle freedom of speech, freedom of press and even freedom of thought among both students and faculty. And further, my doubts increase that we can become a fully accredited college.

"It is my opinion that a drastic and rapid change in the campus atmosphere must take place before we can reasonably hope for full accreditation — a change in the direction of accepted standard administrational policies as set forth by the national accrediting associations and by the American Association of University Professors.

"Over a period of 20 years more than 2,000 sons and daughters of Maryland citizens have sat in my college classes in Frostburg. They have always been mature, responsible young adults, courteous and respectful to their teachers, to each other and to visitors on campus. Visitors from all over the world have praised them for those virtues.

"The relationship between the college president and the student body is rapidly deteriorating to a state of desperation and chaos beyond the president's control. It is to be hoped that the State Board of Trustees will investigate and act. Time is running out. And it is to be hoped that parents of our students will find out, first hand, the conditions under which their sons and daughters live and attempt to get an education. This college belongs to the people of Maryland and the administration is an agent of the people."

$360 In Fines Levied By Judge For Assaults

Gives Warning About Violence

Fines totaling $360 plus court costs were levied yesterday afternoon by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County upon six defendants convicted of assault in disturbances in the vicinity of Sell and Company, food distributors at 820 Lafayette Avenue.

A labor dispute between the company and Local 453, Teamsters Union, has been in process since July 8.

After imposing the fines upon five members of Local 453 and Ralph F. Sell Jr., manager of the local wholesale food firm, Judge Harris concluded with an explicit warning.

More Than Fines

"If there is a repetition of assults or any violence occurs, the defendants will not be able to reach in their pockets to settle the penalty," Judge Harris warned.

"As long as picketing is done in a law-abiding manner, the court will take no action," Judge Harris added.

"If they are not conducted according to the law, more severe penalty will have to be meted out to preclude any more violation of the law," he concluded.

After three days of trials in which he heard 12 charges of assault and another of disturbing the peace, Judge Harris returned guilty verdicts in eight cases and not guilty in the others.

James House of Elizabeth Street was fined $100—$50 each on charges of assulting Ralph F. Sell Jr. and Richard Shaw, a Sell employe, on August 21. Harry Stewart, 701 Baltimore Avenue, was fined $50 on a charge of assulting Ralph W. Collins, another Sell employe, on August 30, and an additional $10 on a charge of disturbing the peace on the same day.

Four Others Fined

Four others were fined $50 each for assault. They include Gene Krampf, 715 Greenway Avenue, and Donald Crites, RD 4, Oldtown Road, both convicted of assaulting Ralph F. Sell Jr. on July 24, and Ernest Crites, 4 East Roberts Street, convicted of assaulting Harry Folk Jr., another Sell employe, September 13.

Ralph F. Sell Jr. also was fined $50 on a charge of assaulting C. E. Stutzman, business agent for Local 453, on October 15. He was acquitted on a second charge of assaulting Robert Wright, Pine Ridge Road, also on October 15.

Four teamsters also were acquitted of assault by Judge Harris in the trial heard last Thursday and Friday and yesterday.

Freed of assault were Bernard A. Harris, 483 Eastern Avenue, whose case was heard yesterday; Arthur Harris, Eckhart; Robert Crites, Cresap Park, and Robert Wright, Pine Ridge Road, whose trial ended last Friday.

State's Attorney James S. Getty prosecuted the cases with the assistance of Deputy State's Attorney Donald W. Mason, when the latter was not occupied with other appeals. George R. Hughes Jr. was attorney for all of the Local 453 members and William H. Geppert represented Sell.

Mr. Geppert was not present yesterday afternoon when the fine was imposed upon Sell because he was serving as an honorary pallbearer at the funeral of W. Wallace McKaig.

Of the teamsters fined yesterday only Donald Crites and Ernest Crites had been employed by Sell.

Fire Burns Woods Near Mt. Savage

Frame Dwelling Is Threatened

A two-story frame dwelling occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Rice was threatened by a forest fire which burned about 12 acres of wooded area yesterday afternoon near Mt. Savage.

Volunteer firemen of Mt. Savage, Corriganville, and LaVale joined personnel of the Department of Forests and Parks to bring the fire under control.

Fire Chief Clarence O'Neal of the volunteer fire company at Mt. Savage said the fire of unknown origin burned from 12 to 15 acres of land in the vicinity of the Mountain Road toward Bald Knob.

The flames came within about 40 feet of the rear of the Rice home. The volunteer fire companies were back at their stations last night, although forestry camp boys were schceduled to patrol the area last night in the event of a flare-up of the fire.

Indian tanks were carried by the firemen and water was hauled to the scene in trucks of the Mt. Savage, Corriganville and LaVale fire companies as well as in equipment of the forestry department.

About 30 men responded to the fire which was reported early yesterday afternoon.

Unusual Case Of Shoplifting Brings Fine

Finzel Woman Got Refund For Goods

A woman who resides in the Finzel area yesterday was found guilty of three counts of shoplifting in an unusual variation of the charge.

The woman, Mrs. Anna M. Brode, 38, of RD 2, Frostburg, was found guilty by Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt. She was fined $100 and given a three-month suspended jail term on condition she make restitution to the Town and Country Store where the incidents occurred.

Mrs. Brode pleaded guilty to getting merchandise in the store and then taking it to the store's courtesy desk where she obtained a refund in cash for the articles. The three offenses took place over a period of time since last December and the total amount involved was $99.

Dominick V. Calemine, manager of the Town and Country Store, preferred the charges.

Magistrate Weatherholt asked Mr. Calemine if it wasn't unusual to give a cash refund to a person for returned merchandise if the person did not have a sales ticket. Mr. Calemine said no, since it was the policy of the company to give refunds without question as long as the merchandise did come from the Town and Country Store. Mr. Calemine said the store's policy was based on the idea that most people are honest.

Detective Capt. James E. Van of the City Police Department investigated the case and presented evidence at the hearing. He was assisted by Detective Harry Iser.

CUF Campaign Helps Many Youth Services

The fields of health and social services for the needy are two big facets of work done by agencies participating in County United Fund. No less important, however, is the field of youth work as several CUF agencies go about combatting juvenile delinquency through juvenile decency programs.

It is the youth service aspect of County United Fund that reaches practically into every home in Allegany and Mineral counties where children are to be found.

Among the largest agencies of County United Fund, now in the midst of its seventh campaign, are three groups primarily directed at developing responsible citizens of tomorrow.

These are Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, Shawnee Council Girls Scouts of America, and the YMCA. With ever-increasing youth memberships in each organization, there are relatively few families whose children do not benefit from County United Fund in some way or other.

Giving leadership to character building and physical training programs, these agencies touch thousands of area youngsters seeking guidance in their growing up process. Supervised programs with trained and experienced leaders provide these thousands of children with the guidance they seek.

The summer camp of Boy Scouts at Camp Potomac, individual troop, Explorer Scout and Cub pack activities, Camp Tioga, day camps and the many programs of Girl Scouts, church league basketball, swimming, Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y, day camps and all the recreational opportunities offered by YMCA are but a few of the youth services rendered.

American Red Cross, of which there are three chapters affiliated with County United Fund, comes into the field of youth service with its learn-to-swim, water safety and first aid courses, in addition to programs for servicemen and their families.

Handicapped children of the area, other than receiving educational and training assistance through County United Fund, also receive recreational and camping opportunities with their summer sessions at Camp Potomac.

Salvation Army, likewise, sponsors varied and extensive youth programs with the youngsters benefitted numbering in the thousands.

All 28 participating health, social service and youth agencies are dependent upon the CUF campaign now in progress, for which a $394,533 goal has been established.

Two Teenagers Face Charges In West Va.

Two Cumberland teenagers yesterday afternoon appeared before Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey in Allegany County Circuit Court and agreed to waive extradition to West Virginia to face a charge of breaking into a Mineral County business establishment late Sunday night.

At first Shirley Jean Dawson, 17, of Paca Street, and Arnold McManus, 16, of Lee Street, hesitated about signing the necessary waiver, but eventually did after conferring with Attorney Louis A. Fatkin.

West Virginia State Trooper D. L. Elmore said the two teenagers, along with Mrs. Anna McManus Myers, about 35, of Lee Street, and Paul William Warnick, 20, of Mt. Savage, are accused of breaking into Crites Trading Post No. 2 through a rear window and stealing goods worth more than $50 including several guns, cigarettes and soft drinks. This place is on Route 46 about four miles east of Keyser.

The Myers woman and Warnick were arrested early Monday by Keyser police. State Police picked up to the teenagers in Cumberland later in the day.

Sweitzer pleaded guilty October 11 to larceny of $1,770 between May 1 and July 1 from Mrs. Susan Clayton, his great grandmother, 930 Center Street, LaVale. Sweitzer had been remanded to jail after his guilty plea pending an investigation by James E. Lewis, probation and parole officer.

Fines Doubled For Drivers By Judge Cobey

Appeals Heard In Circuit Court

Two defendants whose criminal appeals were heard yesterday by Associate Judge W. Earl Cobey in Allegany County Circuit Court found their fines double what they had been assessed in Trial Magistrates Court, and other defendants found themselves required to pay higher Circuit Court costs.

Deputy State's Attorney Donald W. Mason prosecuted these cases, which were heard in the auxiliary court room.

Delbert Walter Martin, 32, of Mt. Savage, was fined $200 and costs by Judge Cobey on a charge of exceeding 70 miles per hour. Martin had been arrested by Trooper R. E. Alderton on State Route 36 between Corriganville and Mt. Savage on July 12. He had been fined $100 and costs July 22 by Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt and appealed. Trooper Alderton testified he paced Martin at speeds greater than 90 miles per hour. Martin was represented by Ronald C. Brubaker, attorney.

Other Motor Cases

Albert Allen Klink, 19, of Frostburg, had a similar experience. He was fined $50 by Judge Cobey on a charge of "speed greater than reasonable and proper" following an accident on June 16 at the intersection of Stoyer and Center streets in Frostburg. He had been fined only $25 on June 22 by Magistrate Frank P. Kelly following his arrest by Frostburg Officer Edward Bevans. Klink also was required to pay $25 Circuit Court costs compared with only $4 in Trial Magistrates Court. He too was represented by Mr. Brubaker.

A $10 fine again was imposed yesterday upon Robert Paul Murray, 28, of Salisbury, Pa., when his appeal on a reckless driving charge was heard by Judge Cobey. He had been arrested July 18 by Frostburg Officer Joseph Dormio following an accident there. He had been fined $10 later the same day by Magistrate Edward P. Flanigan. His court costs were upped from $4 to $20. Murray was represented by Edward J. Ryan.

Another appellant who fared better yesterday was Irvin Allen Buskirk of Frostburg. He was acquitted by Judge Cobey of reckless driving. He had been fined $5 by Magistrate Flanigan April 25 following a minor accident in Frostburg. He was represented by Mr. Brubaker.

Case Continued

One appeal which was continued by Judge Cobey involved Ronald Leo Anderson of Cumberland who had been charged with non-support of his wife and minor son. On July 10 he was found guilty by Juvenile Court Magistrate Louis A. Fatkin, who suspended the sentence on condition that Anderson support his wife and son. He appealed. Judge Cobey continued the case pending further investigation into the facts of the case. Anderson also was represented by Mr. Brubaker.

Three other defendants dismissed their appeals but were faced with the problem of paying additional court costs.

One who dropped his appeal was Roy J. Jeffreys of Cumberland who had been fined $6 June 12 by Magistrate Flanigan on a charge of failing to drive to right center of highway. Another was Raymond Charles Fuller of Corriganville, who had been found guilty August 9 by Magistrate Weatherholt on a charge of operating a motorcycle without a license and was fined $50 and costs.

The other dismissal by the demendant involved Sara M. Borgman of Lonaconing, who had been found guilty June 24 by Magistrate Ray Miller in Lonaconing on a charge of reckless driving and was fined $5.

A charge against Ronald Green, who appealed from an order by Magistrate Fatkin to support his wife and children, was dismissed by the state at the request of Mrs. Green, wife.
